Council balks at lease agreement with P & C Sports

Several delegations approached council at their regular meeting on April 27 at the council chambers.

Ron Powell and Jerry Chapman attended council to get the contract between P and C Sports and the arena signed with two changes: 1) the name is changed from P and C Skate Sharpening to P and C Sports; 2) the addition of the five word clause...and the sale of related items.

In a presentation to council, Mr. Powell stated that he understood that a majority of the arena board members as well as Huntingdon Council and Madoc Township Council had agreed to the changes. Deputy-revee Barton then said that when this lease was given to Mr. Powell, the instructions were to look over the lease and come back to council with the proposals. Mr. Powell replied that, at the arena board meeting, it was agreed that he was to make the changes and get back to Mrs. Grace Tough.

Reeve Pigden then read sections of the arena board minutes of April 20, 1982. After hearing the arena board minutes, Mr. Powell said the only thing missing was that he was instructed to get back to Mrs. Tough. Deputy-revee Barton then asked Mr. Powell if he was disagreeing with the discussion they had had about the Recreation Centres Act. At this point, the clerk was asked to reproduce a copy of the Recreation Centres Act for Mr. Powell. Reeve Pigden read from the act as Mr. Powell was given his copy.

In response, Mr. Powell handed out copies of the arena board advertisement that appeared in The Madoc Review newspaper on March 25 and April 1, 1982, for tenders for the supply of equipment and the operation of a skate sharpening enterprise. He then handed out copies of his proposal in answer to the advertisement.

Mr. Powell said his proposal was in the hands of the arena board at the time the advertisements appeared in the paper and a member of the arena board asked him to attend the December meeting and that the board would be fools not to act on the proposal. He stated he was asked how soon he could set up and he replied that the machines were in hot demand and he wasn't sure how quickly he could get one. Because his father works at CCM, Mr. Powell was able to get one of the skate sharpening machines within 23 days at which point, according to Mr. Powell, one of the arena board members told him the arena was now complete.

When asked by Deputy-revee Barton which member of the board made the statement, Mr. Powell replied, "Bill Lahey." It was then pointed out to Mr. Powell that Bill Lahey was not a member of the arena board.

Reeve Pigden then asked Mr. Powell if he said someone on the arena board had given permission to put the machine in and Mr. Powell said it was unanimous. Reeve Pigden said this was not in the minutes and Mr. Powell agreed.

Reeve Pigden then said that the arena board had no authority or approval to authorize the operation of such a business within the arena and he related the procedural detail that anything outside of the budget requires the approval of all three municipalities and that Madoc Village acts as administrative head of the arena but all three councils must approve any decision. Reeve Pigden then suggested that maybe council would like to go into caucus.

Mr. Powell said he still had a few things to say. He said he was caught in the middle of a power struggle and that he was being made the scapegoat. He said he had invested approximately $6,000 into the business and that he was being asked for two months with no had comments about the operation. He asked if what council said was in the Community Centres Act was true, why did they make up the lease for skate sharpening and not related items? Reeve Pigden answered that the document was a proposed lease and that council was not involved in a power struggle. He said Madoc Village council was taking the lead to establish the regulations. In response to a question by Mr. Powell about his time and expense invested, Reeve Pigden stated the Act says the municipalities are not liable for things done by the committee which were not within their authority.

At this point, council went into caucus to discuss the issue. When the public was allowed back into the council chambers, council passed a motion by Deputy-revee Barton and Councillor Lynda Matchett that, regarding the proposed lease for a skate sharpening room, council must seek approval of the minister for: a) structural changes which have been made b) must seek approval from the minister for any lease of a portion of arena property c) must consult the other two councils for resolution approval d) council will have to obtain advice regarding the board not being authorized to enter into any agreement other than a refreshment concession under the act.

On the sale of related items, council opposed the sale of related items. Until such time as council feels these questions have been satisfactorily answered, we helicopter and an untrained shepherd dog were taking part in the search, which was still under way on Monday. See more pictures on page 3 and 22.

SUPI farm to become fox farm

In a statement in response to a question by Jim Pollock, MPP for Hastings Peterborough, Dennis Timbrell announced at Queens Park this week that SUPI Farms outside of Madoc, would switch from a raccoon dog fur farm to a fox farm after December of this year.

The statement, according to Pollock, read "The federal government has made a tentative agreement with SUPI Farms that the animals will be pelted out from December 1-31, 1982. The government will try to re-establish them in a fox farm operation."

Mr. and Mrs. Helenius, the managers of the farm near Madoc, were informed of the decision on Friday by the owner. They told The Review that they did not like the decision, but they must do it. "We are sorry (about the decision) because these animals are so easy to take care of."

They expect to stay on the farm and make the switch to foxes although they are apprehensive about the switch. They say there is much they must learn about fox farming but they hope they can make the switch.

Wayne Snow, inspector for fur farms in Ontario, verified the statement by telephone on Monday. Tentative agreement according to Mr. Snow simply means that the agreements had been reached verbally; but it has yet to be transferred to a legal agreement. He said the federal government came up with a compensation package from undesirable animals to desirable animals with no monetary loss. "They're not making any money, but they're not losing any money either."

he told The Review, he said the people were being compensated for general damages and were being given some income security.

Snow added, "We expect the people will continue to ranch fur on the property if we can get the garbage dump problems solved as well." He said an official news release would likely be given out this week or in the near future.

The raccoon dogs were imported legally into Canada two years ago but have since been banned for importation into Canada.

Since that time, naturalist and agricultural groups have been lobbying to have the animals killed so that none could escape into the wild. The farm in Madoc was sometimes described as the Kingston Penitentiary because the animals were so securely housed.

Community Corrections model for others

John Bliton, the director of the John Howard Society of Waterloo County, was the guest speaker at the Centre Hastings Community Corrections Organization last Thursday night, and he had nothing but good things to say about the local organization. In his words, the Centre Hastings area is acting as a model for other areas and he was very pleased with the way this area was succeeding after only one year.

Bliton has specialized in corrections services. He received his BA at Carleton University in 1972 and went from there to Millhaven as a classification officer. In 1973, he went to Joyceville medium security detention centre as a classification officer and then went back to the University of Ottawa. In 1976, he received his Masters in Applied Criminology which included a one-year stint as an Ottawa police officer and one year as a probation officer.

After graduating, he went to Alberta, where he became the supervisor of provincial parole for southern Alberta. In 1978, he was appointed director of Midway Correctional Centre, a minimum security institution. He moved on to his present position in 1980.

Having all of this experience would make one think Bliton is totally behind Canada's present system of corrections, but he finds many weaknesses in the system, as he was quick to point out at the meeting. He called the system "over-worked and often abused."

Letter to the editor

Dear Editor,

We are writing this letter as a very disappointed and discouraged group of parents. For the past few years we have devoted our time, efforts, imagination and money to the advancement of this community's children in the way of the Madoc and District Figure Skating Club.

We feel our club has come a long way from the early days. Not only do we have high level senior skaters to be proud of, we have excellent facilities. Our arena is one of the best! Our ice surface has a reputation for its quality among the other figure skating clubs in the area. Our recent Ice Carnivals drew a packed house to the arena and has been said to be one of the best, for a small club, in Eastern Ontario. We have introduced and successfully run the Power Skating program, which has been highly beneficial to our up and coming hockey players. This year, as a club, we have had great financial success. That in itself is a great feat as our yearly operating expenses are over $14,000.

Next season held many hopes for this executive. Our senior skaters were finally going to have the opportunity for private lessons, which by the way is the norm in almost every other club in Ontario.

We were going to open the next season with a healthy bank account, which has never been the case before. Our membership rates were still to be far below any other comparable figure skating club.

With all these hopes, it saddens and maddens us to announce the closing of the Madoc and District Figure Skating Club.

It appears there are not enough interested parents willing to devote some of their time and energy to the continuation of this club for their children. As a club we can only operate through volunteers. Volunteers who are devoted and willing to give encouragement and to pitch in when necessary. We the executive are only a small number and we cannot operate the skating club as a babysitting service. We need the physical and physiological support of the parents.

The saddest part of all is the loss to our skaters. Whether they are the innocent beginners, recreational skaters, or serious skaters, the opportunity for them to participate in the sport of Figure Skating is no longer available in our community!

Happy Wanderers

The Happy Wanderers Senior Citizens Club 473 of Madoc enjoyed another pot luck dinner with 37 members present. A business meeting followed the dinner with Mrs. Burnice Clarke presiding for Mrs. Maude Deline. O Canada was sung followed by a prayer in memory of Ogle Devolin, a prominent member of the club who will be missed by all.

Mr. Helen Wannamaker read the minutes. A thank you card was received by Maude Deline from Mrs. Lavina Hamilton for inviting her to our meeting. The Zone 18 meeting will be held at Ameliasburgh. The Senior Citizens picnic will be July 5 at Wellington.

Mrs. Alma Blackburn gave a talk on The New Horizons, ways to make money for the club. Alma visited Bloomfield and Marmora clubs and brought back new ideas. She also read 3 poems. Stop and Think, Stand Up Strong and The Art of Staying Young. Burnice thanked the bus conveners for an enjoyable trip to Stirling Shoe Factory and Belleville to shop. Coston Prarniak gave a report on bus trips May 31 to Quinte Mall for the show May Time.

On May 27, there will be a trip to Peterborough, which leaves the Senior Citizens apartments at 7:45 and 8 a.m. at the church. On June 26-27, there will be a trip to Kitchener and Waterloo. Members were asked to help out at the Big Brothers and Sisters offices and were thanked for their work.

The Drop In Center at the Legion every other Wednesday will continue through the summer. The door prize was won by Mrs. Vie Johnson.

The meeting closed with The Lords Prayer.

Four delegations attend council

st advise against any amendment to skate sharpening etc. The motion was tried. Mr. Powell asked a copy of the motion and a copy of the by-law. Mr. Reese advised that it could be typed and a copy made available. Later in the week, it was announced that a public hearing, open to any and all interested parties, would be held at the Town Hall to discuss the Madoc and District Recreation Centre. The meeting will take place Thursday, May 6, at 8 p.m. and is being sponsored by the Madoc Village Council.

Another delegation was led by Neil Carney of the County Planning Department regarding the TD bank zone amendment application. Mr. Carney presented the by-law with supporting data and discussed the application and by-law circulation procedures. Mr. Carney gave council a sample by-law that could be used in this situation and he called it an individual, unique by-law that exempts the bank from two sections of the existing by-law. It would exempt the bank from the section that says a business can use only 80 per cent of its site for building and it would also exempt the bank from any parking requirements.

The sample by-law would be distributed to every owner within 400 feet of the bank property and there would be 21 days in which to oppose the by-law or allow it to be passed. If there are objections and if they cannot be worked out any other way, an OMB hearing would be held in the village with all objectors asked to attend.

Mrs. Kay Peacock told Mr. Carney that at an OMB hearing for the TD Bank, the OMB said the bank did not need to come back with a similar proposal because it was not valid because of the coverage. Mr. Carney said that case law says minor variance can completely obliterate zone regulations, the courts have ruled 100 per cent coverage is legitimate.

Mr. Wayne Hagerman asked, assuming the bank wants to expand, if properties on either side are for sale, how would that affect the situation? Mr. Carney said every piece of property is unique and he personally couldn't see how adding on would hurt anything.

Council then gave by-law 1088 its first reading, went into committee of the whole with Mr. Carney present and, when they came out of committee of the whole, they gave the by-law its second and third reading and passed it.

A delegation from the Madoc Public Library also attended council to distribute their proposed budget and also to remind council that they seldom come to the village for money. The delegation asked for a $1 per capita levy, based on 1,274 population, which was requested because of rising fuel and book costs. A motion was passed that the proposed budget go to the finance committee with a recommendation of a per capita levy of $1 to be attached.

A delegation from the Madoc Swimming Pool committee also attended asking permission from council to investigate the old arena for a possible site for a pool. They requested permission to possibly drill a test hole on the site. A motion was passed that council had no objection to the committee looking at the property.

OTHER BUSINESS

The Madoc Legion Auxiliary requested approval from council to hold a parade from the Legion to the Cenotaph on May 15. Permission was given.

A by-law to change to intersection of Baldwin and Livingston Streets to a four-way stop for three months after which time the stop signs on Baldwin Street will be removed, was given three readings and passed.

Councillor Matchett reported that Mr. Sharpe would like to look after the ball park canteen, assist with grass cutting and daily maintenance. The village foreman and Mr. Sharpe are to work out the details for grass cutting. Mr. Sharpe will get the canteen receipts, turn the rental receipts over to the clerk and he is to get back any money left over after the hydro is paid. This motion was passed and it was also decided that the playground at the park should be checked for safety and that funds be allotted for any needed repairs.

Guest knew topic from experience

He didn't like the term rehabilitation and he also released some information on the Scared Straight program in the United States. "While initial response was that the program was working very well, it was later revealed that there were actually many more offences from the Scared Straight group than the other controlled group and a huge amount of psychological damage to the kids."

"What we have been trying to do has been alienating to everyone with the public and the victims completely forgotten. We've relied on the police and the experts to handle the problems. That's why I congratulate you on the work you are doing here. It helps get people involved again."

In response to his comments about the system, Andre Philpot, a lawyer in Marmora, noted that present reports are given to judges but, after they have sentenced someone, they may never hear what actually happened to the offender. Philpot recommended a post-sentence report. "The judges never really get any feedback from the system about what happened to the kid after he was sentenced." Bliton agreed, but added that the offender is the last one to receive any consideration under our present system.

He told of a similar corrections system in his area to the one that was being run in Centre Hastings and he said he heard one novel idea from that group, an idea he feels may be way ahead of its time. According to their suggestion, anyone sent to prison from Hastings County would be a direct cost to the county. In other words, we would pay directly for our failures, thus we would try to eliminate those failures by our present community corrections program or get at the base of the problem so that crimes are not committed.

Diane Bonter was given a lot of praise over the evening for her efforts in this program. To this point, 80 people have been touched by this program and everyone was surprised by this result. The organizers have worked hard on the program and it looks like it will become a model for other communities.

They are always looking for interested people to get involved in the program and would be very happy to better inform anyone who has questions about the program. Mrs. Bonter can often be contacted at the office in the village offices in Madoc.

New program to aid unemployed mine workers

A new federal-provincial job creation program to assist unemployed workers in the Ontario mining industry has been announced by Natural Resources Minister Alan Pope and Lloyd Axworthy, Federal Employment and Immigration Minister.

The program was initially developed in conjunction with the Ontario Ministry of Labour and is a bridging measure that will allow companies to rehire skilled workers now receiving unemployment insurance and to keep them working until local economies recover," Mr. Pope said.

The minister was able to take advantage of Section 58 of The Unemployment Insurance Act to create new job opportunities.

A spokesman for the Ontario ministry, Dr. Michael Klugman, Regional Mines Co-ordinator, Kempenville, said a detailed announcement on the program would be released this week. He added that there would "definitely be some involvement in the Mar-mora-Madoc-Havelock area."

Companies, municipalities and other organizations qualifying for the program will be able to offer unemployed workers an enhanced pay package. Under a special section of The Unemployment Insurance Act, workers can receive 25 per cent more than their allowable benefit. In addition, Ontario, through the Ministry of Natural Resources, will contribute $60 per week plus a benefit package including 100 per cent of OHIP, WCB and CPP.

"We must maintain the health of our many small resource-dependent communities and ease the hardship of these difficult times," Mr. Pope stressed.

"Retaining skilled workers within the communities and providing companies with short-term programs that will have long-term benefits assures some measure of well-being until the economic prognosis is better—it is to be hoped within the next six months," he said.

"My staff have initiated preliminary discussions concerning employment opportunities with the Regional Municipality of Sudbury, Inco Ltd. in Sudbury, Pamour Porcupine Ltd. in Timmins, Madawaska Mines Ltd. in Bancroft and Umex Mines of Pickle Lake and they will be approaching other companies over the next few weeks," Mr. Pope added.

Projects allowable under the program will include fencing and capping of abandoned mine openings, mine tailings rehabilitation and other projects related to land reclamation. Other project ideas that meet the criteria of retaining skilled workers in the community and provide other long-term benefits to the industry, will also be considered.

The program provides an opportunity for a significant reduction to the backlog of rehabilitation work, thus eliminating potential safety hazards.

"A project to re-employ geologists and draftsmen is also in the planning stage," Mr. Pope added.

Cancer research

Many areas of research look promising for the future - work in restoring radiation sensitivity to cancer cells, identifying populations at high risk for cancer, and studying viruses as possible causes of disease. Such programs need steady financial re-fuelling if answers are to be found. Support the Canadian Cancer Society's annual campaign in April.

Cancer research has developed the Cobalt-60 beam therapy unit, the Betatron and the linear accelerator. All play a vital role in the treatment of cancer. But such technical research would come to a halt without your support. Give generously when a Canadian Cancer Society volunteer comes to your door.

Protect yourself against cancer in two ways: know the "Seven Steps to Health" and contribute generously to the Canadian Cancer Society, which through research and public education is working to prevent cancer. There Is An Answer To Cancer ... And You Are Helping Us Find It.

Tulip time in Ottawa

By BEATRICE LAHAM

Tulips, tulips and more tulips... free outdoor activities for all... that's the festival of Spring in the Ottawa region, a festival which has recently been added among the top 16 tourist events in Canada.

This year, there will be a historic touch to the festival because 1982 marks the 100th anniversary of the Rideau Canal. From May 16 to 24, the whole National Capital Region will be celebrating.

Ottawa has been called North America's tulip capital, with its many-hued carpet gracing the Rideau Canal, Parliament Hill, Dow's Lake and the Experimental Farm.

The National Capital Commission has planted millions of tulips, and many Ottawans have followed its example and their countless flower-beds add to the display. Along the Ottawa River, daffodils mingle with the tulips, and crocuses bloom all over the city.

This floral symphony does not pass unnoticed after a long winter. The American Bus Association recently rated the Festival of Spring among the 100 North American tourist events of national and international renown. Only 16 of those events are Canadian, and the Festival of Spring is the only one mentioned from the capital region.

In May, Ottawa plays host to many tourists, and the occupancy rate in the hotels rises to 96 per cent, mainly on account of package tours and city sightseeing bus tours. However, the festival's real tourist attraction is the tulip display which is unique on this continent.

Ottawa's love affair with tulips dates back to the Second World War when Princess Juliana, the future Queen of the Netherlands, took refuge in the Canadian capital. In 1945, to express her gratitude to the city and its people for their hospitality during those years, she gave 100,000 tulip bulbs to Ottawa. Those tulips from Holland were immediately planted on Parliament Hill and along the Canal. Princess Juliana was so moved by that gesture that she decided to make another gift of 10,000 bulbs a year to commemorate the birth of her daughter, Princess Margaret, in Ottawa during those few years of exile. The rest of the tulips planted by the NCC are bought in Holland.

The Festival of Spring also offers a range of outdoor activities to please the young and not-so-young.

This year, the festival will open with the Eighth Annual National Capital Marathon. Thousands of runners will discover the beauties of the capital as they follow a 42-km (26-mile) route which takes them from Carleton University, along Colonel By Drive, past Parliament Hill and along the Ottawa River Parkway.

The less athletic will be able to stroll in wonder around one of the largest open-air craft markets in Canada, a few minutes' walk from Parliament Hill in Major's Hill Park. There will be something for everyone as a hundred or so Quebec and Ontario artisans display porcelain, pottery, woodcarved articles, jewelry, weaving, paintings and many other original creations.

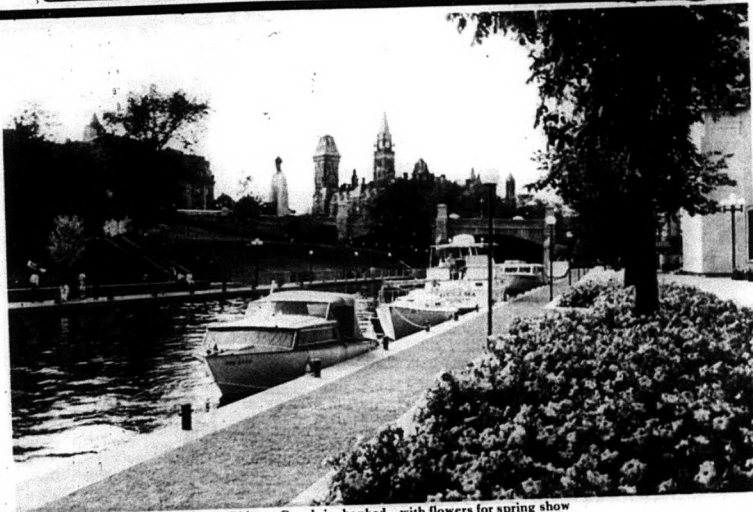

There will also be free entertainment and films on Major's Hill Park for everyone.

This eighth Festival of Spring will coincide with the annual opening of the Rideau Canal which will be celebrating its 150th anniversary, so ceremonies of a historical nature should be expected. As a matter of fact, Colonel By first opened the Canal in 1832. One hundred and fifty years later, the festival offers an opportunity to do him homage. Aqualude, on Dow's Lake, will offer a series of activities to commemorate that anniversary.

A flotilla on the canal will have a historic bent. The boats will be decorated, the people on board dressed in period costume, and there will be square dancing - in short, Aqualude will take the public back to the days of Colonel By.

This festival celebrating the coming of spring is a real community celebration. The entire capital region is taking part in the festivities. Two neighboring cities, Nepean and Kanata, will each have their "day", and for its day, Kanata is preparing a balloon race.

The organizers hope to attract between 400,000 and 500,000 people.

What do most winners do?

You've just won a major lottery prize. What happens next? If you're like most big winners, life returns to normal very quickly, says a recent Ontario Lottery Corporation survey. Most prize money is banked or invested and the vast majority of winners keep on working.

The survey results support what we've always believed: that Ontario winners treat their good fortune very sensibly," says D. Norman Morris, president of the Corporation. "Generally speaking, winners don't change their lifestyle dramatically. They continue to live in the same house and keep the same job."

Highlights of the results are as follows:

- 97.3 per cent of respondents received fair and courteous treatment from the news media.
- 89 per cent were not solicited for donations and 70 per cent of those who were, did not find the solicitations a problem.
- 95.8 per cent of respondents did not give up their jobs.
- 82.5 per cent banked their winnings or invested them in securities, bonds or short-term notes.
- 57.1 per cent shared their prizes with charities, family and friends.
- 21.6 per cent took a vacation.
- 19.2 per cent purchased a new vehicle.
- 18.2 per cent paid off their mortgages or bought a new home.

Other uses for the prize money included: education for self or family (3.1 per cent) and repayment of debts (4.8 per cent).

Prizes claimed by respondents ranged from $7,000 to $1 million. "This is an on-going project," Morris said. "We will continue to poll our winners and report on the results from time to time."

Windbreak trees available

Landowners are being offered trees at two and a half cents each, provided they'll plant them to form a windbreak that can save them up to $250 annually on fuel costs.

"It's a simple, natural and traditional way to protect your home from cold winds," says Ministry of Natural Resources' Regional Forestry Specialist Henk de Vries. "But modern research has shown how effective good windbreaks can be. Properly established and maintained windbreaks can save home heating costs by 17 to 25 per cent."

Other benefits to farmers include protection for livestock and buildings, reduction of snow drifting problems, reduction of soil erosion, and improving the appearance of their property.

The cost of windbreaks is shared by the landowner, and provincial and federal governments as part of an energy conservation effort.

An average windbreak of 400 trees, planted in three rows, 600 feet long, costs landowners $20. That's $10 an order plus two and a half cents per tree.

Minimum orders are 100 trees. And landowners must have at least two hectares (five acres) to be eligible.

Ministry of Natural Resources staff will be contacting landowners in rural areas throughout Eastern Ontario to explain the program. These people will also help design the windbreak, explain how to prepare the planting site and planting technique, and help choose the best tree species for the location.

For more information contact your local district office of the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources, or Henk de Vries, RPF, Regional Forestry Specialist, Kempenville, Ontario K0G 1J0 (613) 258-3415.

OPP Commissioner James Erskine has invited Ontario residents to visit one of their 36 district headquarters on 185 local OPP detachments during Police Week, May 9-15.

The traditional open house held by the OPP will be repeated this year to mark Police Week 1982. Many detachments will have displays showing how the men and women of the OPP serve their communities.

The Police Week slogan this year is: We Are All Victims of Crime. This theme will be stressed by police officers right across the country.

"This year's slogan really hits the spot," said Commissioner Erskine. "We are all paying in the end, whether it's higher prices in stores to compensate for shoplifting, higher insurance premiums to pay for stolen cars or higher taxes to pay for vandalized schools."

Many of the police displays in various shopping malls will emphasize how people can help themselves by trying to prevent crime. From a youngster who makes sure he padlocks his bike to the cottage owner who marks his property and records serial numbers of valuable items, everyone can play a part in reducing crime.

"Police forces are moving more and more to pro-active policing, or striving to prevent crime rather than just catch the criminals afterwards," explains Commissioner Erskine.

"But the finest technology and latest police equipment are useless without the help of a concerned community."

ONEFOOT IN THE FURROW May brings anticipation

By BOB TROTTER

The first few days of May always remind me of a house cat coming outside for the first time, wide-eyed and uncertain about what to do next.

It is a timid time of the year. The days may be warm but the nights can be chilly. If a few snowflakes fall, they rarely last long. My father used to call it robin snow because it disappeared with the morning sun and the robins feeding on the grass seemed to help it disappear. We have seen and, even more exciting, heard, the flocks of geese heading north for their summer nesting places.

All of nature is wide awake now and alert because the growing season in this country is short and summer, hot from hurrying, is bustling along to get on with the business of growing things.

It is an exciting time of year for farmers in this country. They are itching to get on the land, to get the seeding done. Suddenly, the leaves are out. The tender plants and wild flowers that hid in the dark ground push their way to the sun without fear of a killing frost.

Farms where considerable tile drainage has been done allow owners to cultivate earlier. This can give the farmer another three weeks on the growing season.

I have been a bird lover for many years and have learned to admire almost all species, even the ugly turkey vulture which acts as a garbage man from the skies. Gulls have been a favorite even before Jonathan Livingstone, but recently, many complaints have been registered by farmers when cultivating. Hundreds of gulls come streaming in from miles away.

Unfortunately, they feed on earthworms and those worms do far more good for the land than the gulls.

I have heard some farmers in recent years suggest that they should be allowed to kill these graceful flyers but surely another method can be devised to keep them from fresh-plowed fields.

Surely, though, everything, spiritual as well as material, proceeds out of the earth. I have watched my grandfather, a dour Yorkshireman, almost weeping when he picked up a handful of soil in the springtime. He would sift it through his fingers, smell it, almost fondle it.

My father, with Irish and Scots blood coursing through his veins, would seek out wildflowers in the spring. Not tending them, of course. He would place his hands tenderly under a bloom and a great look of wonder would come over his face as he stared at the beauty in the bloom.

Neither one of them was a farmer but they worked in the good solid earth throughout their lives and I cannot help but believe they were both glad to return to the soil when they died.

Human happiness, it seems to me, is the true odor of growth, the sweet smell of freshly-turned earth and the joy of seeing seeds planted, sprouting and growing as the miracle repeats itself, year after year.

Those with a little grey up top can remember spring-times when small school-houses were still in use, when the breath of spring overcame the odors of chalk, sweaty children and sticky varnish. The good earth and its odors would steal through the open windows and we would long to be any place except stuck in that stuffy school.

Those feelings still overcome all of us at some time during this merry month of May.

A weekly news commentary from one of Canada's outstanding news personalities

THE BEST OF PETER TRUEMAN

ANCHORMAN FOR GLOBAL NEWS

It's a funny country. I say that because I've just met Susan Nattrass, and if the name doesn't immediately register, I've made my point already. Susan Nattrass, who lives in Edmonton, is one of the most phenomenal athletes this country has ever produced. If there are any blemishes on Ms. Nattrass's horizon, it is perhaps because her sport is trap shooting, she's a Canadian and a woman.

But she's won her sixth world championship as a trap-shooter, and at 31 has yet to reach her peak. She set a record for the world's women in 1978 - 195 birds out of a possible 200. The men's record is 199, but the men's championship has been won with 197 the last few years. And when you consider that the Europeans, who are more sophisticated about shooting as a sport, believe that trapshooters reach their peak between 30 and 40, I think it's fair to say that we haven't heard the end of her, by a long shot. She is to shooting what Wayne Gretzky is to hockey. As a matter of fact, now that recognition has finally begun to come, it's worth noting that she beat the great Gretzky in the voting for the Lou Marsh Trophy, which made her athlete-of-the-year for 1981.

Ms. Nattrass has incredible eyes. She can read a line of type at 20 feet that people with mere 20-20 eyesight can't decipher beyond ten. Optical tests also indicate that she has an uncanny ability to track flying objects. What else is there? Co-ordination, fine motor skills, strength, and stamina, conditioning, and last but not least, the factor that often separates great athletes from merely proficient ones, the ability to concentrate. Just by being herself, and doing what she does so superbly, she has done great things for shooting, women and the country. But she did it for years without recognition. She won her first world title in Switzerland in 1974, and here at home, no one had ever heard of her. She is proud to be a Canadian, but she has suffered in competing for a country that doesn't take shooting, and sometimes women, very seriously. She still has very little help, financial or organizational, which means a lot of third class travel and accommodation. She puts up with it, of course, for love of the sport and love of the country. But when you're trying to psyche yourself up to shoot better than any other woman in the world, you sometimes ask yourself why you're living in a tent in a borrowed sleeping bag. Sleeping in a decent hotel somehow gives you a better image of yourself, not to mention a better night's rest. She isn't complaining, but she admits that her shooting has sometimes suffered because of Canadian penny-pinching. Susan Nattrass is not only a unique Canadian, she's in a uniquely Canadian dilemma. Make out of that what you like. I've said enough.

That's not news, but that too is reality.

Beware of building bilkers

It's a familiar scenario to the Ontario consumer ministry: the unsuspecting homeowner agrees to a "free" roof inspection and finds, much to his surprise, that extensive work is needed immediately. The co-operative salesman offers to do the work, and of course, just happens to have a contract ready for signing. This is just one of the home renovating gambits that surface every spring in Ontario; and through a simple lack of information, hundreds of consumers fall prey to the often convincing sales pitches of unscrupulous home repair companies.

Roof inspections are not the only renovation game in town. Home repair soliciting covers a wide group of services such as paving, siding installation, roof and gutter repair, insulation and general repair work. Consumers may, for instance, be offered a free furnace or chimney inspection and told their chimneys need cleaning or their furnaces require extensive repair work.

Another popular technique is to offer a "good deal" just because we happen to be in the neighborhood with all our materials and equipment." Consumers shouldn't fall for this pressure tactic without first asking the salesman for names of neighbors who are having work done. Call and ask for their opinion of the company.

To avoid problems with home repair contractors, consumers should get at least three estimates outlining the kind of work to be done, who will do it, how much it will cost, what kind of warranty or guarantee is offered, and the starting and completion dates.

Consumers should also ensure all the subtrades are covered in the agreement, so they don't get stuck with a hefty bill from an electrician or plumber.

QUEEN'S PARK REPORT

By JAMES POLLOCK
PETERBOROUGH

Ontario will be getting a new motor vehicle registration system which will provide Ontarians with a fast, efficient, and economical service once it comes into effect on December 1, this year.

Transportation and Communications Minister James Snow has just brought in the legislation which, once it is approved by the Legislature, will provide for the setting up of the new system.

The highlight of the new system will be a plate-to-owner arrangement whereby owners of motor vehicles will keep their licence plates indefinitely, transferring them to a new vehicle when the old one is scrapped or sold. In other words, the plates will follow the owner, not the vehicle.

With this arrangement, the Ministry of Transportation, and Communications (MTC) will be able to provide the public, police and the courts with more reliable vehicle information. It will also eliminate the problem of former owners receiving parking tickets and summonses which should have rightfully gone to new owners. This occurs too frequently under the present system when motorists fail to transfer the ownership of their vehicles properly and promptly.

The new system will also do away with the inconvenience of lining up in February to pick up licence validation stickers. In fact, the coming December 1, 1982 to February 28, 1983 licence renewal period will be the last time motorists will have to stand in long lines to get their stickers.

Starting December 1, yearly motor vehicle registrations will be based on the birth date of the registered owners. In the case of vehicles registered to a company, owners will be able to select their own renewal date, or assign several dates for a certain number of vehicles in their fleets.

Under the new system, those motorists with outstanding parking tickets will be denied licence registration renewal. Registration renewal will also be denied to those who have issued NSF cheques for any vehicle related transactions with the licensing agent or the MTC.

This will be of great assistance to Ontario's municipalities who have had a difficult task trying to collect parking fines in the past. It is also expected to reduce the backlog in the courts.

No longer will the registration fee vary according to the vehicle's size. A single registration fee will be introduced for all passenger vehicles regardless of their size. There will also be a single fee for commercial motor vehicles under 3,000 kilograms and a flat fee for mopeds and motorcycles.

The new system will be tied together by a new, on-line computer system which will permit a broader range of services to the public at every licence-issuing agent office in the province.

All in all, I believe the new system will result in a vast improvement in service to motorists in Ontario.

There is no doubt that Terry Fox was an inspiration to all during the last year or so of his young life and that his memory will live in our hearts forever.

Terry was a particular inspiration to young Canadians, and in memory of Terry, The Council for Canadian Unity is building The Terry Fox Canadian Youth Centre in Ottawa.

This permanent residential conference centre will be capable of accommodating 3,200 sixteen and seventeen-year-old Canadian students during an academic year.

Every week a new group of 136 will be able to come to the centre to take part in a bilingual program of Canadian studies. Tours of the artistic, architectural and cultural attractions of the national capital will also be included.

The centre will open its doors on September 19 this year. Applications for the first term have already closed, I understand. Applications for the second term close on October 15.

The total cost of a one-week stay at the centre will be $475. The Federal Government and The Council for Canadian Unity will pay $150 each, the applicant must pay a $25 registration fee, and the remaining $150 can be provided through a local sponsor.

The centre promise to provide young Canadians with a unique opportunity to meet, get to know each other, meet, get to know each other and exchange ideas.

For further information write to: The Terry Fox Canadian Youth Centre, P.O. Box 7279, Ottawa, Ontario, K1L 8E3.

Wild rice real treat

Ontario wild rice is a culinary delicacy that is highly prized all over the world. Marketing specialists at the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food suggest serving Ontario wild rice for special occasions this winter.

Uncooked wild rice is available in ½ pound and 1-pound bags. When purchased in this form, it has been roasted, hulled, cleaned and packaged. When measuring quantities of wild rice for cooking, remember that it swells to four times its size. One-half ounce of uncooked rice is enough for one serving. Before using the wild rice in a recipe, be sure to soak it. For convenience use the quick soak method. First, wash the required amount of wild rice in cold water. Measure three times as much water as the amount of wild rice to be cooked. Bring the water to boil and stir in the washed rice. Parboil for only 5 minutes. Remove from heat. Let the wild rice soak in the cooking water, covered, for about one hour. Then drain, wash and cook as directed in the recipe.

The nutty flavor and soft, chewy texture of wild rice are prized additions to almost any dish. Wild rice makes an excellent stuffing for chicken, turkey, pheasant, and quail. Serve it as a side dish with beef or pork, or add it to your favorite casserole recipe for a new taste sensation.

THOMAS JAMES LOUGH

Mr. Thomas James Lough of Madoc passed away at Hotel Dieu Hospital in Kingston on April 20, 1982, at the age of 86. He was born in Marmora Township to the late John and Isabella Lough. Mr. Lough was the husband of Bessie Shadbolt and the late Leola Speck. He had lived in Madoc for over 30 years.

Mr. Lough is survived by his children Marjorie Kobylka of Chatham, Doris Emerson of Fort Erie, Kenneth Lough of Orillia, Jean McGarvey of Peterborough, Shirley Whyte of Chatham, and Carole McCarriston of Tampa, Florida. He was predeceased by Aileen Browne and Ernest Lough. He was also predeceased by brothers and sisters Charles and Allen Lough and Margaret Moffatt and Mary Phillips.

Mrs. Lough was retired, was educated in Marmora Township and was a member of the Board of Trustees of the Madoc Standard Church.

The funeral service took place on April 25, 1982, at the McConnell Funeral Home in Madoc with Reverend E. Conley of Brockville officiating assisted by Reverend R. Lasher of Ivanhoe and Reverend J. Stevenson of Marmora. Interment took place at Lakeview Cemetery. Pall bearers were William Blakely, Burton Moore, John Moore, Walton Reid, Robert Schamehorn and Michael Yule.

Mabel Avada Donaldson of Eldorado passed away at Belleville General Hospital on April 22, 1982, at the age of 61.

Mrs. Donaldson was born in Marmora to the late Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vincent and she was the stepdaughter of Lena Vincent of Belleville. She was the wife of Robert Donaldson.

Mrs. Donaldson is survived by her children George of Belleville, Mrs. Colin Parks (Nellie) of Verona, Mrs. Elton Ferguson (Betty) of Cooper, John of Millbridge, Mrs. Robert McLeod (Jean) of Scarborough, Robert of Gilmour, Mrs. Bill Simpson (Winnie) of Bannockburn, Arthur of Verona, Mrs. Roger Brow (Marjorie) of Verona, Mrs. Laurence Smith (Fern) of Hillier, Ray of Gilmour and Richard, who lived at home.

She is survived by a sister, Aletha Bobier of Scarborough and a step-sister, Mrs. Charles Mayell (Aldora). She was predeceased by a brother, Ray Vincent. She is also survived by 32 grandchildren and 8 great grandchildren.

Mrs. Donaldson was a housewife, was educated at Gilmour School and was a member of St. Margaret Anglican Church in Gilmour and St. Oswald's Anglican Church in Millbridge.

The annual meeting was held in the Community Center on Tuesday, April 20. Fourteen ladies sat down to a beautiful pot luck dinner at twelve o'clock. The ladies that took the class, Foods For All Seasons, each made a dish that the leaders had taught them, and the meal was enjoyed by all, which was followed by the regular business of the month. President, Mrs. Garnet Holmes, opened the meeting with the anniversary verse, sang the Ode, and repeated the Mary Stewart Collect. Roll call, Pay Your Fee, was answered by sixteen ladies and one child. The minutes were read and approved. The correspondence was read and discussed and the business was dealt with. Mrs. E. Gray is to be the delegate to Waterloo, May 4 and 5. The regular meeting was closed, and the annual meeting entered into. The nominating committee, Mrs. Fred Stein, submitted the following slate of officers:

Alpha Players drama troupe coming to Madoc

The Aldersgate Alpha Players, a drama troupe from Aldersgate College, Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan will be appearing at the Madoc Wesleyan and Free Methodist Church, Elgin Street on Friday, May 7 at 7 p.m.

The Players use full length plays as well as skits to make Bible truths come alive with meaning for today's world. "Drama puts people in the place of words," states Director Ken Burton. "When you do this, you understand much better the concepts which the Bible teaches."

Home base for the Players is Aldersgate College, a four-year Bible College which offers a Bible-centred curriculum leading to a Bachelor's Degree in Theology, Christian Education or in Biblical Studies. A two-year certificate is given in music.

During the College year, the Players visit centres in the Prairie provinces, presenting Drama programs. Following Commencement, they will spend the month of May on an extensive tour of Ontario. Individual players comment that although the pace is tiring at times, it is a challenging and exciting ministry. Every day they enjoy the opportunity of meeting people, sharing Christian drama and visiting in the homes of new friends.

The Alpha Players are special guests for the Christian Youth Crusaders (CYC) Honor Council. CYC is a club for children of preschool to Grade 6 in age.

Centre Hastings League meets

With everyone thinking of playing softball, the Centre Hastings Minor Association held their second meeting of the year to get plans finalized. Mr. Roger Dyer, director of the ORSA, was present and discussed the new rule changes for this year. This dealt mainly with the change in the age limits. Players certificates were also available at this time.

There were eight centres represented at this meeting and there will be teams in the Atom Division, Squirt Division, Pee Wee Division and the Bantam Division. There will also be two leagues for young girls this year, namely the Pee Wee and Bantam. This league had a very successful year last year and can be even more successful this year if everyone works together. This league is for the enjoyment of everyone in the Centre Hastings area and was formed so that all young people that wish to play ball will have the opportunity to do so.

Throughout the year CYC'ers work on requirements to earn awards in four areas of growth: physically, spiritually, mentally and socially. Awards are presented at Honor Councils.

The "Alpha Players" program is to be presented at 7 p.m. All are welcome to enjoy this presentation.

The phrase "the fourth estate," referring to journalists, was first used by Sir Edmund Burke during a speech made to the British Parliament, as he considered the various powers that be in the British government.

General information meeting held

On Wednesday evening, April 28, a general meeting was held at the Madoc Township Hall to discuss the new township hall field and the picnic area. President Ken McCormack was in the chair and explained the Wintario Grant for the construction of such a field.

A discussion was held concerning various areas of construction.

An explanation was then given about the organization of the diamonds, scheduling of diamonds, operating cost, etc. A discussion was also held concerning major fund raising events which will be held in the future.

First and foremost in this list is a donkey baseball game which will be held on Sunday, June 6, at 2 p.m. at the field. This is scheduled to be only one event in a fun filled day for young and old alike. So circle the date on your calendar and be prepared to come for an entertaining day. Perhaps you would even like to take a turn in the game.

Minor ball for the township is getting into full swing, with the possibility of six teams. Coaches are there and waiting. Registration for minor ball will be held on Saturday, May 8, at the diamond. Come out and enroll your child in ball.

The local lady's league is organized and there are three new teams in the league this year for a total of nine teams. The men have yet to be organized.

Work was started on the diamond again this past weekend and, with each section of the field being designated to specific groups in the area, there is little reason to doubt that it will be ready for use in the near future. The general feeling at the meeting was that if everyone in the area works together, we will have a ball diamond second to none and one that we will be very proud of today, tomorrow, and in the future. Come on now, lets do it!

Health Day

Everywhere for Everyone is the theme for the 1982 Canada Health Day.

The Board of Health, the Medical Officer of Health and the Staff of the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit wish to bring this important promotion to the attention of the public together with the fact that they support its message wholeheartedly.

The theme is intended to cover all aspects of our lives homes, workplaces, health institutions and community environs both social and recreational.

The Health Unit is planning a special display at the Quinte Mall on Friday and Saturday May 14 and 15. This display will promote good health and inform everyone in the area of the range of safety and health services provided.

This year's theme emphasizes the importance that safety and good health are everyone's concern and extends far beyond the Health Unit's services.

Canada Health Day is sponsored by the Canadian Public Health Association, (CPHA) and the Canadian Hospital Association (CHA). CPHA endeavours to prevent sickness and at the same time protect and promote the health of the people of Canada. CHA's objective is to promote the welfare of the Canadian public through its leadership and assistance to members in the provision of better acute and active health care.

Newcomer may be 'rival'

By CATHARINE CLARK
Infant Development
Consultant

The West has beaten us to the finish line again. This time it's in the progressive area of sibling relations, heading off problems before they start. A Calgary hospital has been running classes for toddlers who are expecting the arrival of a newborn brother or sister, complete with hospital tours, breathing exercises, bathing and feeding baby dolls and nursery decorating ideas. After the births have taken place the class of toddlers share an "original birthday" party, each sporting a button that says "I have a new brother/sister."

While such a program isn't available locally, there's a lot you can do to smooth out the adjustment for the toddling king-of-the-castle. When you arrive home from the hospital, leave the baby to someone else for a bit. Your toddler wants to see you and he may give the baby nothing more than a cursory glance. Give him a big hug and ask him to show you what he did while you were away. Be prepared for surprises. He may be standoffish; that's his way of telling you he really missed you. He'll work out his feelings himself in a short time.

Follow the toddler's lead. When he wants to have a look perhaps he'd like to unwrap her. Supervise very closely, especially if your toddler is under four and hasn't yet learned to control his anger or jealousy. You'll need to explain over and over the importance of gentleness. Be alert to prevent pokes or bangs before they occur. Avoid giving him a number of "no" directions about the baby.

Play the same games and share the same activities with him that you used to. Talk about his feelings; that it's okay to be angry and about ways to get rid of anger. Don't ask him to love the baby. Admit that the baby sometimes annoys you, too. "There goes Jennifer crying again. She couldn't even wait to eat until after we finished playing our game."

This may be a time when the first-born child will suddenly demand "baby things" you thought he had out-grown. Sleeping problems, going back to the bottle and accidents of the toilet-trained toddler may occur more often when a new baby is brought home. Tolerate regressive behaviors. Rub his back with baby powder and offer him a turn in the baby bath. Help him to feel that the things the baby gets, and he doesn't, are things he has grown out of, not things he can't have.

Accept any offers of help from the older child but don't make too much of the "you're my big boy" line.

Author Penelope Leach says the child may be thinking his bigness is the whole problem and if he were tiny he'd be getting all the attention like that beastly baby.

Work to make the child feel that the baby likes him. Show him how the baby will reflexively grasp his finger or turn her head toward him when he brushes her cheek. Teach him to rock the cradle, pat her back for a burp or jiggle the carriage to stop her crying. Leach suggests you can really play it up when admiring visitors drop by.

Parts handy

Turkey is one of Ontario's favorite holiday foods. But if a whole turkey is too large for your household, try turkey parts, suggest marketing specialists at the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food.

Turkey parts include the wings, thighs, drumsticks, and breasts. Buying turkey parts lets you choose the type of meat and the exact amounts needed.

Since turkey parts have varying amounts of bone, the amount of turkey required for each serving will differ. For thighs and breasts, allow 1/2 to 3/4 lb. per serving, and for drumsticks and wings, allow 3/4 to 1 lb. per serving.

Ontario turkey parts can usually be found in the fresh or frozen meat section of your local food store. To thaw the frozen turkey parts, leave them in the refrigerator overnight. For frozen turkey breasts, allow 24 hours in the refrigerator.

There are several different ways to cook turkey parts. They can be braised in a skillet, simmered on top of the stove, stewed or roasted. For a traditional Christmas turkey dinner, roast turkey parts at 350 deg. F for 2 to 2 1/2 hours, until fork tender. Baste as needed. Cook turkey dressing separately in a casserole dish, at the same time as the turkey parts. For a richer flavor, spoon some turkey drippings over the dressing while cooking.

"Mark is the one she really likes." When the child says, "I'll keep her quiet for you, Mommy, she'll stop crying for me", you'll know you are over the worst.

Consistent effort required to control garden weeds

by Don Kitchen
University of Guelph

Many areas around the home landscape present a unique weed control challenge to the homeowner. These include deciduous and evergreen shrubs in foundation plantings. These areas may be interplanted with annual flowers and perennial ground covers. Herbaceous perennial beds can also provide a battleground.

It is easy to recommend that you eliminate weeds, especially perennials, before establishing these plant areas. This is fine if we are just starting out, but most of us already have foundation plantings or perennial areas.

To control weeds in these areas we need a combination approach. First, adopt good cultural and management practices. Consistent light cultivation controls most annual weeds such as pigweed or purslane. A hoe or a hand cultivator are useful tools. It is not necessary to hoe deeply, you just have to cut these plants off just below ground level.

Cultivation is also useful in the control of perennial weeds such as quackgrass (twitchgrass). In this case, remove the top growth, let the plant grow and remove top growth again. This way, you deplete the food reserve in the roots and the plant dies. Consistency is the key. Since this plant often gives us trouble close to shrubs, some hand pulling may be required.

Using mulches in permanent plantings also helps control weeds. A five to seven centimetre layer of wood chip mulch not only helps conserve soil moisture but also prevents the germination of many weed seeds.

Herbicides can be used to help control weeds in permanent plantings areas but these should be used in conjunction with good cultural practices not as the only method of weed control. In shrub borders where perennial weeds such as quackgrass (twitchgrass) are a problem, a material containing paraquat and diquat (Weedrite or Weedol) can be used. This herbicide is called a "chemical mower". It kills the tops of the grass but not the roots. Two or three treatments a year usually cures the problem. It must be applied as a directed spray to the weed foliage taking care to avoid leaves or green bark of shrubs or trees. Also take care to avoid turf grass and flowers.

In planting areas where annual flowers or herbaceous perennials are mixed with shrubs and trees there are herbicides available to control many annual weeds. There is a great range in susceptibility of plants grown. Many garden flowers are as susceptible to the herbicide as the weeds you are trying to control. Read label directions completely and do not use on or around plants that are not listed on that label.

Products containing trifluralin can be used to control many annual grasses and broad-leaved weeds. This material is applied to weed emergence and must be incorporated by raking or irrigation. Consult the label for rates and plants around which it can be used.

A second product containing chloramben is available as a granular formulation. On small areas it can be applied using a jar with a perforated lid. This method is simple and effective. Apply around established plants when the foliage is dry and before weed emergence. Consult the label for plant species and rates.

EPTC is another herbicide available in granular formulations. This can be used around many transplanted annuals and perennials in shrub borders or foundation plantings. Apply this herbicide after transplants are established and incorporate into the soil with a rake or irrigation.

For further information, consult Ontario Ministry of Agriculture & Food Publication 529, Weed control in Lawns and Gardens, available from the Information Branch, Ministry of Agriculture and Food, Legislative Buildings, Toronto, Ontario M7A 1A5 and local agricultural offices.

MEMORIAMS

BATEMAN - In loving memory of a dear sister & aunt Audrey, who passed away May 6, 1981.
 Nothing can be more beautiful.
 Than the memories we have
 of you.
 To us you were someone special.
 God must have thought so too.
 One day we know we will join you.
 In the streets that are paved with gold.
 To that day we'll always look forward.
 When your face once again
 we'll behold.
 Lovingly remembered by sisters & brothers Margaret

SPRING FLOWERS

Spring flowers mean different things to different people. For most of us, spring flowers mean the end of a long hard winter and the addition of a bit more color to the drab landscape.
However, to most farmers spring flowers mean the beginning of the never-ending battle for weed control in crops. In fact, to be successful in the fight against weeds farmers should plan their attack well before the flowers are seen.
While this is common practice with annual weeds normally found in corn and spring grains, it is not necessarily so with a number of winter annuals found in winter crops. The crop affected in this area, for the most part, is winter wheat and the winter annuals to be concerned about include false flax, stinkweed, shepherd's purse, and pepper-grass. These weeds have become particularly troublesome in the last few years and if left to the flower stage, are impossible to control effectively. These weeds are in the form of rosettes now and are most susceptible to sprays in the early stages of their growth.

Winter wheat is most resistant to spray damage in the five to six leaf stage of growth where weed sprays containing 2,4-D, MCPA or Dicamba are effective in controlling winter annuals.
Later spraying will not be as effective in controlling the weeds and also can result in some injury to the wheat.
Perhaps the spring flower or weed which gets most attention from home owners very early in the season is the dandelion. The dandelion, a perennial, reproduces by seed only and is well distributed across Ontario.
Early in the spring the rosettes appear near the ground surface and almost overnight beautiful yellow flowers pop up. The dandelion is equipped with a long tap root, virtually impossible to pull, and when broken off regenerates new growth almost overnight. While there are a number of methods homeowners can use to help control this weed, by far the most effective is one of the lawn sprays sold through the various supply outlets. Dan-delions present a particular problem to farmers establishing pure stands of alfalfa. Dandelions are able to get a head start on many alfalfa fields because they grow early in the season and the alfalfa plant is not competitive when it is getting established. Unfortunately, any of the 2,4-D based chemicals which are effective on dandelions are also damaging to alfalfa. No sprays are presently recommended to treat actively growing dandelions in an alfalfa crop. The only recourse that farmers have is to create an environment ideal for alfalfa that over the first year of the establishment will encourage vigorous growth and thus be competitive with the dandelion in succeeding years.

FARM SAFETY HOLDING INFORMATION NIGHT

At the April general meeting of the Northumberland Farm Safety Association the final plans were made for two Safety Information meetings. The first meeting will be held on May 10, at the Dale Road Public School, and the second at Percy Centennial School,

Warkworth, on May 27.
These meetings are directed to 4-H members but everyone interested in safety on the farm is invited. The area Safety Co-ordinator, Marilyn Sewell, will be there to assist and to answer all questions on farm safety.

At the April meeting the purchase of bumper stickers and hats was discussed, as well as thirty more signs with the motto "Accident is Just a Word Until It Happens". It was also moved that the Farm Safety Association put a display at the Township of Hamilton Annual Strawberry - Music Festival on June 26.

With the busy time of the year coming up with long hours and sometimes insufficient sleep, REMEMBER SAFETY COMES FIRST.
The next general meeting will be held on May 13 at the OMAF office in Brighton.

Jerseys sell well

A good crowd was on hand at the Belleville Fairgrounds for the Eastern Ontario Spring Classic on April 24, 1982. The sale of purebred Jersey Cattle was sponsored by Jersey clubs in Eastern Ontario with Ron Sharp, of Russell, the sale committee chairman.

Topping the sale at $4,200 was an outstanding daughter of Brampton Jester Volunteer. Consigned by Roger and Karen Han-bridge, Cavan, this excellent cow, fifth at the All American in 1981, was the selection of R. Stenger and Son, Enniskillen.

Marvelside Farm, Russell, was the final bidder at $3,000 for a young very good cow from Stanley Kerr and Sons, Campbellford.

Henk Zwartz, Mountain, selected an excellent daughter of Advancer Sleeping Milestone also at $3,000 from the R. J. herd of Robert Jarrell, Corbyville.
She completed a fine three year old record of 154-157 BCA. The offering of 29 lots was well received averaging $1,681 with several head selling to Quebec, and Western Ontario.

The sale was managed by Joyn Auction Service with John Joyn as auctioneer.
Don McCaig, Norval Acres, Huntingdon Quebec was the pedigree announcer with Doug and Robert Jarrell as

charged with failing to share roadway as a result of the accident. Constable W. Haggerty is investigating.

On April 30, at approximately 11:30 p.m. Paul Murney Cooney of Belleville was driving his vehicle southbound on Highway 14 approximately 2 km. north of Stirling. The vehicle was being driven at a high rate of speed and failed to negotiate a right hand curve. The vehicle entered the east ditch and struck a culvert. Cooney and his 18-year-old son Timothy suffered injuries. A third party, passenger Paul R.

Chaumont of Belleville, age 41, suffered fatal injuries. Total damage to the vehicle was estimated at $6,000. Constable D. Travis is investigating.

On April 30, 1982, a body was discovered by some students from Centre Hastings Secondary School while they were on an excursion near the school. The body was identified as Fern Lemmon, 24, of Madoc. The investigating officers felt the death was not due to natural causes, but no foul play was suspected.

Notice to Bell Canada Customers

Effective May 10, 1982, there are two new numbers for the Business Office - one for residence customers and one for business customers. The new numbers are:

Business customers 1-800-267-6460

When you dial these numbers you will be connected directly with a service representative without operator assistance.

Your new Business Office number is listed on your telephone account and in the May 1982 issue of your telephone directory.

Other Bell Canada numbers such as Repair, Directory Assistance, etc., are not changing and can be found in your current directory. If your directory does not list the Bell Canada service you require, call 1-800-268-9080 (toll-free) to request the number.

There's nobody like your new baby
Of course, there isn't. But will your baby always be "someone special"?

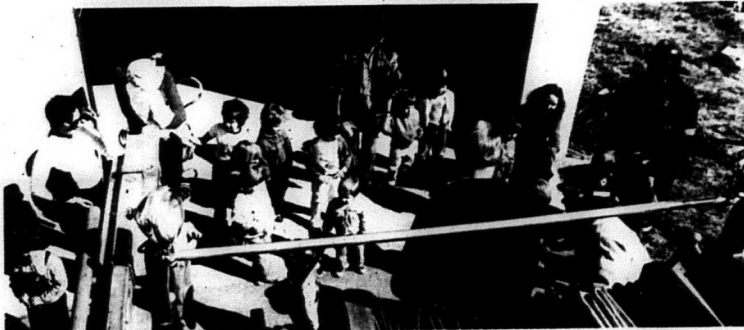

A great deal depends on how well you safeguard your child's future — making sure there will always be funds for higher education, for example.

There's where I come in. I can show you how to safeguard your child's future through a carefully planned Metropolitan Life Insurance program. Don't you owe it to the adult you want your child to be?

Public meeting discussion skirts arena due to law suit

The public meeting held at the Madoc Town Hall last Thursday took a surprise turn when it was announced that Reeve Terry Pigden and the council would not be discussing the proposed contract for P and C Sports because they had been informed that legal action in the form of a law suit was pending against the arena board.

The announcement that this topic could not be discussed resulted in many of the spectators at the meeting walking out (although many returned shortly thereafter) because the skate sharpening business was to be the main topic for the evening.

At a regular meeting of council on April 27, Madoc Village Council passed a motion that council must seek approval of the minister for: a) structural changes which have been made at the arena b) must seek approval by the minister for any lease of a portion of the arena property c) must consult the other two councils for resolution approval d) council will have to obtain advice regarding the board not being authorized to enter into any agreement other than a refreshment concession under the act.

Council was opposed to the sale of related items, skate laces, tape and hockey sticks. The motion passed. "Until such time as council feels these questions have been satisfactorily answered, we must advise against any agreement re skate sharpening."

In a prepared speech, Reeve Pigden opened the meeting with this statement: "There has been a great deal of misunderstanding, misrepresentation, gossip, and plain old bologna going around Centre Hastings in the last few months regarding the Madoc and District Recreation Centre. The council of the Village of Madoc decided that the best way to see that the facts were given to those who were willing and ready to listen was to call a public meeting."

While it had been stated that the proposed main topic of the meeting could not be discussed, many members of the audience did take the chance to ask questions of the council. Discussion did take place around the fact that one council could veto the decision of the other two councils regarding arena related decisions at a tri-council meeting. It was Madoc Village Council's interpretation that one council could veto the other council's decision as a unanimous decision was required. Members of Huntingdon Council stated that they felt a majority decision was all that was needed and that they had not realized unanimity was required at the tri-council level. This effectively gives one council veto powers if the Madoc Village Council interpretation is correct.

Councillors Ken Yarrow and Deputy-revee Ted Pollock also felt that the arena board had operated under the present system since its inception and saw no reason for that to change now. Madoc Village Council argued that the law was clearly laid out, in their estimation, in the Community Centres Act and that they should live by the letter of the law.

This also brought up two different stories of what the Community Centres Act really says. Both Reeve Pigden of Madoc Village Council and Deputy-revee Pollock of Huntingdon Township had talked to the minister involved and had received different stories. Deputy-revee Pollock stated that he was told by the minister that changes in the arena were up to the municipalities involved as long as the ministry was not putting grant money into the alterations. He added that the minister would be willing to attend a tri-council meeting if the clerk treasurer wanted to set it up.

Chamber to elect 1982 executive

The Madoc and District Chamber of Commerce will be meeting this Thursday night at the Town Hall to elect the new executive for 1982.

The outgoing president, Adam Godfrey, will summarize the past year's accomplishments and speak about the North Hastings Promotional Board, which has now taken over from the Highlands of Hastings. The NHPB is a representative board of all the Chambers of Commerce in the area and is designed to work as a unified group to promote activities in the area.

The NHPB will also be working towards supplying information to the Central Ontario Travel Association for the area to be placed in their 1983 pamphlet and will also be dispersing a grant for tourism by the County of Hastings.

IGA in final stages of completion, Opening June 17

Bob Henderson advises the people of Madoc to mark June 17 on their calendars because that is the day the new IGA store will open.

"The new store has really taken shape in the past couple of weeks and we are making plans now for an open house to everyone on Wednesday evening, June 16, from 7-9 p.m.," Mr. Henderson told The Review his week.

"Our old bakeshop will be torn down on the May 24th weekend after the seeding plant season is over so that we can proceed with the grading and paving of the outside parking lot."

"The new store will be double our present facilities. We'll have an expanded grocery facilities and a new produce line up. The meat department will be expanded to include a deli counter for store sliced coldcuts and ready-made salads. The bakery department will also be enlarged with more equipment so that we can offer the best selection of baked goods to our customers."

"We're also including the snackbar in our new store to provide a place for our customers to relax while doing their shopping," he told Review.

He added that shoppers should watch for the orientation maps and open house invitations in their shopping bags two weeks prior to the opening. The traditional carryout service will continue to be supplied by the store for their customer convenience.

Madoc's new IGA store is scheduled to open on June 17. An open house will be held on the evening of June 16 from 7-9 p.m.

Bad feelings arise at public meeting

the public if you close P and C Sports? It was also said that it appeared that no one was opposing, P and C Sports in the arena. The question was asked, "Who is opposing it?"

At this point, council for the Village of Madoc said they were simply looking into the legalities of the situation and it was later stated that no decision has been made by the council.

The council was also asked when a public meeting would be held to answer the questions about P and C Sports, and Reeve Pigden replied that the next open meeting would probably be next November and it was called an election.

Other members of the audience wondered how a person was appointed to the arena board and how or why an appointment was taken away. Appointments to the board are made by the councils involved and, according to Reeve Pigden, the appointments can be rescinded for almost any reason.

One member of the audience wondered if council was trying to run the arena without a deficit and, if a deficit continued, would the arena be closed down. Reeve Pigden replied in the negative to both questions.

Another member of the audience suggested that, since many of the powers of the arena board were being taken away, why not eliminate the board and save the taxpayers money in that way?

Both Huntingdon and Madoc Township councils feel that the agreement reached between the arena board and P and C Sports should be honored, including the sale of related items.

Minor ball registration successful

Eighty-eight young hopefuls registered on Saturday for minor softball on the new township diamond. This included both boys and girls in all ages.

Coaches have been secured and a tentative field schedule has been set up and ball practices will soon be held for all teams. We could still use some members for girls bantams, boys pee wee and bantam. Contact either Jo Anne Lake or Cyril Shaw.

Field work is continuing and one will soon see very tangible evidence of our new diamond. It will be a true work of art for our township and one that everyone can be extra proud of because you helped build it.

Madoc 4-H Potato Club meeting

On April 15, the first meeting of the Madoc 4-H Potato Club was held at Floyd Wood's. We had the election of officers. They are as follows: President - Scott Shaw, Vice-president - Calvin Stein, Secretary - Karen Shaw, Press Reporter - Margaret Bailey. Our Club

Leader is Allan Sager.

During our meeting we discussed what to do during this club year and we collected our books. We also decided on future meetings and what we would discuss. We have four new members. They are as follows:

Elizabeth Wood, Ralph Underhill, Angela McQuigge and Margaret Stein.

Our next meeting will be held at the home of Calvin and Margaret Stein on May 11, 1982. We had milk and doughnuts for lunch and then we all went home.

NDP annual dinner meeting

On April 3, the riding association of Hastings Peterborough New Democratic Party, held their Annual Dinner at the Madoc Hotel.

Guest speaker for the evening was Marion Chambers, the newly elected president of the Ontario NDP, herself from a rural area near Grey Bruce which many will remember as the cradle of Agnes Macphail, the first woman member of Parliament in Canada. Mrs.

Chambers centered on the need for greater representation in the rural ridings to enable the NDP to form a government in Ontario.

The new executive were elected as follows: President, Susan Stevenson of Point St. Anne; Vice-president, Paul Whittaker of Gilmour; Secretary, Pat Fleming of Tweed; membership secretary, Ian Miller of Stirling; treasurer, Don Wilson of Stirling; provincial council representative, Elmer Buchanan, of Tweed; provincial council alternate, Donna Forth of Deslor; youth committee chairpersons, Marjorie and Kenneth Hall of Tweed.

Other items on the agenda included a draw for the door prize, and an always welcome Chinese auction. Eagerly contested for in the auction were three autographed books by Canadian author Farley Mowat, now based in Port-Hope.

Queensborough news

Wednesday evening in the church, Mrs. Irene Bateman of Tweed Regional Vice President of the UCW, was guest speaker. Since this is the 20th year since the UCW was formed, a birthday cake was served at lunch time.

Mrs. Muriel Roushorne, Whitby, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Holmes. Her daughter, Jean, came home from hospital one day this week, where she had been a patient.

Visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Clarke, during the weekend were - Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Lucas and Lawrence, Belleville; Mr.

and Mrs. Doug Walker, Charlene, Cathy and Doug jr. of Newburgh; Mr. and Mrs. Ken Walker, Wendy and Jason of Tweed and Mr. and Mrs. John Walker of Queensboro. Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Lucas spent the supper hour with Mr. and Mrs. John Walker.

Mrs. Ken Rollins, Lakefield and Mr. Clayton Hannah, visited Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson one day this week.

A number from here attended the funeral of Mrs. Martha Hollinger of Belleville, on Monday, which was held at the McConnell Funeral Chapel in Madoc.

Col. Irwin fund raising going well

Colonel Jim Irwin, an Apollo 15 astronaut, will be coming to Madoc on June 7 and 8 and he will be the guest of honor at a dinner, dance and address at the Madoc and District Recreation Centre on June 7.

A social period will be allowed prior to the dinner, which begins at 6:30 p.m. Colonel Irwin's address will begin at 8 p.m. with the dance scheduled to begin at 9 p.m. and continuing until 1 a.m. The event is sponsored by Centre Hastings Secondary School and tickets will cost $10 per person for the evening. Tickets for the evening can be purchased in advance only with the cutoff date to be about one week prior to the event. If you want to skip the meal but have the address and attend the dance, tickets can be purchased for $5 per couple and all students get in free for the address and dance, so make sure you keep your student cards.

So far, things are going well for the fund raising by the students and staff of CHSS. About $300 has been raised through car washes (another one is planned for Madoc) and over $120 was raised at a bakesale recently.

Ticket sales for the ounce of gold and silver has gone well to this point but the students hope to sell around four hundred tickets for this draw. The students are nearing the halfway mark on the fundraising, but the difficult part is still to be realized.

The organizers expect to be able to seat about six hundred people for the social at the arena. Everyone is welcome.

OPP report

During the week of May 2-8 officers of Madoc Detachment investigated 51 general occurrences and three traffic accidents, resulting in one person being injured and $12,000 property damage.

The general occurrences included five damage complaints, six theft complaints, eight break and enters and one firearm complaint. One occurrence of found property was investigated as well as one warrant being executed. One person was charged with driving with more than 80 milligrams of alcohol in blood as a result of failing an ALERT test.

Reportable Accidents:

Miniature garden rewarding

By CLAUDE R. LEMIEUX

A visit to any garden is a leisurely, relaxing experience but is this possible with young children in tow?

Their botanical interest consists of sudden, wide-eyed admiration, a sniff or two and maybe the odd pull, the whole exercise lasting no more than a few minutes.

The designers of Cullen Gardens at Whitby, Ontario, must have loved children for they have turned their floral paradise into an unforgettable delight that is truly for both young and old.

As visitors enter the grounds, they stand at a high point overlooking the pond and 20 ha (50 acres) of rolling knolls and flower beds with a backdrop of tall trees.

A first treat for children is the miniature county fair grounds at the northern end of the property. Tiny boys and girls ride the ferris wheel, cable car, merry-go-round and other rides in this Lilliputian playground.

Then, there is the first of two covered bridges and the peacocks' den plus, as expected, more flowers. The second covered bridge is a favorite of photographers. There is a good view of the pond and its aquatic birds from it.

Just past the bridge, to the left, are the open-air stage and the semi-circular seating arrangement built into the hillside. Music programs, fashion shows and other forms of entertainment are offered periodically.

On top of the hill, the lookout is a good resting place and more pictures are often taken from here.

By this time, most young children try to tear their parents away from an enjoyable visit in order to go home but — and this is where the planners showed their astuteness — the miniature village just begs to be enjoyed.

Suddenly, no one is tired any longer. The 100 miniature buildings (1/12 scale), tiny cars and little people just fascinate children.

Parents will appreciate learning all the models are exact replicas of existing buildings. All the full-scale originals are in southern Ontario and most of them in the immediate area of Whitby, Cobourg and Toronto.

There are two churches, two farms with animals, a school, a moving and tooting train, a residential section, a business district and even a burning house. The firemen and their equipment have everything under control and the children may rest assured: there are no casualties.

After a while, it is the parents who are hoping for an occasion to call it a day, but what a day!

The Gardens are a year-round attraction: 50,000 bulbs in the spring, 10,000 roses in summer, Ontario's largest mum display in the fall and a chance to cross-country ski in winter.

The dining room with a view specializes in roast beef and there is a snack bar for those in a hurry. The gift shop offers the usual souvenirs plus plants, garden tools and an extensive selection of miniature furniture.

Cullen Gardens is a mere half-hour drive from Toronto. Just drive east on Highway 401 till you reach Highway 12. Drive north on 12 for 5 km (3 miles) then turn left at the Taunton Road traffic lights. The Gardens are right there on your right. Keep your eyes open for the tourist information office as you drive up Highway 12. It is on your left.

While in the area, why not see Parkwood, the estate of the late Colonel R.S. McLaughlin, former president of General Motors of Canada and vice-president of General Motors Corp. When he died in 1972, in his 101st year, his estate was opened to the public.

The beautiful 40-room mansion is filled with priceless antiques and paintings. It was planned by the same architects who designed Canada's Parliament Buildings in Ottawa.

Parkwood Gardens, five hectares (12 acres) of groomed lawns, manicured shrubs and remarkable flower displays, is a restful oasis in a busy city of nearly 140,000. Oshawa, adjacent to Whitby.

The mansion is open to visitors year round while the gardens are open during the blooming season except for the annual chrysanthemum show in mid-November.

Ambassador Hasty Ps' speaker

His Excellency Naboth van Dijk, the Netherlands Ambassador to Canada, will be the guest of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment and speaker at the annual mess dinner of the Officers Association on Saturday, May 15, 1982. Prewar, wartime and post-war officers will attend.

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment went into action in July, 1943, when the 1st Canadian Division invaded Sicily. It's final battles in the Second World War were fought in the Netherlands in April, 1945. One of the 51 battle honors won by the Regiment was Apeldoorn. The Hasty Ps liberated the Royal Palace near Apeldoorn about three weeks before the final German surrender.

Lt. Col. George E. Renison of Toronto commanded the regiment in action in the Netherlands. He is now Honorary Colonel of the regiment and will introduce the Ambassador at the mess dinner.

His Excellency will inspect a special honor guard at the Belleville Armouries about 6:30 p.m. before attending the mess dinner.

OFA position made clear

A delegation from the Ontario Federation of Agriculture (OFA) presented its annual brief to the provincial cabinet April 28. OFA president, Ralph Barrie, addressed Premier Bill Davis and several prominent cabinet ministers.

"I am disheartened by the rapid decline of agriculture's profitability in Ontario," he said. "Participants in a once robust industry now watch as more and more parts of it grow feeble because farmers continue to lose equity."

Barrie said he has heard this opinion from many people working in businesses that depend on agriculture for survival. He said that agriculture in Ontario is "failing fast", but that "it serves no purpose trying to find a scapegoat for that failure."

He said farmers, bankers and politicians are all to blame for the current problems in agriculture, and that "we must work together to find a remedy."

Barrie said he hopes the new provincial budget will show to what extent the government is "actually committed to agriculture."

The 15-page brief concentrated on areas of major concern to Ontario's farmers. It offered suggestions on how existing programs could be improved, and recommended some new courses of action. Besides economic issues, the brief looked at the environment, education, absentee foreign ownership, and utility corridors.

Economic Issues
Ontario had the highest number of farm bankruptcies in Canada in 1981, and the outlook for 1982 isn't encouraging. For these reasons, economic issues dominated the OFA's brief to the provincial cabinet.

The brief said farmers are "disappointed" in the Ontario Farm Adjustment Assistance Program because they "fell the program's inadequacies outweigh any possible benefits."

The brief said the program "is in desperate need of revamping," and said its structure was the major "hindrance."

"The case committees are acting as judges, whereas they should be playing supportive roles. This was our understanding about the role of the ag reps and the case committees," the OFA said in the brief.

The brief said "it makes absolutely no sense to guarantee a new line of credit to a producer without making the new loan eligible for interest subsidy." It also suggested that the program allow consolidated debts to be eligible for interest assistance.

The brief suggested that the Farm Productivity Incentive Program be replaced by a better program, since it "has become inadequate in relation to present capital costs and... is destined to become less cost efficient."

OFA suggested that it be replaced by a low interest loan program. Loans of up to $50,000 each could be made, at a fixed rate of eight per cent, repayable over 10 years.

The improvement would have to better a farm's environmental standard and make it more competitive.

The brief also suggested the government "take inventory" of the many programs it administers, since "some of them have likely outlived their original purpose."

The brief refers to them as "small change programs, whose cost of administration might well exceed the funds it puts out."

The OFA is willing to help the government review these programs, the brief said.

Market Risk Insurance

"The events of last year are a painful proof that existing stabilization schemes are inadequate," the OFA said in its brief to cabinet.

"They do not protect producers from extreme cyclical and other unforeseeable price changes," the brief said. Stabilization programs have structural weaknesses that can't be "remedied simply through federal enrichment or provincial top-loading."

Existing programs don't stabilize returns "in an economy experiencing high and steady inflation." The programs don't give any signals regarding the amount a farmer can produce profitably. For instance, support prices are announced a year after the crop has been marketed. This "forces producers into a guessing game," the brief said.

ONE FOOT IN THE FURROW

Farmland must be preserved

By BOB TROTTER

Great concern has been voiced about the land in Canada being bought by foreigners.

The concern may be valid but another, more dangerous, way to lose land has been under way for 20 years. Every growing season, thousands of tons of top soil are lost to the eroding powers of wind and water.

In the United States, between four and six billion tons of topsoil are moved each year by various forms of soil erosion. Soil losses are so severe in some parts of that nation that 12 per cent of the croplands and 17 per cent of the range lands will be unproductive within a few short decades. Add to that the millions of acres being lost every year to urban encroachment and the number of acres becomes staggering.

In Canada, the problem is not acute but whatever happens south of the border is reflected here, sometimes a few years later and sometimes a few months.

Few farmers in this country are willing to face this serious threat to the land. Only one organization, the Christian Farmers Federation, has, to my knowledge even acknowledged it.

When the subject is broached, farmers respond by saying the financial crunch and technological treadmill give them no choice but to exploit the land.

The switch to corn crops in recent years is compounding the problem.

No matter what steps are taken to preserve land through planning and zoning, it is too seldom recognized that these laws or regulations do not save soil. Farmers know it. They try, oh yes, they do try, to manage resources as part of the day-to-day work. They do what they have the knowledge and skill to do and what seems, in their own calculation, of costs and benefits, the 'right thing to do'.

But protecting farm land involves additional costs. The farmer must make investments to preserve soil such as forgo income when crops are replaced by soil-building crops. These investments in time and money seldom result in immediate cash returns.

The problem is, you see, any profits from protecting farmland do not come until future generations take over.

The farmer has great trouble justifying these added expenditures. A bushel of corn, for instance, which is produced under careful soil stewardship brings no better a price at the farmgate than a bushel produced on land being allowed to wash or blow away. The farmer had a higher cost of production but that means nothing in the marketplace.

In fact, if such a figure were added to the cost of production in a marketing board's price-setting formula, every consumer organization -- and all the rest of those organizations that get their kicks out of bashing marketing boards -- would holler all the way to Queen's Park and Ottawa.

Farmers will tell you they have no choice for economic survival intimates as tough as these. And it is a workable strategy as long as it doesn't last long. But mining the land's fertility must stop. The actions of the last two decades are catching up with us.

Much of the national farm debt is secured by the value of the land yet soil erosion and farmland lost to urban expansion continue to eat slowly into that value.

When some of this land is reclaimed by the banks; how much good will it be when it is farmed out? Maybe that's why some farmers are already walking out and leaving their keys on a banker's desk.

These are big questions and they concern everyone, not just farmers. Every citizen who expects to continue living the good life in this country should be concerned.

When farmers march for more money, they are not just demanding more money; they need better prices so they can be good farmers and help preserve the land.

1982 SUPER GLIDE II FXR

Harley-Davidson announces the all-new FXR Super Glide II. Built with two things in mind, smoothness and performance, the FXR boasts an 80 cu. in. engine, five-speed transmission, and a tri-mount chassis that isolates engine vibration from the frame.

This doesn't compare with anything you've ever ridden, but you'll have to find that out yourself. Introduce yourself to the FXR Super Glide II. Be a part of a revolution.

Prevent Grass Tetany

Grass tetany, (severe magnesium deficiency) occurs during cool spring or fall weather, especially in lactating cattle grazing on rapidly growing lush pastures. Forages containing less than 0.2 per cent magnesium, and more than 3.0 per cent potassium and 4.0 per cent nitrogen (25 per cent crude protein) are particularly apt to cause tetany. Forages grown in the East Central area of Ontario, especially in the counties of Victoria, Durham, Peterborough and Northumberland, commonly contain magnesium levels of less than 0.16 per cent. Areas of Hastings and Prince Edward counties also produce forages containing less than 0.2 per cent magnesium.

Beef and dairy cattle, and particularly lactating cows, that are to be pastured on such forages should receive supplemental magnesium beginning two weeks before being put out to pasture. Milk cows may be hand fed 50 to 75 gms (1.75 to 2.5 oz.) of magnesium oxide per day depending on their production level. Beef cows and other pasturing cattle can be offered, free choice, a mixture containing equal parts of trace mineral salt and magnesium oxide. An alternative would be daily hand feeding of a supplement designed to provide each animal approximately 30 gms of magnesium (50 gms (1.75 oz.) magnesium oxide) per day.

4-H Club Members Exchange

Fifteen Quinte area 4-H Club members have been chosen to participate in an exchange, sponsored by Open House Canada, with 4-Hers from the area of Meacham, Saskatchewan. The senior 4-Hers, three from each of the counties stretching from Frontenac to Northumberland, will be hosting their western counterparts between July 5 and July 14, 1982. While here the boys and girls from Saskatchewan will be introduced to farm family life in East Central Ontario and be shown the area's historic and cultural attractions.

On July 14 the whole exchange group will depart from Toronto for Saskatoon. Then for a period of ten days our Ontario 4-Hers will discover something of life in rural Saskatchewan.

The 4-Hers involved in this exchange, organized by the Canadian 4-H Council, are: from Northumberland County: Kathy Jones, Castleton; Suzanne Kelly, Warkworth; and Jeff McCann, Codrington. From Hastings County: Lori Brennan, Marysville; Joan Brownson, Marmora; and David Leeming, Belleville. From Prince Edward County: Jacquie Burris, Consecon; Patti Burris, Consecon; and Kathy Wright, Hillier. From Lennox and Addington County: Alison Abrams, Napanee; Eugene Grooms, Napanee; and Janice Jackson, Napanee. From Frontenac County: Rhonda Asselstine, Hartington; Wendy Deyo, Hartington; and Linda VanherHoek, Wolfe Island.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to extend my sincere thanks to all my friends & neighbours who were so thoughtful of me while I was a patient in Belleville & Toronto hospitals. A very special thanks to Rev. Stevenson, Rev. Howard, Rev. Westhaver & Rev. Riley for their visits & prayers. Also a very special thanks to Mrs. Margaret Stone & Gibson of B.G.H. My sincerest thanks to my daughters for their untiring visits & thoughtfulness. Most of all thanks to God for without His help nothing is possible. Thank you all again, and God Bless Myrna Neal. 15-2-6

CARD OF THANKS

THE Gardener family would like to express our thanks to everyone who sent cards, flowers & donations to our dear father & brother during his recent illness & death. Special thanks to SOB Club, the nurses on 3rd floor of the hospital, Dr. S. Moore & Dr. Luckinuk and the Rev. Peacock for their special care & services. 15-2-6

I would like to thank all those who sent cards & phoned at the time of my sister Lottie passed away. It is so nice to know your friends are thinking of you. Marjorie Shoup & family. 15-2-6

MEMORIALS

HARDEN - In loving memory of a dear mother, grandmother, Lillie, who passed away May 19, 1980. The depths of sorrow we cannot tell, but the loss of one we loved so well.

And while she sleeps a peaceful sleep, her memory we shall always keep.

Time takes away the edge of grief, but her memory turns back every leaf.

Sadly missed by Joe, Veleda & family.

RUSAW - In loving memory of a dear mother, grandmother & great grandmother, Almina, who passed away May 17, 1979. We miss her so much in many ways.

We miss the things she used to say.

And when our lives we do recall, it is then we miss her most of all.

Sadly missed by Marjorie, George & family.

ELLIS - In loving memory of a dear son, Jack, who passed away May 10, 1975. God knows how much we miss him.

Never will his memory fade. Loving thoughts shall ever wander.

To the spot where he is laid. Sadly missed by Mother.

ELLIS - In loving memory of Mrs. Mary Ellis, who passed away May 14th, 1981. You never failed to do your best.

Your heart was true & your love was sincere.

You lived your life for those you loved.

GIMPEL - Benjamin J. Benji

One year has passed since that sad day.

When you, dear friend, were taken away.

Sadly missed, always remembered by your friends.

MEMORIALS

STILLMAN - In loving memory of Allan, who left us one year ago - May 12th, 1981. We do not need a special day.

To bring you to our mind.

For the days that we do not think of you.

Are very hard to find.

If all this world were ours to give.

We'd give it, yes & more.

Just to see your smiling face.

Sadly missed by wife Fay, sons Terry & Brian & daughter Sharon.

GAWLEY - In loving memory of our dear daughter, & sister, Pam, who passed away suddenly May 14, 1972.

We asked ourselves the question.

The answer never known.

Why our daughter so young in life.

Her picture hangs upon the wall.

For each of us to see.

Cattle need protection

You will note in the calendar that the steers will be placed on Pancake Hill Pasture Farm on Friday, May 14. This points out that there are certain things that should be done to the steers to get the optimum amount of gain out of the grass season. First of all they should be tagged so that you can identify them or if you prefer you can register a brand and brand your steers. Then you need to consider the need for blackleg vaccination. What about treatment for warble flies? This is easily done with spoton or pour-on applications. Then there is the question of fly control. There are ear tags that are effective when properly used.

New terms in use

Feeder cattle market reports are using a whole new set of terms to describe feeder cattle. The new grading system was recently introduced by the federal population. The new classification described the economically important characteristics of feeder cattle. It classifies cattle and calves by two criteria: frame size and degree of fleshing. Within frame size the system allows for three sizes: small, medium and large.

Large-frame cattle would achieve an A1 to A2 grade at 544 kg (1200 lb) for steers and 450 kg (1000 lb) for heifers. This category would take in most of the exotic heifers and exotic crosses.

Medium-frame cattle would include most of the British breeds. In this frame size, steers would achieve an A1 and A2 grade at 450 (1000 lb) and heifers at 385 kg (850 lb). The small-frame size takes in the more compact, shorter-bodied cattle breeds. Steers in this category would achieve an A1 and A2 grade at less than 450 kg (1000 lb) or less than 385 kg (850 lb) for heifers.

In the fleshing category, cattle are described as lean or fleshy. This information is important since leaner cattle have a higher feed efficiency than those with more fleshing.

The lean category includes most stocker and feeder cattle that are marketed off pasture, with little evidence of fat. The cattle in the fleshy category have likely received higher energy rations.

The Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food is using the new classification system in feeder cattle market reports.

Ontario Tax Grants For Senior Citizens

1982 Instalments of up to $310 Have Been Mailed

Ontario Tax Grants for Seniors is a program designed specifically to help offset municipal and school taxes for Ontario residents 65 and over. The Ontario Ministry of Revenue has just completed the mailing of cheques which comprise the first instalment of the 1982 Property Tax Grant of up to $250 and a new temporary Home Heating Grant of $60. These cheques were mailed on May 10th.

Who received it?

- If you're 65 or over and own or rent your home, you're eligible for the Property Tax Grant.
- The 1982 instalment cheque was mailed to all Ontario seniors who received the 1981 Property Tax Grant.
- This is intended to help you pay your property tax or rent for the first part of 1982. In the fall you will automatically receive an application for the balance of your grant.

Who did not receive it?

Basically, if you didn't receive a 1981 Property Tax Grant, you will not have received the May instalment. In particular, seniors should note that:

- If you reside in a nursing home, home for the aged or any property tax-exempt institution, you're not eligible for the Property Tax Grant.
- If you turned 65 after December 31, 1981 (and therefore did not qualify for a grant last year) you also won't have received the May instalment. However, you will receive an application for the entire 1982 grant in the fall.

Temporary Home Heating Grant

This year a temporary Home Heating Grant of $60 has been added to the Tax Grants Program to help seniors cope with the sudden increases in heating costs. This $60 is included in your 1982 instalment cheque. For example, if you received a Property Tax Grant of $480 for 1981, your 1982 instalment amounts to $300 (1/2 of $480 = $240 plus $60).

Planning ahead helps

By CATHARINE CLARK
Consultant

Caring for baby's routine needs can leave more time for parent-infant games and reduce frustration with just a little organization, according to Evelyn Moats Mungler and Susan Jane Bowden, authors of Beyond Peek-a-Boo and Pat-a-Cake. Here are some of their ideas.

Bath time for baby will run more smoothly if all of her bath needs are stowed in a bucket so you don't forget anything. For a change from the old frog position for young babies, try giving baby a bath in his infant seat. Put the seat right into the tub, making sure it won't slip, so both of your hands are free. Older babies, over four months, might enjoy sitting in an open-weave plastic laundry basket in the tub.

Instead of buying a change table, why not make your own? Cut a large shape from a piece of foam rubber two to four inches thick and cover it with cheery printed oilcloth, contact paper or a vinyl tablecloth. Fasten it securely on top of a low dresser or on the counter of a bathroom vanity.

Diaper pins can be stuck in a bar of soap to keep them sharp. Diapers, cloth or disposable, can be stacked in handy sections in a wicker wine rack above the change table so that a quick glance will tell how many are left. Baby garment bags are also popular for stacking diapers; buy one or make your own to hang in baby's room.

Desk organizer inserts will hold all of the little things like cotton swabs and pins. A reconditioned bicycle basket in chrome, wicker or plastic attached to the wall in a convenient place will hold baby powder, creams, lotions, oils and teething cream within your reach and away from the baby. A wall-type hat rack or smaller mug rack affixed above the baby's change table is handy to hang drying washcloths, bibs, undershirts and shoes.

Baby's clothes or toys took tidy and organized in tiered lettuce baskets in chrome or copper, or graduated hanging baskets meant for plants. For quick dressing, head to toe, try stacking clothes in the tiers in the order you dress the baby.

Young babies will be comfortable if they nap in a carriage that can be moved from room to room. If baby has his own room at night furnish it with an extra bed for Mom and Dad. On those long fussy nights parents can catnap during baby's restful moments.

Install a small (single cup size) electric teapot in the nursery. When feedings go on longer than you expected you'll have a mug of tea, soup or hot chocolate to help you relax.

Seniors suffer stereotyping

By LILLIAN ZACK
A Health Message
From Your VON

Why are quotations about aging from Shakespeare's 16th Century England to Dylan Thomas' modern Welsh poetry, largely negative and unrealistic?

Since Shakespeare died at 52 and Thomas at 39, with 500 years intervening, we may well wonder what conditioning influenced their "reality."

Dr. John Towler, a professor of psychology at the University of Waterloo, is reading Hansel and Gretel and watching Sesame Street and the Flintstones, to see how old people are portrayed in children's literature and TV programs.

If, as he believes, the media serve as indicators of the values we teach our children, we may be in trouble. Preliminary results of his study confirm that elders are misrepresented; more likely to be female than male, appearing as hags, stepmothers or witches, mean, wicked or incapable.

Related research was completed in 1978 by M. Dwayne Smith of Duke University. Believing humor to be an indicator of society's attitudes, he examined how elders were portrayed in American magazines.

In analyzing the content of over 2,200 cartoons from Better Homes and Gardens, Playboy, Ladies' Home Journal, Field and Stream, New Yorker, Esquire, Readers' Digest and Saturday Evening Post, he found a generally negative view of elders.

Recurring negative themes were sexual dysfunction, ultra conservatism and declining mental abilities. The few positive themes showed departure from accepted roles but still contained derogatory implications.

One example was "Granny" in Playboy Magazine, who generally appeared as an active, resourceful, sexually oriented elder, but was pictured with grossly sagging breasts, a distended stomach and disproportionately thin legs.

Dr. Smith found that elders appear rather infrequently in cartoon humor, particularly in women's magazines and concluded that... "this relative absence may reflect an attempt to insulate female readers from images of aging in a society which especially devalues and denigrates the aging process of women."

Both he and Dr. Towler express concern about the effect such negative pictures of the elderly will have upon the young.

We must all be concerned.

Older people come in all colors and both sexes and are strong, weak, wise, foolish, conservative, rebellious, asexual, lecherous, helpful, helpless, short, tall, fat, slim... in other words, human and diverse.

Such recurring negative stereotyping of the elderly will affect not only how we view and treat the ever growing number of aged in our society but, if we live long enough, how we, ourselves, will be viewed and treated.

Kramp's to increase productivity and service

This Wednesday through Friday, Kramp's Variety will be holding their introductory opening of their expanded premises which are designed to increase staff efficiency and customer service.

One of the new facets of the service at Kramp's is the full scale convenience store that will allow their customers to buy groceries, fresh fruit and vegetables open until 12 p.m. "We will be competing with the other convenience outlets," Kramp told The Review. "We've hired more local help, we expect our service to be better, the products improved and we hope people will come in and give us a try. We're completely locally owned and operated and our prime interest is to serve our customers better."

Presqu'ile Park offers some modern conveniences

For the camping enthusiast another season has officially begun. Presqu'ile Provincial Park opens for camping on the weekend of May 14, 1982. In addition to all of the services of previous years, the park will be offering some new facilities and programs in 1982.

In the campgrounds, a number of sites are now equipped with electrical hookups and two of the washrooms provide for wheelchair access.

For the nature lover, the new marsh boardwalk, viewing tower, bicycle and walking trails provide access to most every corner of the park. Hikes, and even, ing programmes will be offered each weekend throughout the spring and daily during the summer.

Once again reduced rate camping is available in the spring and fall. During peak season campsites cost $6.50 per night, $1.50 extra with hydro. Reduced rates are $4 per night, $5 with hydro.

The liquor ban is in effect from May 13 to 30. For complete information

superintendent Presqu'ile Provincial Park, at Brighton, 475-2204.

"From a Flicker to a Flame" is the theme for this the 85th Anniversary of the Women's Institute depicting the growth and achievements of the organization with a modest beginning in 1897 and which now has a million members around the world. The highlight will be the celebration in Toronto August 12th when 1200 delegates from Ontario will hear the World President, Mrs. Ziny Westering Muller, of the Netherlands.

Mrs. Janet Hiepleh, the President presided at the semi-annual meeting of the Federated Women's Institute of Ontario, where plans were made for participation in the National Convention in Fredericton in June; projects were promoted; resolutions dealt with and reports heard.

Mrs. Bernice Noblitt of Ottawa, now President

Elect for Canada, urged the women to be better informed re Pensions and Bill C55. A brief has been prepared regarding the latter.

Miss Milly McGhee, Director of Home Economics, brought the directors up to date on the activities of her branch and thanked the members for over 2,000 adult volunteer leaders and the sponsorship of many of the 4-H clubs throughout the province.

A special day is planned for June 15th at the Agricultural Museum at Milton when the likeness of Mr. Erland Lee, the Women's Institute Nominee, will be unveiled in the Ontario Agricultural Hall of Fame along with others who contributed to agriculture in the province. Visitors to the museum during the summer will be able to see and take part in the many special events as well as visit the Women's Institute Hall.

The Board Directors visited the Erland Lee Museum Home at Stoney Creek where the Constitution was penned in 1897. It was a memorable afternoon, being the first event in this the 10th Anniversary of the ownership by the Federated Women's Institute of Ontario. Visitors may visit this beautiful home with its beautiful artifacts from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. from Monday to Friday.

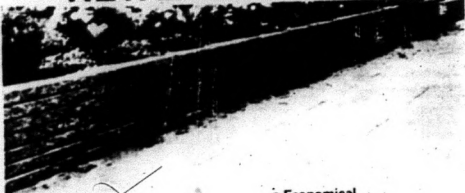

Despite all the plans for 1982, it is necessary for many to think of the World Conference coming to B.C. in June 1983. Plans are being made for the pre and post conference tours of our country and a warm welcome to our overseas visitors. Special events at the conference include an Interfaith Service, Canada Day Celebrations, special speakers, music, choirs, and a Panorama of Canadian Culture and History, with Bobby Curtola as Master of Ceremonies.

Next week, over 550 delegates from all of Ontario will attend an officers conference at Waterloo University to learn new skills in leadership, be informed of the purpose, work and activities of the Women's Institute. They and the board directors will know the many projects locally and world wide and, with this knowledge, they will be better equipped to contribute to the growth of the Women's Institute, meet the challenges in their communities and thus be a voice for all women.

Big Brothers - Sisters field trip

On Saturday, May 1, The Big Brothers and Sisters of Madoc, Marmora and Tweed took the local children to Presquille. Two vans, driven by Bill O'Hara and Mrs. Betty Workman, took everyone and the day was very successful.

Everyone took a bag lunch, kites were flown, and some went for walks on the beach with their metal detectors, though I did not hear of any million dollar treasures being found.

Photographs were taken of the lake, the beach, the swamp, the Canada geese and other interesting points. A good time was shared by all.

Crystal Beach under new ownership

Crystal Beach Madoc Park has opened under new ownership this year. The sale of the park from Bill Hawthorne Jr. to Ken and Pauline Moore and Steve and Sue Morley was completed last fall.

The new owners have committed themselves to making many changes in the park to increase camper comfort, although the improvements will be spread over at least two years.

A recreational hall is already under construction and centralized washrooms and showers will be included in the hall. The small canteen on the beach is being converted from just a canteen to a small grocery outlet that will include a small restaurant where people will be able to get coffee, tea, hot dogs and hamburgers served to them at tables located in the west end of the building.

Docks have also been built and are now in the water to the west of the swimming area. These will be permanent docking facilities for the campers. A boat launching ramp will also be built. Two children's play areas are planned, although it is expected that Construction has begun on the new recreation hall that only one will be built this year.

Paddle boat rentals have been added to the canoe and boat rentals and horseback riding will also be offered again this year. Areas of swamp are being backfilled to improve the look of the park and to try and reduce the bad effects of open swamp areas.

Next year, the owners plan to install a swimming pool and, sometime in the future, a man-made pond will be created at the base of the hill near the entrance to the park. Much of the work has been delayed because of the bad winter and long spring that was experienced this year.

The new owners also expect to keep the park open year round to accom-moderate a canteen and a restaurant where people can sit and enjoy a cup of coffee or tea along with various popular fast foods. The new docks were ready to go in the water when this picture was taken.

Besides themselves, the new owners expect to hire two full-time employees and about six seasonal staff. Interviews have already been held and their new staff are already working or ready to go to work. All of the work that is being done at the park is being contracted out to local people wherever possible.

Ken Moore, the man who did much of the initial negotiating for the park, has been literally swept off his feet by the purchase of Crystal Beach Madoc Park. He has lived in Canada for two years and has been searching for a facility like the one in Madoc for most of that time. He came from the Silchester area of England, which is about 50 miles west of London. Silchester has a population of about 500 people and is noted for its well preserved Roman walls. He owned a family-run automatic transmission garage there.

Steve Morley is Mr. Moore's son-in-law and he and his wife, Sue, and daughter Emma have taken up permanent residence at the house on the property. Mr. Moore and his wife hope to move up to the park from Toronto sometime during this year.

"I looked at a great many parks and other facilities along the Trent River System and other areas of Ontario before we bought Crystal Beach," Mr. Moore told The Review. "We were

Gypsy Moth - to spray or not to spray?

Several weeks ago at a press conference held in Tweed, District manager Wym Vonk predicted that the decision as to whether the Ministry of Natural Resources would spray a Gypsy Moth infestation near Kaladar 'could literally be made as the aircraft doing the spraying were preparing to take off. That prediction is now coming true as a large hatch of the foliage-eating caterpillars is taking place. At a public meeting held in the Kaladar Township Hall on Friday night, a resolution was passed that the ministry change from the spray Sevin to B.T., a non-chemical spray, to spray the entire infestation. Originally, the townships of Kaladar, Anglesea, Effingham had requested the spraying program by the ministry, without stipulating the kind of spray. The decision made on Friday night was made after the ministry has already expended $50,000 in preparation for spraying according to Vonk.

"At this point, we're in a damned if you do and a damned if you don't situation," Vonk told The Review on Monday. "We would have to spray on Wednesday or Thursday, which means we will have to make a decision by today. The minister is supposed to make an announcement in Toronto today, but that all depends on whether the legislature is or not. The minister was quite upset about the decision on Friday night because we got involved in the first place because of a request by the municipal council."

According to ministry estimates on Friday, the hatch was very large with 70 per cent of the eggs having hatched below the snowline and almost no hatching above the snowline as of Friday. The warm weather of the weekend was expected to start the hatch by Monday, and Agriculture Canada was at the infestation early Monday morning monitoring the situation. An up-to-date report was expected on the hatch by late Monday afternoon and the decision on spraying was expected within 24 hours.

"At this point, I think it is fair to say that the chances of spraying are 50-50. The hatch appears as bad as we had predicted."

The ministry predicts that damage by the caterpillars will be visible within two weeks.

thank their great many friends, neighbours and relations for their cards, gifts and well wishes and making their special day a joyous and memorable occasion.

Letters were received from Joe Clarke, Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau, Gove, Gen. Ed Schreyer and Premier Bill Davis, M.P.P. Jim Pollock was present and presented a plaque. They topped the day off with a family smorgasbord dinner at Mother's with all their children and grandchildren in attendance.

Mabel and Durl have lived in Madoc all their married life except for 4 years when they lived in Ajax, when Durl worked in an ammunition plant.

Local minister moves

The Brechin Pastoral Charge has invited Mr. G. Arnold Greaser to be their minister as of July 1, 1982. This has been confirmed by the Bay of Quinte Conference, meeting this past week-end at Kingston, Ontario. He will succeed the See Minister on page 12

Chamber elects president

Doug Pigden is the new president of the Madoc and District Chamber of Commerce and he and his new executive will have $800 to spend on the promotion of tourism for the area, thanks to a cheque from the North Hastings Promotional Board.

Adam Godfrey, the past president of the Chamber, declined to run as president again after serving for two years in that capacity, but did volunteer to continue working on the Chamber of Commerce executive. Doug Pigden was appointed president of the organization and will take over his new duties at the next meeting, which will be held on May 27 at 7:30 p.m. Election of the remainder of the directors will take place at that time.

The North Hastings Promotional Board was formed in this area after the Highlands of Hastings folded last year, meaning that no organization would be concerned with tourism promotion in this area. The NHPB represents the villages of Madoc, Marmora, Tweed and Bancroft and is made up of members of the Chambers of Commerce from those centres. They received a grant of $4,000 from the County of Hastings for the promotion of tourism in this area. Madoc's share of that money was $800. It was reported at the meeting held at the Town Hall on Thursday night that the NHPB was not happy with the amount of money they received from the County of Hastings and it was suggested that the Chamber of Commerce visit the councils in the area to try to get more funds for the promotion of the area. A See Chamber on page 2

Fun Fair fun

Alison Gray is pictured at the Fun Fair sponsored by the Madoc Guides, Brownies and Pathfinders on Saturday. Alison is trying to drop three pennies into the ring at the bottom of the jar, but the water in the jar makes that a tougher task than you would think. See story and picture on page 12.

similar program has been started in Bancroft and each council has thrown their support behind the project, recognizing the fact that tourism is a very important part of this area's total revenue for a given year. It was suggested that Madoc could do more advertising in the Central Ontario Travel Association brochure to promote the campgrounds, fishing and other unique attractions in this area.

A motion was passed at the meeting that the Chamber of Commerce would offer someone $5 per membership as an incentive to build up the membership and to act as a secretary to do any of the chores such as an answering correspondence etc. that an ordinary member may not have time to do. This again is a takeoff of a similar program in place in Bancroft where they expect to have a fulltime person promoting the area. Anyone interested in this position can write to Kay Peacock at Box 460, Madoc, Ontario.

Deadline for applications will be May 21.

Anyone interested in joining the Chamber of Commerce is welcome to attend the next meeting, although an exact location has not been set at this time. General members at large are welcome to join the Madoc and District Chamber of Commerce at any time and it is hoped that this year will see the Chamber of Commerce well supported.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Royal Canadian Legion held the convention for Zone F-3 in Madoc last Saturday. About 110 members from Ganoque to Brighton and Picton to Bancroft took part in the convention and then staged a parade to the Cenotaph Park for a service and wreath-laying ceremony.

The parade was led by the Pipes and Drums of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans band and Reverend Paul Kompass conducted the service at the Cenotaph. After the parade, everyone went to the Anglican Church Hall for a delicious dinner.

CHSS teacher in good company

By ROSS LEES

Laszlo (Les) Decsi, a teacher at Centre Hastings Secondary School in Madoc, was in good company on Friday, May 7, when he and upwards of 800 other athletes received athletic achievement awards at the 15th annual provincial sports awards dinner at the Sheraton Centre in Toronto.

Among those athletes were downhill skier Steve Podborski of Don Mills and swimmer Alex Baumann of Sudbury.

The award received by Les read, "Achievement award presented by the government of the Province of Ontario to Laszlo Decsi, in recognition of distinguished performance in the field of amateur sports."

Besides the achievement award certificate, Les also received a letter from Premier William Davis that said, "On behalf of the credit indeed to yourself and your community."

In announcing the awards presentations, Tourism and Recreation Minister Reuben C. Baetz lauded the efforts during 1981 of Ontario's athletes, who he described as "dedicated to excellence and the spirit of sportsmanship."

Typically modest about the award, Les described it as no big thing. "It's really nothing. Everybody got an award. I've got about five or six of them. It is a nice dinner, though, and it is a good chance to get everybody together and chat."

Les won recognition for free pistol, air pistol and centre fire pistol shooting. He won the Canadian Championship in overall points standing last year and he even won in the black powder competition. He will be representing Association. He is in his fourteenth year of teaching drafting, auto mechanics and electricity at CHSS and is also qualified to teach machine shop. "I'll teach whatever they want me to teach," Les told The Review and The Herald.

His wide range of teaching skills also carry over to a wide range of interests in sport. He has played and coached soccer, has boxed, sailed and gone through parachuting school as well as played table tennis and is an archer.

Les has several different displays of trophies, ribbons, and medallions from the various events he has competed in, but he is quick not to take full credit for his achievements. "None of this would have happened if it wasn't for the great co-operation I've received from the school board. They have done everything possible for me and I really appreciate that." He also says that he gets a lot of publicity about his shooting, but he thinks the publicity for the sport is the most important thing. "A lot of people frown on our sport, but it is a good sport and the record of shooters in Canada is very good. We have some very good people in this sport and, from some of the remarks made at the dinner last Friday, it looks like Ontario is going to give a little more attention to amateur athletes in the province."

Les Decsi of Centre Hastings Secondary School was one of upwards of 400 Ontario athletes honored for their achievements in ama-

The sport of shooting is an expensive one and Les Decsi saves money by loading his own ammunition. Les is a member of the government and the people of Ontario, it gives me great pleasure to present to you the Achievement Award for your outstanding contribution to our Ontario Sports Program.

Sunset Handgun Club in Madoc and, last year, he won the Canadian Championship in overall points standing.

Our purpose in presenting these awards is to recognize those in our province who, through extraordinary prowess and personal determination, have contributed significantly to Ontario's sports stature.

It is gratifying to see the kind of determination and dedication you have shown, resulting in your outstanding athletic success. Congratulations. You are a Canada at the U.S. International event being held in Phoenix in June and he will also be going to the World Muzzleloading Championship in Kitchener in September. He also hopes to make the trip to Brisbane, Australia for the Commonwealth Games this year, but he does not know at this time how the selection process works. He also admits that it will be a very expensive trip and that may cause some problems.

Les practices at the Sunset Handgun Club just east of Madoc and he is also the representative for the Eastern Region for the Ontario Amputee Sports

School should be like this every day

dary School last Tuesday. Approximately seventy students from S.H. Connor School of Tweed, Tweed-Hungerford School, Madoc

Township and Madoc Public Schools, and Marmora Senior School and Earl Prentice School took part in many different and exciting activities that the students themselves thought might be fun.

The activities were dreamed up by CHSS students after the public school students had expressed an interest in certain topics. The public school students were then chosen from their various schools by various different methods and then were taken to the high school for the best day of school activities many of the students (high school and public school) had ever experienced.

The students learned about magic (from Amazing Roberts, a magician from the Belleville area), they had a physical education class designed to make the students from the various schools mingle and get to know each other, they learned about some of our local minerals, especially talc, from the mine manager in Madoc, they took art classes, they worked on the computers at CHSS and they were given puzzles to work on from the gifted children from CHSS.

ous schools together
competitive atmos-to develop relation-that would make their ation at the high level that much when it happened. It also gave the students a chance to pick topics that they were interested in and learn more about them.

While only a limited number of students were involved in this Exploration Day, it now appears that enough interest was shown by everyone involved that many more students will get a chance to participate next year. Many of the teachers felt they would like to hold exploration days at their own schools for all of the students next year and similar days will likely be held at the high school in years to come.

The science experiments, think games, magic tricks and computers, in fact every event, proved very popular with the students, according to Cheryl Mound, one of the organizers of the day. "We just don't have enough of this sort of thing," she said.
"I think it accomplished its aim of giving the students some new ideas to think about and also gave them a chance to meet students from the other schools. I hope it won't be just a one-shot deal, but that they will continue to learn at home. I was really pleased with the whole thing."

Allan Banford, another organizer, also expressed his pleasure at the way the day went, adding "We have to express our thanks to the CHSS students and staff for their terrific co-operation and help. They were great and they seemed to relate well with the younger students."

THE HASTINGS COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION

Financial Statements - 1981

To The Supporters Of

The Hastings County Board Of Education

We have examined the Consolidated Balance Sheet of The Hastings County Board of Education as at December 31, 1981, and the Revenue Fund and the Capital Fund Statements of Operations for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests and other procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

Trenton, Canada
March 24, 1982

In our opinion, these financial statements present fairly the financial position of the Board as at December 31, 1981 and the results of its operations and the changes in its financial position for the year then ended in accordance with accounting principles described in Note 1 to the financial statements applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

1. ACCOUNTING PRINCIPLES

The financial statements have been prepared by the Board using accounting principles that are prescribed by the Ministry of Education and are considered appropriate for Ontario School Boards. These principles are in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles except as follows:

(a) Accrual Accounting
Revenue and expenditure are accounted for on the accrual method except for:
(i) No provision is made for interest on unamatured debenture debt from the date of payment to the end of the fiscal year. Expenditure is reported in the period in which goods were received, or the services rendered. Goods received during the period are charged directly to the appropriate expense accounts and no inventories of goods and supplies remaining on hand at the end of the period are reflected.

(ii) No provision is made to record the liability for retirement and/or sick leave benefits accruing over the working lives of employees, except as described in Note 10.b.

(b) Fixed Assets
Fixed assets are charged to current expenditures unless financed by long-term debt. Principal and interest charges on net long-term liabilities are included as expenditures in the period due. Fixed assets including Capital Leases, described as Capital outlay to be recovered in future years, are included on the balance sheet only to the extent of the balances of the related net long-term liabilities outstanding and of the related temporary financing at the end of the fiscal year.

(c) Reserves and Reserve Funds
Reserves and Reserve Funds represent funds appropriated for general and specific purposes and are charged or credited to revenue fund operations in the year appropriated or drawn down.

(d) Under-Over Requisition of Taxes
The difference between the net expenditures of any year and the amounts required to finance these expenditures is carried forward to the subsequent year to either increase or reduce the net revenue requirement from ratepayers.

2. ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Those accounting policies deemed to be significant are as follows:

(a) Consolidated Balance Sheet
The Consolidated Balance Sheet reflects the combined assets and liabilities of the Revenue Fund, Capital Fund and the Reserve and Reserve Funds. The Balance Sheet combines the figures of the elementary and secondary schools. Trust funds amounting to $144,555 administered by the Board are not consolidated.

(b) Expenditure - Trainable Retarded
All data with respect to the operations of schools for the trainable retarded are incorporated in the financial statements for secondary schools.

(c) Net Long-Term Liabilities
Debentures are recorded as unamatured debenture debt in the year of sale. The principal payments due within one year on the long-term debentures and the lease have not been reflected as a current liability.

(d) Retirement Gratuities
Retirement gratuities are expensed in the year in which the employee retires.

(e) Early Retirement Incentive Plan
Early retirement incentive plan payments are expensed in the year of retirement to the extent that the incentive is due and payable.

Holgate - Palmateer wedding

College Hill United Church was the setting for a spring wedding on April 10, 1982, when Elizabeth Palmateer and Terence John Holgate exchanged wedding vows.

The bride is the daughter of Margaret Ramsay and the late Robert Ramsay of RR1, Eldorado. The groom is the son of Freeman and Helen Holgate of Belleville, Ontario.

Reverend Shorten performed the double ring ceremony. The Church organist assisted Lorraine Brinson of Tweed (niece of the bride), who sang You Light Up My Life as the bride entered the Church and Annie's Song during the signing of the register.

The petite, fair-haired bride entered the Church on the arm of her brother, Mark Ramsay, in a full length gown of nylon organza sheer, with satin lace trimmed Madera neckline. The bodice was accented with satin ribbon and full bishop sleeves while the skirt fell into a train edged with guirre lace. To complete her ensemble, the bride chose a derby hat accented with guirre lace featuring a fingertip veil.

Her bouquet was a free style cascade of amethyst roses, beige mini carnations, cranberry verberna, babies breath and ivy.

Matron of honor, Laurie Wood of Trenton, wore a white jersey gown with blouson bodice and shoestring straps, covered with a waltz length coat of strip lace. She carried a clutch bouquet of silk flowers of dusty roses with babies

Junior bridesmaid Angela Palmateer, daughter of the bride, was gowned in pink dotted swiss with puff sleeves. The neckline was enhanced with a square yoke edged with ruffle of lace and ribbon. Her bouquet of amethyst roses matched the matron of honor.

Lorelei Palmateer was flower girl for her mother in a gown fashioned after the junior bridesmaid, except mauve in color. Her bouquet was also the same. Best Man was Bob Wood of Trenton.

The usher was Brian Holgate, brother of the groom of Belleville. Beau James Holgate, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in Sydney Centennial Hall. The happy couple are now residing at RR2, Stirling.

7. NET LONG-TERM LIABILITY REPAYMENTS

Of the immatrimonial debt outstanding of $11,731,934, principal amounting to $4,745,934 plus interest amounting to $3,915,319 is payable over the next five years as follows:

|------|-----------|-----------|-----------|
| 1982 | 858,969   | 917,915   | 1,776,884 |
| 1983 | 921,159   | 854,668   | 1,775,827 |
| 1984 | 971,353   | 786,703   | 1,758,056 |
| 1985 | 968,453   | 714,669   | 1,683,122 |
| 1986 | 1,026,000 | 641,364   | 1,667,364 |

8. RESERVE FOR WORKING FUNDS

The reserve for working funds at December 31, 1981 applicable to the elementary school operations is $475,218 (1980 - $475,218) and to the secondary school operations is $70,620 (1980 - $362,651). The Board has passed a policy limiting an annual reduction of this reserve to 25 percent of the opening balance.

|-----------------------------|-----------|---------|
| Balance - Beginning of year | 837,869   | 766,601 |
| Additions during the year   |           |         |
| Elementary                  |           |         |
| Secondary                   | 207,962   | 71,268  |
| Balance - End of year       | 1,045,831 | 837,869 |

It is anticipated that approximately $118,800 will be allocated from this reserve in 1982 to assist with payment of funds required to build a new elementary school, Note 14.

9. RESERVE FUND - FUTURE CAPITAL EXPENDITURES

A reserve fund has been set aside for elementary school capital projects and site purchases. The Ministry imposes certain restrictions upon the use of these funds.

|-----------------------------|---------|--------|
| Balance - Beginning of year | 34,061  | 24,190 |
| Additions: Interest earned  | 4,483   | 3,371  |
| Transfer from revenue fund  | 463,841 | 6,500  |
| Balance - End of year       | 502,385 | 34,061 |

It is anticipated that approximately $368,200 will be allocated from this reserve fund in 1982 to assist with payment of funds required to build a new elementary school, Note 14.

Analysed as follows:

|                                              | 1981    | 1980   |
|----------------------------------------------|---------|--------|
| Ministry Equity Capital Reserve Fund         | 110,982 | 3,250  |
| Board Equity Capital Reserve Fund            | 252,942 | 30,811 |
| Reserve Fund for Future Capital Expenditures | 138,461 | 34,061 |

10. (a) EMPLOYEES SICK LEAVE CREDIT PLANS - RETIREMENT GRATUITIES

Under the Employees Sick Leave Credit Plan presently in existence an academic employee, or an employee who is in a designated capacity of retirement under the Teachers' Superannuation Act, having not less than five consecutive years of full-time service with The Hastings County Board of Education and who ceases to be employed by the Board because of age or who, for reasons of ill health acceptable to the Board and who, upon retirement, is entitled to a pension under the Teachers' Superannuation Act shall be eligible to receive a retirement gratuity equal to one-half of the number of cumulative sick leave days accumulated with the Board to a maximum of 200 days multiplied by the employee's salary at the time of retirement and prorated as to the number of consecutive years of full-time service with the Board to a maximum of 20 years. This basis and formula is also applicable to non-teaching employees of the Board except that the maximum accumulated days is 240.

The Education Act, Section 158 (1), limits the amount of gratuity to a maximum of one-half year's earnings at the rate received by the employee immediately prior to termination of employment.

The estimated cost of these accumulated days as at December 31, 1981 to the extent that they may be used to determine the retirement gratuity to an employee on retirement, amounts to approximately $4,135,025 (1980 - $3,272,159) for elementary and $4,912,470 (1980 - $3,675,117) for secondary at the end of the year. Provision has been made on account of the employee's Sick Leave Credit Plan in these financial statements in the aggregate amount of $50,000 as set out in Note 10 b. Payments to retiring employees are recorded in year an employee retires and these payments amounted to $202,605 in 1981 and to $210,705 in 1980.

(b) RESERVE FUND - RETIREMENT GRATUITIES

During the year the Board allocated funds as follows to provide for a portion of future payments to retiring employees:

|--------------------------|------------|-----------|--------|
| Provided during the year | 25,000     | 25,000    | 50,000 |

11. EARLY RETIREMENT INCENTIVE PLAN

As part of the agreements reached between the Board and its elementary and secondary teachers in February of 1980 teachers who are at least 55 years of age, are receiving the maximum salary in their category, and have been employed by the Board for at least ten years may apply under this Early Retirement Incentive Plan to retire early. The Board will pay $5,000 per year for a maximum of four years or until age 65, whichever comes first, to each teacher approved under this plan. This plan was extended by the board to include Senior Administration in December, 1981. Expenditure under this plan for 1981 was $70,000 (1980 - $40,000) and the Board is contingently liable for further payments as follows over the next three years which will be paid provided all conditions of the agreement are satisfied.

|--|--------|--------|---------|
|  | 65,000 | 55,000 | 50,000  |

12. CONDITIONAL CONTRACT OF PURCHASE AND SALE

The Corporation of the City of Trenton signed an agreement with the Board dated July 15, 1981, to purchase a school and site for $150,000. This agreement is scheduled to close on November 30, 1982. This revenue is recorded during this current 1981 year and as a result of the sale, $150,000 has been transferred to the Ministry Equity and Board Equity Reserve Funds, Note 9. The effect on the Net Over (Under) Requirement for the year is nil.

13. CONTINGENT LIABILITIES

Note 10 - Employees Sick Leave Credit Plans - Accumulated Credits
Note 11 - Employees Early Retirement Incentive Plan

14. COMMITMENT

Although a contract has not been signed, the Board has approved the construction in 1982 of a new elementary school in Belleville, at an estimated cost of $1,500,000. The Board plans to finance this project from reserves, Ministry funds, and from 1982 current revenue.

Happy Wanderers Senior Citizens' Club

By VIOLA WANNAMAKER
The Happy Wanderers Senior Citizens Club 473 held their meeting, May 14 at 2 p.m. in the Church Hall with 54 members present. The president, Mrs. Maude Deline welcomed all present and thanked Mrs. Burnice Clark for presiding during her absence. The meeting opened with O Canada, with Mr. John Muir at the piano. We are pleased to have the Muirs back after their holiday in Florida. Mrs. Helen Wannamaker read the minutes.

The members are asked to drop-in at the Legion at 1:30 p.m. every other Wednesday. Mrs. Myrtle Gates thanked the club for cards sent to her while she was a patient at Kingston Hospital. Mrs. Mary Moorcroft thanked the club for sympathy cards sent to her when her brother Ogle Devolin passed away.

The treasurer gave an interesting report. The birthday song was sung for the May birthday members. The bus convener Mr. Coston Paraniuk gave the report on bus trips. There will be a bus trip May 27, to Lang and Peterborough picking up members at 7:45 a.m. at the Senior Citizens Apartments and at 8 a.m. at the church. The Information Booth will be opened by the Senior Citizen the weekend of May 24 and each weekend until the last of June, then it will be open all week until Labour Day. Mrs. Gerie Invelt will be calling members to look after the booth. The members are asked to bring in food articles for the basket to be taken to the Senior Citizens picnic July 5 at Wellington.

The door prize was won by Mrs. Catherine Morgan. Mrs. Mary Moorcroft conducted the program and Mrs. Grace O'Rourke read The Touch of the Master's Hand. Mr. Muir favoured all with playing A Mothers Love and The Bells of St. Mary. Mr. Coston Paraniuk read Be Yourself. Mrs. Mary Moorcroft and Mrs. Viola Wannamaker sang a duet Are You Mine. Mr. Wilfred Forestell read a letter concerning Nursing Homes and Home Care and described his wife's ailments as she is a patient at Blue Spruce Nursing Home at Delora.

- Mr. Ernie Trembley showed slides of the Hawaiian Islands, which were very much enjoyed by all.

SHOCK TALK

Sailing safely through summer means watching for overhead powerlines.

When you're launching your boat or when it's on the water, don't make the fatal mistake of letting the boat's mast or antenna touch overhead wires.

It could knock the wind out of your sails, forever.

Mrs. Allan Sager receives 25 year certificate

At Achievement Day on Saturday, a quarter of a century of dedicated leadership was rewarded when Mrs. Allan Sager received her 25 year certificate. She has guided over 200 young girls through 4-H. Many have received county honors, provincial honors and even advanced honors.

She became involved originally when her own two daughters were in Home-making clubs. Both daughters received advanced honors. Eldest daughter, Isabell was first in the County to receive advanced honors, awarded for completion of 18 projects.

Many of her graduate girls are still actively involved in community work. This is when Mrs. Sager receives her personal satisfaction when she sees that these young ladies are still using skills for betterment of community life.

Her own two daughters are actively involved in 4-H. Elizabeth Wood helped to organize a 4-H Heritage Club in the area this year. Her daughter, Elizabeth is a first year member in 4-H. The other daughter, Isabella, has six years as a leader both in 4-H Homemaking Clubs and also 4-H Agricultural Clubs. Of Isabella's three daughters, two are in 4-H Homemaking clubs. Karen has already received county honors. Debbie has four projects and her youngest, Susan, will become a member in 1983. All children are active in Agricultural Clubs. To round out Mrs. Sager's grandchildren, Sherry Sager also has two years 4-H experience under her belt. Sherry's younger sister has ten years before she can become a member.

Mrs. Sager has had the satisfaction of seeing many girls reach maturity and go out into the world on their own. I guess to her, this is the ultimate achievement. Congratulations on a job well done.

CHL geared for action

The Centre Hastings League formed for local area youths to participate in softball has seen a 50 per cent increase in teams.

League president Maurice Gunning said that he has now 31 teams enrolled in six leagues. This is a substantial increase over the 15 teams last year.

We have six teams in the Atom Division, six in Squirt, eight in Pee Wee and five Bantams. Also new this year, we see three pee wee and three bantam girls teams.

This league represents seven rural centres, with Queensboro a new entrant this year. This speaks well for all the volunteers who have taken the initiative to help organize a team or to help organize the league. Clean, wholesome, healthy recreation helps "keep the young man or lady at home." Remember the life of your area is what you make it. Support these teams when they begin to play in your area.

The Dodge Ram 50 looks small but acts big handling 1500 pounds of payload. Under the hood its 2 litre engine delivers exceptional horsepower and torque yet gives remarkable mileage on regular leaded gas that costs 12 cents less per gallon. Like getting an extra month's driving free. That's a lot of payload and a lot of performance in one neat little package.

Approximately 60 Guides, Brownies and Pathfinders staged a very successful and entertaining Fun Fair at the Madoc Kiwanis Centre on Saturday which is their major fund raising event of the year. The proceeds from the event are split evenly and go to the general expenses or operation of the various organizations.

The girls, mothers and leaders worked in shifts to man the games stands, (beanbag throw, ring toss, penny drop etc.) the bottle cap guess, cakewalk, puppet show, book table, refreshment stand, what-not table and petting zoo. Tea was served, there was baking for sale along with popcorn and you could also have your face painted.

Truly, there was something for everyone and fun was at a premium.

Roots hunt fascinating

Got a sneaking suspicion you're related to royalty?

Was your great-great grandfather really a horse-thief?

Are you a long-lost cousin of Wayne Gretzky... or Pierre Trudeau or maybe even one of the Rolling Stones?

If you're curious about your roots... and like the idea of trying to unravel a great (but never-ending) mystery, maybe now is an excellent time to start digging up your past and filling in your family tree.

Genealogy is the science or study of family descent, and for thousands of dedicated Ontarians, it's a fascinating hobby. Family Unit Month presents a wonderful opportunity for families to trace their history.

In recent years, genealogy has become much more than simply tracing the names of family ancestors, and their dates of birth, marriage and death... in other words, the family tree concept.

"These days, people are doing real family histories," says Marion Keffer, one of the charter members of the 4000-strong Ontario Genealogical Society, headquarters in Toronto. "The family tree idea is okay, but it's really quite dull compared to the excitement and pride of discovering where and how our ancestors lived."

Miss Keffer adds that it doesn't matter how ordinary you think your predecessors were, once some of the details of their lives come to light, the quest becomes truly inspiring.

Getting Started

Before you start out, however, you should decide whether or not you've got the right personality for this particular hobby. To succeed as a genealogist you've got to be patient, nose-y, and doggedly persistent. This is no pastime for people with short attention spans!

Ready to go? Here are a few excellent tips for getting under way.

Before finding your 'long-lost' ancestors, you must first make a record of what you already know about your 'known' relatives.

One of the cardinal rules of family research is to write it down! Your success as a family historian will largely depend on your ability to record all the information you find about your ancestors and about the sources of this information.

Begin by talking to your older relatives — parents, grandparents, aunts, uncles, etc. Very often there is somebody else in your family who is interested in genealogy... and by comparing notes, you'll save yourself duplication of effort.

Examine your family's existing records. Most people have at least some birth, marriage and death certificates... as well as deeds, wills or other documents to establish who lived and died when and where. The Archives of Ontario in Toronto suggests closely examining the family Bible, photo album, scrapbooks, military papers, letters, school diplomas, degrees, yearbooks, etc.

Visit the family plot in the cemetery and record the findings. Look for local histories, church, school or society anniversary pamphlets or books with lists of members.

When you have assembled all the facts from these sources, follow up a pedigree and ancestry chart.

Now you're ready to seek out other sources of information, such as census material, land records, ships' passenger lists, etc.

One excellent source is the Archives of Ontario (limited to those 18 years-of-age and older) but there are several other very helpful sources too, such as:

1. The local library, which often contains a number of genealogical guides and other references which will be of great help in your search. Consult the reference librarian, who is often an invaluable fountain of knowledge!

2. Your local genealogical society. There are 22 branches of the Ontario Genealogical Society and you can find out which one is closest to you by writing to: Ontario Genealogical Society, Box 66, Station 9, Toronto, Ontario, M4T 2L5. These organizations often give courses in tracing your family tree, and through their regular publications, will provide you with tips on how to conduct research and what records are available to you.

3. Reference 'how to' books on genealogy. An excellent one is 'The Canadian Genealogical Handbook' by Eric Jonassen, which is available through the Ontario Genealogical Society for $12.

Writing your family history is an ideal project, not just for individuals, but for the whole family. Your quest may be the inspiration for a special vacation trip, it may take you well off the beaten track, and it will certainly put you in contact with a wide variety of people who have some fascinating stories to tell.

Tracing your family history is a richly rewarding experience. But remember, you'll only get out of it as much as you put in.

Good luck...and happy hunting.

gallery on International Museum Day.

The old, the new, the ingenious, the sublime... there's a description to suit each of the thousands of objects on display in Canada's public art galleries and museums. The National Museums of Canada encourages people to mark International Museum Day during the week of May 18 by visiting any one of Canada's 1500 heritage institutions, and enjoy our nation's treasures.

In the past year, Canada's 50 leading museums provided over 11 million visitors with an opportunity to appreciate the marvels of nature, and the accomplishments of humankind. If you haven't been to a museum recently, the National Museums of Canada urges you to join the millions who have, by celebrating International Museums Day

What does one call a four-leafed, four-petaled trillium? Perhaps a quadrillum. Don and Gina Bowen, Cordova, were walking in the woods last Sunday when

Don spotted this specimen. "He said look at that unusual trillium", said Gina. "I couldn't believe he had picked out the strange trillium from a great carpet of flowers. He has always been good at spotting four-leaf clovers and other unusual plants." The quadrillum is held by son Tony Bowen. Photo J. Moore

Road fatalities lowest since '60s

The number of motor vehicle fatalities in 1981 was the second lowest since 1964, Ontario Minister of Transportation and Communications James Snow said recently.

In 1981, 1,445 people died in highway-related accidents, compared with 1,424 in 1964 and 1,508 in 1980. Pedestrian fatalities declined 10.9 per cent, from 266 to 237 in 1981.

And the number of injuries also dropped slightly to 100,321, down one per cent from 1980, when, 101,367 people were treated or hospitalized.

"While I'm pleased to note Snow, 'the statistics are still sobering. They represent a waste of human life which must be considered unacceptable, especially in the case of motorcycle accidents.'" drivers and passengers died in accidents, up from 99 in 1980 while 5,189 were injured as against 4,468 in 1980.

Last year, 107 motorcycle

"With the popularity and numbers of motorcycles increasing every year, I'm very concerned about this trend," said Snow. "My ministry has always recommended completion of a recognized motorcycle driver-training course for those purchasing these machines. And I'm still convinced such training can contribute greatly to motorcycle safety."

"Part of the blame for motorcycle accidents, however must rest with drivers of other vehicles who too often aren't as alert to motorcyclists as they should be. A motorcycle is much smaller than a car or truck and more difficult to see, so special care must be taken when sharing a road with one.

"Thankfully, motor vehicle fatalities declined," said Snow, "and preliminary figures for this year indicate it could be a promising trend."

Through 1981, 657 drivers and 393 passengers died in accidents compared to 682 and 413, respectively, the previous year. That's a drop of almost 4.1 per cent.

"We are approaching the summer season, which is traditionally our worst when it comes to fatal motor vehicle accidents," added Snow. "And it certainly doesn't have to be that way."

"With every driver's care and co-operation, I know I could report a major decrease in accidents, not as an event worthy of special note, but as a common occurrence, every month of every year."

Boards not all bad

By BOB TROTTER

They are called eggheads.

They are the experts from the higher halls of learning, the universities, who stand back and survey their chosen field of expertise from the outside looking in. They have had a great many good ideas and a few disasters.

Farmers, as a general rule, poo-poo their theories because most of them have never spent much time in the barn.

K.A. (Sandy) Worley, an agricultural economist from the University of Guelph, is an egghead.

But Sandy Worley is not your ordinary egghead. He should be listened to. A couple of years ago, I heard him at a marketing conference in Hespeler where he suggested, logically and forcibly, that the price of quotas will eventually level off if the marketplace is not tampered with.

He recently suggested that governments should revoke the pricing powers from the egg, chicken and turkey marketing boards because he feels those boards are using their powers to reduce production too far and setting prices too high.

Dr. Worley is concerned — and he is probably a step or two ahead of the boards involved — that the track record of a few marketing boards could ruin the image of all the rest of the marketing boards. And he frankly added that marketing boards are a useful tool for farmers and the rest of the nation, too.

In other words, marketing boards are good for us all until those boards go beyond working in a free marketplace.

He thinks that surveys of production costs should be done by the public, not by farmers. He thinks the national Farm Products Marketing Council, the agency that supervises marketing boards, should have more influence — e.g.: more power — and membership on the council should be drawn from the general public. Right now, legislation says that there should be more farmers on the council than others and the chairman or vice-chairman must be a farmer.

He suggests a need for moderate reform within the present marketing legislation, not wholesale change or revolution.

Well, I like Prof. Worley. He is really a mild-mannered, unassuming chap whose words of wisdom make a great deal of sense... sometimes.

I suggest that the eggheads, though, take a look at their own house of cards before jumping on their anti-marketing board horse. Marketing boards were originally set up to give farmers some parity within the food system. To take pot shots at these boards without a full-scale investigation into the entire food industry is a dreadful mistake. Too many economists are guilty of such unfair criticism. They zero in, on one sector and completely ignore the rest of the questions begging an answer.

Farmers would never have pressed for marketing boards if they did not need them. Farmers are fiercely independent people. They no more want to be bound by the rules and regulations than they want 20 inches of rain in May.

It was the rest of the food industry that forced them into the position of needing marketing boards. The so-called free market system, out there beyond the farm gate, was killing agriculture. Farmers could not compete. And the concentration of power is getting greater.

Four or five big buying units are surfacing in Canada right now. In a few years, perhaps even months, that concentration of power may be so great that marketing boards will be considered a blessing rather than a blight.

Economists like Dr. Worley have directed too much flak at marketing boards and not enough at the rest of the system so that farmers come through looking like bad guys when all they are trying to do is remain viable.

Sounds help child's speech

By CATHARINE CLARK
Infant Development Consultant

In the first year babies need two things in order to develop their language skills: good speech models such as mom and dad, and encouragement, and the opportunity to practise language. Respond to all sounds that the baby makes, talk directly to him and wait for a response. Most of the first year is a babbling stage so what you say doesn't matter, all the baby needs is to hear you making sounds. Later you will make a point of talking about things that are physically present, teaching him labels and names and speaking to him in full sentences. For now, though, in the first year, all you need to do is talk, talk, talk! Here are some ideas.

Three to Six Months

"Bob White" Make a long, low sound and then add a quick high note at the end, similar to the call of a bobwhite bird. Vary the length of the low sound so the ending is a surprise.

Six to Twelve Months

Imitation skills will be developing so babies at this age might be particularly interested in games using the easiest sounds, ma, pa, da, di, mi, mu. You know that "ma ma" is usually pronounced before "da da" simply because it's easier to say? At around seven months, teach the baby to imitate blowing a kiss, cough or click his tongue.

Eight Months

"Which is What?" Babies are able to understand simple words long before they can say them. Place a number of his favourite toys on the floor in front of him and while you face each other pick up each toy in turn and talk about it: "See Benjamin, this is your ball, it's round and blue and it jounces. Watch." During this naming stage, let him play with whatever toy he reaches for. With all the toys back on the floor ask him to hand you one: "Which one's the block? Hand it to me. Good." Remember, many children at eight months can hold out a toy to you but will not let it go. This is a natural stage of development. He's not being selfish or tense. Later he'll begin to hand you toys and release them.

Nine Months

The nine-month-old will try imitating simple words as well as sounds so encourage her to try repeating labels such as cat, milk, baby. Before twelve months, his pronunciation won't be perfect - congratulate him when he says "ca" for cup. Singing and nursery rhymes are super for stimulating language development. Look up the words to Row Your Boat, pat-a-cake, "round the garden" and easy weensy spider and teach the baby the gestures to go with the songs.

Don't forget that reading to your child stimulates his language development. Don't limit yourself to simple baby books. Variety is the secret; try photograph albums, magazines, the TV Guide, illustrated cookbooks, art books, catalogues or the National Geographic. The text doesn't matter since it's only the pictures and your chatter that will interest him in the first year.

NEXT WEEK: More on language stimulation.

This weekly column on child development is provided by the Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit's Infant Stimulation Programme. Lamb Stabilization Payment Sheep are a named ommodity under the Agricultural Stabilization Act.
nd, for the first time, will e eligible for stabilization ayments. The payment mounts to $5.14 per lamb.
he support level of $74.40 er cwt. is based on 90 per ent of the previous five-ear average adjusted to reflect changes in the cash cost of production. The 1981 average market price for lamb sold was $69.05 per cwt. Expressed on a per-lamb basis for easier administration, the payment amounts to $5.14 per lamb.

There will be no minimum eligibility for lambs sold for slaughter. The payment is based on grades A B and C lambs weighing up to 125
lbs. or the equivalent carcass weight, and on new crop lambs sold for slaughter. To qualify, producers must provide evidence of sale for slaughter. Producers who purchased feeder lambs must provide proof of ownership for a minimum of 45 days. Most sheep producers will receive application forms direct through the mail, others may obtain the forms at the stockyard offices or through the local offices of the Ministry of Agriculture and Food.

Safety Awards Program

The Farm Safety Association is sponsoring a Safety Awards program to recognize individuals involved in agriculture whose efforts have resulted in prevention of death or serious injury to individuals. Nominations for the safety awards should be submitted through the local Farm Safety Association or through commodity organizations.

Phillips heads plowmen's group

Good Leadership, Enthusiasm and Plain Hard Work were the ingredients that the first president brought to the office of this corporation. So said Bob Phillips of Belleville when he assumed the chair as the second president of the Hastings International Plowing Match Association.

In complimenting W. Don Sills, of Thurlow Township on the role he has played, Bob Phillips pointed out that Phase One was complete. Under W. Don Sills, the non-profit corporation had been formed; a financial structure had been established; a selection of potential sites had been established; Hastings County has been awarded the "International" for 1986. It is also noted that the organization has established its structure by endorsing a constitution and bylaws plus a planned program of committee development.

"No one really knows how much work that W. Don Sills put into this program over a two-year period starting from scratch," said Bob Phillips. He went on to say that the presidency would now revolve among the executive board members on an annual basis.

From here Phase Two gets under way. Final site selection is in the hands of the Ontario Plowmen's Committee. Locally the establishment of the General Administration Committee is its next major project of the Executive Board in 1982. It is this committee that will actually run the plowing match. From past experience there could be 24 subcommittees representing groups and activities that make a part of this annual event.

Make spring cleaning chores a team effort

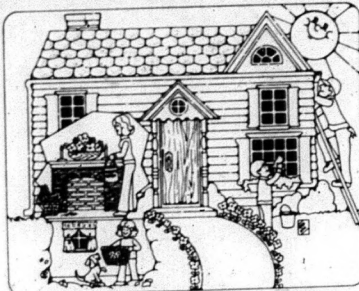

"Many hands make light work," according to the age-old saying. With such wise advice in mind, families might consider making a team effort when tackling the annual spring cleaning battle. Rather than dreading the challenge, conquer it a simple way by incorporating a home rejuvenation program into the springtime activities of family members. Their full participation in an organized cleaning project will shrink the awesome chore into an easily manageable task, allowing more time for everyone to enjoy spring fever fun.

The makers of Bon Ami, America's favorite cleaning brand for almost 100 years, offer some ideas for a successful family program for home revitalization. Begin with a family brainstorming session to prioritize the various cleaning needs, starting with the most difficult and time-consuming to the easiest and smallest jobs.

Next, devise a cleaning work schedule that extends over a period of time. (No spring cleaning fling can be accomplished overnight.) Each family member may choose particular times for their jobs that correspond with their schedules.

Then, assign different weekly duties to each person, according to age and ability. Some tasks may require the efforts of two or more, in which case they may set an agreed tackling time and date.

IT'S TIME TO CONQUER the spring cleaning challenge by enlisting the entire family in a home revitalization program. Include family members in the development of an organized cleaning plan. Then, when each person tackles chores according to a set schedule, the home quickly takes on a fresh, springtime appearance. With the aid of Bon Ami, America's "good friend" since 1886, and combined efforts of family members, spring cleaning can easily be managed before summer comes blazing in.

When trying to decide on which jobs to conquer first, the family might concentrate on their personal living area, such as a bedroom or work area. Since it is likely that each person will have more pride in cleaning their own area, the group project will get off to a successful start.

The next organized step is to work from the top to the bottom, beginning with the highest level and moving downstairs. Outside house cleaning should be reserved for the first warm weather weekend.

Some insulation jobs need professional's expertise

If you're thinking about adding insulation, but are one of those homeowners who disdains manual labor, you'd better hire a professional contractor.

Do-it-yourself is definitely not for you. You're not alone, however. An estimated $29 billion in home modernization projects is expected to be handled by professionals this year, according to a recent home improvement study.

Adding insulation to finished walls is an example. It requires the skills and services of an expert. Hiring a contractor is virtually the only way to get the job done efficiently and thoroughly.

When establishing the cleaning timetable, it might be best to stagger hours so that cleaning supplies are not in multiple demand. It is also wise to arrange schedules so that two people are not working on different tasks at one time in the same room. This will eliminate confusion and reduce criticism of others' cleaning methods.

When the opportunity arises to tackle outdoor jobs, there are some key areas that shouldn't be overlooked. Remember to remove leaves and other debris from drain spouts and gutters to ensure rain flow to proper areas. This will reduce the possibility of water leaking through the roof which can lead to stained ceilings.

Next, rid winter grime from windows with a gentle effective cleaner, such as Bon Ami Cleaning Powder or Cake, which thoroughly removes soil, without leaving a scratch. Sparkling clean windows allow the warming spring sun to shine in and help indoor plants enjoy the growing season.

Spring is also the ideal time to clean out the fireplace so that it will be ready when winter drafts return. Once the ashes and soot are removed, homeowners may want to take steps to make the fireplace appear cooler.

A simple and effective trick is to coat the inside with whitewash which can easily be removed with warm water when autumn comes.

Another cool idea is to replace the andirons with a large potted plant or basket of greens. Also, the usual kindling and logs can be substituted with pine branches for a refreshing effect.

Remember to include the family pets in the cleaning project. While dogs depend on owners for a healthy brushing and sudsy scrubbing to remove winter coat build up, pets should also be treated to freshened living quarters.

Spring is the perfect time to clean and air out the cat's box, the bird's cage, and even the turtle's aquarium. Responsibilities of these tasks might go to the family member who cares most for the particular pet.

Thinking ahead
Throughout the weeks of the spring cleaning regimen, any family can accumulate its fair share of white elephants. Rather than toss these no-longer-precious items in a certain collecting spot, it might be simpler to clean and price them as they are found, then store in boxes for future yard or garage sale. This method saves the painstaking hours of organizing a sale the night before.

Although spring cleaning seems like a never-ending process, it can easily be conquered with the aid of an eager, active family, and the recommendations for an organized approach to the battle from the cleaning experts at Bon Ami, America's "good friend" that cleaning enthusiasts have counted on since 1886.

Springtime turns a man's fancy outdoors

Include lawn in spring shape-up

As cold, slumbering months of winter draw to a close, it's time to initiate a spring health and nutrition program—not only for the body, but also for the lawn.

While lethargic muscles and bones signal the desire to shape up for summer fun, the lawn's plants cry for revitalization as well. Maybe homeowners have yet to hear what those roots are saying, but just as the body begs for food and exercise, so does the lawn.

Rather than let grass plants suffer from lack of attention, lawn care experts at Vigoro®, manufacturers of the most complete line of home lawn and garden products, suggest that homeowners concentrate on supplying their grass with the essentials as early as April.

Begin with an active workout. While the body needs a rigorous exercise program to tone muscles and build endurance, the lawn needs a vigorous raking to stimulate its roots.

At the same time, routine raking will rid clippings and old leaves which crowd the environment, making it difficult for the lawn grasses to gain proper nourishment.

Implement a nutritious diet plan. When developing a shopping list of balanced foods for the family, remember the lawn also requires a proper diet to regain important nutrients that are consumed in the lawn's early growing periods.

Don't overfeed

Plant food, such as Vigoro®, should be applied in April to help ensure a thick, green lawn and again in early September to aid root development for the following spring.

Just as people can over-eat good food, a lawn can be over-fertilized, too. For this reason, Vigoro® has developed a time-release fertilizer which eliminates the concern for over-feeding by slowly providing nutrition for up to three months.

Lawns also need generous amounts of water to activate the plant food process by releasing nitrogen, the most important nutritive, to stimulate growth and greening.

Water regularly

Vigoro® experts caution that a light sprinkling, like a starvation diet, can be hazardous because water evaporates quickly and encourages the roots to stay near soil level in search of more.

Instead, the lawn should be watered weekly for approximately three hours or until the soil is wet to a depth of six inches. As joggers need proper running shoes, lawns need the most effective sprinkling systems.

A rotating sprinkler or a flat, perforated hose works best to provide deep-reaching moisture.

While grass plants grow long and healthy from a proper maintenance program, they will also require weekly cutting. However, just as no person should lose too much weight, lawns should not be cut so short that more grass is cut off than what is left. Two inches is the minimum amount that a lawn should be mowed to avoid a burnt-looking color.

Early spring is also the time to repair unsightly bare spots that result from hard use during the previous summer or snow pile-up over the winter. Rake the affected area to loosen the soil, reseed, add plant food, then water generously.

TO HELP THE FAMILY shape up for summer, enlist its participation in a physical fitness program for the lawn. Begin with a routine, energetic raking that will give grass plants room for proper nourishment. Add a nutritious diet of plant food, such as Vigoro®, manufacturers of the most complete line of lawn and garden products since 1924, to replenish lost nutrients. Then, with proper watering, mowing and maintenance, homeowners can achieve a thick, green lawn for summertime enjoyment.

Lawns take time

Since trim, fit bodies and lush, green lawns require time to develop, an early care and attention plan may be the key to a physically fit summer.

With a nutritious diet for the lawn from Vigoro®, a leader in the home and garden product field since 1924, and a rigorous exercise program, homeowners will be able to enjoy the advantages of a well-tuned body and a beautiful lawn.

Free your home of bees

Wasps and hornets love to make themselves at home under the eaves of a house. There the nest is protected and grips securely to the wood.

But, it poses a serious danger to householders. Hunter Douglas Inc., innovator of do-it-yourself building supplies, suggests that an effective way to deter bees is to cover the area with aluminum soffit panels.

In addition to resolving the pest problem, aluminum soffits require far less upkeep than painted wood surfaces which are prone to constant peeling.

Do-it-yourself soffit installations can save nearly 60 percent and is an easy weekend project with long-lasting results.

To reduce house painting, add aluminum soffits and fascia

Painting the underside of your roof overhang (the soffit) and the trim along the edge of the roof (the fascia) is a back-breaking chore if you do it yourself, and an expensive one to have done professionally.

Instead, consider installing aluminum soffits and fascia, whose finishes withstand the roughest weather conditions and eliminate painting.

Properly installed, they are warranted for 20 years and more, thus paying for themselves with a short time through reduced painting costs.

Aluminum soffits and fascia are appropriate on any style house from landmark status to modern, and improved finishes baked on at the factory, along with new application techniques, make it possible to duplicate the lines and curves of original wood trim.

The color story

Although white and brown aluminum soffit panels are currently the most popular, soffits come in colors to match or blend with wood, masonry, aluminum, vinyl or brick siding.

Installation is fast, easy and economical, and the aluminum permanently covers up old wood soffits which have deteriorated.

Aluminum soffits also come in a variety of widths and lengths and in solid or ventilated panels.

Contractors use aluminum coil stock—long lengths of aluminum which they bend to shape—to accommodate special corners of old wood trim. Matching fascia and other trim are also available.

THE ADDITION OF ALUMINUM SOFFIT AND FASCIA to the underside of deteriorating goof overhang and trim along the edge of the roof eliminates the need for painting these hard-to-get-at areas. Finishes, which are permanently baked on at the factory, withstand the roughest weather and are warranted for over 20 years. They come in a variety of styles, sizes and colors to complement siding.

Advance knowledge

Soffit and fascia systems are relatively simple installations, but it helps to know some basic facts before signing a contract with an installer.

For instance:

If the existing wood soffits are vented or louvered for attic air circulation, be sure your home improvement contractor specifies ventilated aluminum soffit.

If the vents are small, have him check attic ventilation to make sure it is adequate.

As a rule, the soffit panel should run at right angles to the house, and external corners should be mitered for a better appearance.

Seal off attic opening

When the old fascia board is being covered, aluminum should extend up to the roof shingles in order to seal off the opening to the attic. This helps to keep out squirrels and other pests. It also seals out moisture behind rain gutters.

The new aluminum fascia should be securely fastened to the house with aluminum nails, because this part of the

YOUR HOME: COLOR IT ELEGANT!

A properly color-coordinated home can communicate a sense of elegance.

Experts say that the choices ought to be limited to three basic colors; for the roof, the siding and the trim.

Vinyl siding, for example, comes in a variety of colors that improve the curb appeal of any home.

designed to work together. They are lightweight, durable, rustproof, and won't shrink, swell or rot. Long lengths can be assembled with fewer joints, and there's less weight on hangers and eaves.

Porches and breezeways are also ideal places for a permanent ceiling system of aluminum soffit panels, for they also need repairs more frequently than the general exterior.

HOMES WILL BENEFIT FROM OUTDOOR WIRING

Many experienced do-it-yourselfers who have no qualms about indoor electrical wiring jobs balk when it comes to doing wiring outdoors.

However, the difficulty of installing electrical devices out-of-doors is more imagined than real, say the experts at General Electric's Wiring Device Department.

By simply taking care to select the proper devices and wiring, the DIY'er can soon have electricity performing many jobs outside the home, such as lighting the yard or walkways, powering tools and even helping to light a charcoal fire.

Because outdoor wiring is exposed to rain, snow, dirt and a range of temperatures, weatherproof materials and special procedures have to be used to assure the installation will be safe and reliable.

Giving spring fix-up tasks the 'old one, two'

Round one at the "fight" between every homeowner and home repairs officially begins in the spring, yet summer. No matter how hard you try, there's always something that needs to be fixed again.

But, with a little planning, you can do the job right the first time and win the fight in a unanimous decision.

This year, try dividing each chore into two parts—the "essential improvements" such as repairs and maintenance, and the "cosmetic improvements" such as cleaning and painting.

The folks at Insta-Foam Products, Inc., makers of Great Stuff foam sealant, have developed a checklist of tasks that can be knocked out with the "old one, two."

• Door and window frames—More than 60 percent of all air leaks occur through door and window frames. Check yours for gaps, and seal as needed to significantly cut heat loss and cooling costs. A fresh coat of paint for each will finish the job.

• Storm windows—Water-stained, cracked window sills may mean that your storm aren't doing the whole job. Try this simple test to determine if your windows need additional caulking.

Move a lighted candle around the frames and sashes of the window. If the flame dances around, you can be sure that your heating and cooling dollars are going right out the window.

Fill cracks in the window sills with a foam sealant and a little paint. Finish up by removing storm windows and putting into storage.

• Screens—Scrub down screens with soapy water, and repair any holes that were overlooked last year. They'll be all ready to hang and cool your home.

• Porches and stairs—Look for splits or holes in stairs and porches. A touch of sealant may be just the thing to keep someone from tripping. A fresh coat of paint in a bright spring color will be the finishing touch!

• Aluminum siding—Keep moisture and dust out of your home by sealing any cracks or open areas at the bottom edge of aluminum siding.

Properly sealing around hose bibs, utility meters and pipes will prevent insect and rodent intrusion this summer. Afterwards, a quick spray with the hose will easily remove winter dirt from the siding.

• Patio—Spruce up wooden furniture with a touch of sealant and a dab of paint. Look for and repair cracks and holes in picnic tables, planters and concrete, too.

DIVIDING SPRING FIX-UPS into two parts—the "essential" repairs and "cosmetic" improvements will get the job done right the first time. Check window and door frames for gaps and seal as needed to cut heat loss. A fresh coat of paint is the finishing touch.

Instant organizers for your teenager's room

Last year it was the garage. And the year before it was the family room. This year tackle the toughest room to clean—your teenager's room—for your spring cleaning project.

You can help your child, and yourself, by following a few basic rules of organization. With a good system, and a little self-discipline on your child's part, this common "disaster area" can be made more liveable and more presentable.

Get your teenager involved in an organization makeover by starting with these helpful hints:

• Discard unnecessary belongings. If your child has clothes, games and other miscellaneous items that haven't been used in a few years, throw them out or donate to a favorite charity.

If they're seasonal items, or will be useful in time to another family member, store them in an out-of-the-way closet or attic, leaving valuable space for necessities.

• Place popular items

where they can be easily reached. Bring sweaters down off high shelves where they're difficult for teenagers to reach and keep neat.

By using sturdy stackers in the lower closet area, you can avoid wasting this space with cluttered shoes. A hanging shoe rack on the inside of the closet is a practical storage solution.

• Use organizers for closet doors. Rubbermaid makes several easy-to-install space organizers that can be placed right on a closet door for easy access.

A grocery bag holder can double as a rack for magazines and school notebooks, and a hanging caddy can hold socks and other items that often clutter drawers.

Now that you've spent time together organizing the room, encourage your teenager to make use of these organizers.

Springtime clean-up for a fire-safe home

Each year more than three million fires occur in the United States. Fire prevention experts say the majority of these fires are caused by carelessness in the home.

This spring, why not have the entire family participate in a "hot spot hunt"—correcting the fire hazards in your home—as a unique kind of spring cleaning. It's a simple and fun way to make your home fire-safe and it may even result in saving a life.

Here's how it works. Designate a room in the house to each member of the family and have them point out and correct all the fire hazards. For example:

• Have a child remove from the attic old newspapers, clothing and books which easily catch fire.

• Have Mom check that the electrical cords on the kitchen appliances are not frayed or warm from overuse.

• All the windows should open and close with ease.

• That only the proper size fuses are being used

And, to repair any cracks that may have developed, Devcon's High Heat Repair bonding material comes in a tube for easy application.

Springtime repairs easy to accomplish

Spring is the season of picnic lunches, day trips and backyard barbecues. It's always best to be ready so, before the season is in full swing, it may be a good idea to inspect your grill or hibachi... especially since, after the long months of winter storage, they tend to be rusty and in need of repair.

To get your grill in working order, be sure to mend cracks and remove dust. Use a filler or sealant that can withstand the high heat from a barbecue. For best results in rust removal, use a high intensity gel that eats away corrosion.

New products

There are two new products this spring from the Devcon Corporation that provide effective results for mending and cleaning barbecue grills.

Rust Jelly is a heavy-duty industrial strength rust remover that dissolves rust on contact. The best news though, is that Devcon's Rust Jelly is easy to use.

Just brush or squirt a liberal coating of Rust Jelly over the corroded area. Let the material set for about five minutes, then wash the area off with clean water. If necessary, a second coat can be applied and left to set for a few hours.

For repairs

To repair cracks and crevices on the grill, Devcon also makes a High Heat Repair that fills cracks and makes rust-proof repairs. The bonding material comes in a tube to make application simple. High Heat Repair can also be used on wood stoves, chimneys, car mufflers and exhaust pipes.

For more information on do-it-yourself springtime repairs and Devcon products, write Devcon, 30 Endicott St., Danvers, MA. 01923.

Fill the cracks and crannies

There's a chip on the edge of the coffee table... or a gouge in the desk when John tried to carve his initials.

You'd like to fix up these eyesores but you've had no experience as a woodworker and it's expensive to get professional help these days.

Here's how you can make these repairs yourself:

- First clean and dry the surface to be repaired. Be sure it is free of grease, oil or loose particles.

- With a putty knife, generously pack Elmer's Wood Filler into hole or crevice, leaving just enough extra to allow for sanding flush with the surface after it dries. For typical small nicks and dents, one application is enough.

For deep cracks or gouges, two or more applications are better than one heavy one. Always allow one more application to dry completely, 15 minutes or so, before applying the next.

For shallow repairs, sand about 15 minutes after application. For deep ones, allow four to eight hours before sanding.

- If area is to be stained, this should be done within one hour of sanding. Stain should be allowed to dry overnight before applying oil-based paint, shellac or varnish.

The latex-based Elmer's filler cleans up easily with water before drying. After drying, it can be drilled, nailed or cut without cracking.

Counter tiling: a great do-it-yourself project

A ceramic counter is a small home improvement, but it makes a big difference. Invariably, it adds the kind of glamour that lifts a common kitchen into a class by itself. Add it's glamour that's fuss-free and lasts!

For ceramic tile takes such abuse as hot pots and toasters in stride, never needs waxing, and cleans with plain soap and water.

As if these attributes weren't enough, a ceramic tile counter is also a very affordable project. Especially if you're a do-it-yourselfer. If you do your own tiling, you can certainly do the counters of the average kitchen for under $100.

But can you install ceramic tile yourself? You bet, says the Tile Council of America. Thanks to such product innovations as quick-set adhesives, special trim pieces and pre-mixed grout, anybody who's reasonably handy can achieve professional results.

Do-it-yourselfers probably have most of the tiling tools already...such as a straight edge, tape rule, carpenter's level, square, carborundum stone, scraper, sponge and cleaning rags.

The special tools needed are a tile cutter, a notched trowel, a rubber trowel or squeegee, and tile nippers.

Four-step process

Tiling is a simple four-step process. The adhesive is spread with the notched trowel, the tile is set, after 24 hours or so grout is applied, and the tiles are cleaned and polished.

Cutting tiles is also easy. Mark where to cut, place the tile in position in the tile cutter, score with cutter, and break off.

The tile nippers are used to shape cuts to fit around pipes and such. Little bits are nipped off at a time, and edges smoothed with carborundum stone.

Ceramic tile can be installed over most materials usually found on a countertop, including plastic laminates, ceramic tile and, of course, the plywood support for a new counter. Whether the surface is new or old, it must be absolutely clean and smooth.

Before you tile, decide how you'll treat the countertop edge. Ceramic trim pieces that match the counter tiles give a neat, professional result as well as easier care and longer wear than any other type of trim.

Handling the sink is a puzzle to many do-it-yourselfers. But it needn't be...not if you let good old common sense prevail.

In a new installation, leave out the sink till the top is tiled. In existing countertop installations, the sink has to come out.

Today, most sinks are self-rimmed and lift out without a hassle. But, if the sink proves stubborn, call in your friendly plumber.

The tiles are cut to fit around the sink opening, and the sink (or the metal rim that attaches to the counter) rests on top of the cut tiles, covering the raw edges.

CERAMIC TILE COUNTERTOPS make beautiful sense. Hot pots won't burn them, they are truly wash-and-wear, and you can install them yourself. Here, tile with a hand-crafted look is used in a country kitchen, proving emphatically that today's ceramic tile has banished yesteryear's clinical image. The tile is from the Potter's Touch group by Florida Tile.

ENERGY-SAVING TIPS FOR THE HOME

Did you know that a significant amount of heat is lost through the openings for the electrical switch and receptacle outlets in the outside walls of your home?

HouseMaster of America, a nationwide network of home inspection and warranty professionals headquartered in Bound Brook, N.J., recommends reducing that energy waste by installing UL-listed insulating gaskets between the wall plate and the receptacle or switch.

Unravel confusion on carpet labels

Shopping for carpet can give you a bad case of wall-to-wall confusion, and for good reason. There are dozens of carpet manufacturers, and most of them make as many as 75 carpet styles and patterns in two to three dozen colors. Labels provide important information, once you learn the terminology.

Most carpeting sold today is made of synthetic fibers manufactured by chemical companies. They, in turn, sell their fibers to carpet manufacturers so the quality of the carpet depends not only on the fibers, but also on how each manufacturer chooses to use them.

Of the synthetics, nylon is the most popular—but, all nylon is not the same. Some can be hard to the touch, generate static electricity, and spot easily.

However, these negatives have been just about eliminated because of recent improvements made by the chemical companies.

If, for example, the label reads "Anso IV," that tells you the fiber is stain and soil resistant nylon made by the Allied Chemical Nylon Corp. The "Antron" family of nylon is made by DuPont, and the nylons from Monsanto Textiles are labeled "Ultron."

Within each group there are different grades. "Antron Plus" is far more soil, stain and static-resistant than a fiber which is simply labeled "Antron." Don't pay for a grade of fiber you're not getting.

Weight, another factor which contributes to the quality and longevity of your carpet, is determined by the length of the fibers and the density, but the density is more important.

Test for yourself by bending a piece of the carpet. If the tufts of fibers are set far apart, they will not hold their shape.

An "FHA Approved" seal on the carpet label means only that the weight meets the absolute minimum established by federal standards. A densely tufted carpet is also easier to keep clean because soil remains closer to the surface.

Whatever you select, you will find that you can add years of life to your carpet just by keeping it well vacuumed. And to eliminate those pet and musty odors so easily trapped in fibers, just sprinkle "Love My Carpet" rug and room deodorizer on the carpet as you vacuum.

"Love My Carpet" also reduces static electricity. You have a choice of three scents. Regular, Citrus Fresh and Floral Fresh. When you've finished vacuuming, you'll find that you've given your room a truly light, airy and clean finishing touch.

Adding vinyl siding? Think energy savings

To make your home better looking and virtually maintenance-free, you may be thinking about installing solid vinyl siding. If so, you should be aware that this is an excellent time to help seal up costly home energy leaks.

On most older homes, the only practical way to add insulation to the walls is by drilling holes in the exterior and blowing in the insulating material.

Although professional insulation contractors are skilled at concealing these ports of entry, an outer layer of siding is a foolproof method of concealment.

Other energy options

If you are installing solid vinyl siding, however, you do have another energy-saving option—sandwiching a special insulation sheathing between the original wall of the residence and the new siding. (Energy savings vary. Find out why in the seller's fact sheet on R-values. Higher R-values mean greater insulating power.)

One of the newest types of insulation board or sheathing is Certafol, which is available from CertainTeed Corporation, a leading producer of solid vinyl siding and accessories.

Certafol insulation board can help you keep home energy costs under control and may also cut down on drafts that can be caused by cracks in the walls.

Insulation board may even enhance the appearance of exterior siding, especially on older homes where the walls may be uneven and irregular.

In effect, the rigid sheathing smooths out the wall surface so that the solid vinyl siding lays flatter and looks neater.

Replacement windows

If you are seeking even greater energy-savings than can be had with wall insulation, consider installing solid vinyl replacement windows at the same time as your new siding.

CertainTeed vinyl windows are made with special insulated glass and contain an air chamber that provides a very effective thermal barrier.

Suggestions for decorating with photography

Drama, beauty and personality can all be expressed through photographic displays in your home. No matter what your decor, photographs can be compatible, and their use in home decorating limited only by imagination.

The Professional Photographers of America (PPoA), the oldest and largest association of photographers in the world, cite three characteristics of photographic art that are among the reasons for its increasing popularity in interior design: flexibility, personalization, and moderate cost.

Flexibility

Wall decor photography comes in all shapes, sizes and styles. Displays vary from clusters of photographs to wall murals as large as 40 x 100 feet. The medium may be color, black-and-white, sepia, or even special effects.

Wall decor photography can be used to enhance any room. Formal portraits lend sophistication to a living room.

A large photomural can make a small room look bigger or create a "view" where none exists. And, groupings of candid photos can turn a hallway or family room into an informal gallery.

Personalization

Family portraits can be designed to express your family's lifestyle.

PHOTOGRAPHIC DISPLAYS IN THE HOME add to any decor. The professional Photographers of America report that a popular subject for decorating a home is the people who live there.

ily's lifestyle. They can be taken in a studio where lighting equipment can create special effects, or they may be taken outdoors for a relaxed, informal look. Many professional photographers will come to your home to create portraits in a special setting.

You may wish to experiment with group portraiture by taking advantage of Ralston Purina's "Picture of Health" program. A proof-of-purchase coupon from Thrive catfood entitles you to a free family group portrait taken by a professional photographer who is a member of PPoA.

Photographs can be used to focus on family history. A hallway can be the perfect place for displaying your family tree.

The collection of portraits and other photographs can "grow" right up the stairs with each new portrait you acquire. Black-and-white and color photographs of varying sizes and shapes can be mixed for interest.

For a special effect, top off the arrangement with one large family portrait that shows how everyone looks today.

Cost

Moderate cost makes photographs an appealing alternative to paintings for interior design. Like oil paintings, photographs are original works of art. They can be created to meet specific design requirements, yet are sold at reasonable prices.

Tips for decorating with photography

The PPoA offers the following tips for selecting prints and designing wall arrangements:

- Select prints with "impact" images that stir the spirit, that have presence.
- A photo should have a

HOMEOWNERS WARMING UP TO ENERGY CONSERVATION

Americans, who in the past have ignored the idea of saving energy in the home, are now warming to the idea.

Steadily rising energy prices and the message of dollar savings are prompting homeowners to consider energy conserving home improvements today.

"People realize that although there is presently a petroleum glut, the picture could change at any moment.

"Faced with the eventuality of soaring energy bills many of the formerly apathetic are taking action now, believing that postponing action will cost more in the long run," says John Hammon, executive vice president of the National Home Improvement Council.

There is actually a great deal that homeowners can do themselves in the way of energy conservation.

sense of realism. It should be something viewers can readily understand and identify with.

- When designing groupings, be sure to vary size and shape. Add oval or round photographs for variety.

- Mix old pictures with up-to-date photographs. Professional photographers can restore treasured photos of family members from earlier generations.

- As a rule, artwork should be hung so the wall groupings form a visual unity with the surrounding furnishings. Adequate illumination is also important.

MEMORIALS

RAMSAY - In memory of a dear father William Ramsay who passed away May 23, 1964. In memory of a father whom we all love so dear. Whom we'll always remember each month of the year. A flower which blooms there is none to compare. With a love of a father who dwells here so near. Let us always remember when the wind is high. And you are drifted by all our sides. A spirit which encourages each one of us. And I know dear dad that you are with us. Sadly missed by the Ramsay family. 11

MOON - In loving memory of a dear father & grandfather, Joseph Moon who passed away May 19, 1975. This month comes with deep regret. It brings back a date we'll never forget. You fell asleep without saying goodbye. But memories of you will never die. As we do not need a special day to. Bring you to our mind. For days we do not think of you. Are very hard to find. They say time heals all sorrow, & helps us to forget. But time has only proved to us how much we miss you yet. Lovingly remembered by son Ron, daughter-in-law Ann & grandchildren Tina & Kenny. 11

FRAPPIER, Paul - In loving memory of a dear brother who passed away May 23, 1976. His weary hours & days of pain. His troubled nights are past. In my aching heart I know. He has found sweet rest at last. Sadly missed by sister Flo, brother-in-law Ted & family. 11

Shepherd's Nook

BY KEN YARROW

I have come into possession of a paper by a Mr. Phil Irvine and I think part of it would be of interest. This man's background is in the New Zealand sheep business, therefore large flocks are more what he is used to dealing with.

I feel this to be pertinent because of the trend (and necessity), of larger flocks in Ontario if we are to become competitive.

Easy care sheep? This is a concept that I have to agree with one hundred per cent. "There is a tendency for some to over-shepherd their flock particularly at lambing time. This is understandable when one considers the value of each lamb saved. The point I want to make is that sheep can do a good job of looking after themselves if given a chance to. If you live with your ewes at lambing time, then you can be sure you will breed a flock of sheep that respond and depend on your care. On the contrary, if you cull out ewes that can't look out for themselves, then you will soon breed a flock that are easy care. That is, they pretty much look after themselves. It's a choice between short term benefits and long term progress.

This is only a small portion of the paper, but on thinking it over I thought it made good sense. Myself as well as others for various reasons, have tended to keep ewes for different reasons. These reasons may vary from sire to being from a twin ewe, my own reasons for keeping some questionable ewes were for expansion purposes. Some will naturally ask, why not buy? well, it's like this, being a commercial breeder, I have been playing around with different crosses. Another reason is the cash outlay for good ewes, guaranteed by the breeder. I cannot see buying ewes that are not, because without the guarantee one may as well babysit their own problems instead of purchasing unknowns.

Next week I would like to try to share some information on new concepts in fencing and predator control. Speaking of crosses, I recently purchased a Scottish Blackface ram and am going to try him with some Cheviot ewes. Results could be very interesting. I like these Cheviot ewes for basic stock. Crossed them with a part Columbian once and had great lambs, also with the Suffolk. Next came back to a Cheviot for some more basic stock, also did the same with my Suffolk ewes.

Now I have no desire to put down the breed, but the Leicester cross is the only one that was a little disappointing, my basic idea just didn't work out.

Gypsy Moth spraying not going smoothly

Spraying of the Gypsy Moth infestation near Kaladar will take place as soon as weather conditions permit, according to the Ministry of Natural Resources, but only on an experimental basis. Three sprays will be tested - Sevin, B.T. a non-chemical spray, and a virus spray - WILH, each to be applied to three different areas of the infestation to compare the results.

Early last week, Natural Resources Minister Allan

Pope announced that the spray program had been deferred even though the minister was "deeply distressed" at the change of heart of Kaladar, Anglesea and Effingham Townships at a public meeting held on May 15. Originally, the townships had requested a spray program but later changed the request for spraying to exclude Sevin.

The announcement by Pope raised the hopes of protesters against the spray when they and members of the press read the announcement as meaning Sevin would not be used if indeed any spraying was done.

By Thursday, those hopes were dashed when an announcement from Iotom stated that the spraying program would continue on an experimental basis on crown land. The experiments would include the use of Sevin and the announcement was in direct contradiction of an earlier statement by the ministry stipulating that the ministry would not spray without the support of local residents.

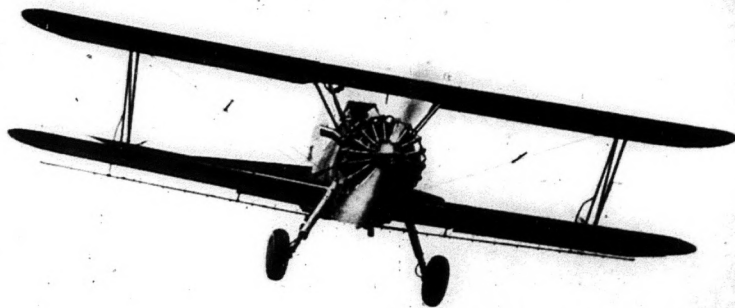

On Thursday evening a biplane and a helicopter were in place on the Northbrook airstrip to begin calibration and spraying as soon as weather permitted. According to the ministry, aerial spraying will not take place if the wind exceeds 10 mph or if rain is expected shortly after the spraying is completed. "The wind should be virtually undetectable," said Alex Denys of the Tweed offices of the Ministry of Natural Resources.

Protestors also began arriving on the airstrip on Thursday night and they marched around the aircraft carrying signs protesting the use of Sevin. The number of protesters swelled to approximately 40 by 8 p.m., but no flying took place. The biplane was guarded throughout the night by a security guard and the helicopter was transported out of the area on a float.

On Friday morning both the ministry and the protesters were back on the airstrip and after some talk between the two factions, it was agreed that calibration would continue. Calibration is simply tests by the ministry to set the spray mechanism on the aircraft to release the spray at known rates of flow and water is used for these tests. These tests would allow the ministry to proceed with spraying as soon as the weather allowed, which the ministry hoped would be that evening. The winds did not diminish sufficiently to allow spraying and Saturday's weather was even less hospitable.

Weather conditions were not ideal for the spraying throughout the weekend, so spraying did not take place. Continued protesting by a group of concerned citizens from the area resulted in the Ministry of Natural Resources removing their aircraft from the Northbrook airport to another undisclosed landing strip. It was also reported that the ministry would use helicopters instead of fixed wing aircraft. This would mean that the spraying program could take place from virtually anywhere, but that the actual spraying would take longer due to the smaller carrying capacity of the helicopters (60 gallons as compared to 200 gallons for the biplane).

This bi-plane was allowed to do calibrations, tests at the Northbrook airfield last Friday but protesters later forced the ministry to abandon the field. The use of this type of aircraft is the quickest and cheapest means of applying the spray as opposed to helicopters.

Heritage House re-opens on June 14 in downtown location

By TRACEY MORRISON

Heritage House will once again open its doors for the 1982 summer season on June 14. This year marks the project's third season in operation. Heritage project is funded by the Experience '82 program and will provide summer employment for four Madoc students. The project allows students to practise valuable skills for the future in the areas of historical research, creative writing, public relations, typing and museum planning.

Interviews will be held at the end of May for the positions of typist, researcher and a manager trainee. The applicants must live in Madoc and be continuing their education. If you are interested in applying for Heritage Project, please register with Student Manpower in Belleville and prepare a resume to be presented during the final interview.

Not only does Heritage Project benefit the students involved but it also provides a cultural centre for both young and old. Last year more than one thousand people visited Heritage House. With two years of community participation behind us, we are confident that the support will continue. Community involvement is a key factor in a project of this sort since we rely on the information and temporary donations of artifacts from the local people.

Similar to previous projects, Heritage House will center its activities around a temporary summer museum displaying local artifacts. Once again Heritage House will be located downtown, since we found that this location was both popular and convenient. Outside of the museum activities we will continue to compile information for our book which will record all the births, deaths and marriages in the Madoc area since 1860. The bound volume will be presented to the Public Library for public use.

Last year the Heritage House staff, with the help of Miss Alma Moorcroft, expanded the project to include cemetery recording. This facet of the project proved to be quite successful and useful to many visitors who wish to trace their descendants. A copy of the completed report of White Lake Pioneer Cemetery is available at the Public Library or by contacting Tracey Morrison at 473-4397. We plan to continue this aspect of the project this summer by recording Lakeview Cemetery in Madoc.

In addition to the activities already mentioned, Heritage House will also hold local tours of historical homes in Madoc. We will wind up each tour with coffee and doughnuts at the Morrison home. Following each tour, a detailed article will be featured in the Madoc Review, under the Heritage column.

We are looking forward to making the 1982 season a successful one. If you have any suggestions or artifacts that you would like to display please feel free to call me at 473-4397. Once again, Heritage House invites you to "step into the past."

Madoc couple travel to Cameroon to visit son

During April of this year, Harold and Vera Bailey, a retired United Church Minister and his wife, now living in Madoc, Ontario, travelled to Cameroon, Africa to visit their son Glen, who is serving as a junior diplomat in the Canadian Embassy there.

Dr. and Mrs. Bailey stayed in their son's home in Yaounde, the capital city, most of the time but were able to take an eight-day motor trip through the western part of the country, travelling 1,800 kilometres over rough, dusty, gravel roads.

They attended worship services in Roman Catholic, Baptist and Presbyterian Churches. The priests and two sisters at the Roman Catholic Church were French Canadians, the parishioners Cameroonians, while in the other two denominations, the ministers and people were all Cameroonians. "The quality of the singing in all churches, without instruments or musical scores was most impressive," Dr. Bailey said.

In their travels they became aware of the social and economic conditions in the country. "The literacy rate is approximately 30 per cent and there is not public education system or public health except to a limited extent in the larger cities,"

"Communications systems are very underdeveloped," Dr. Bailey continued. "Yaounde is the capital city, has a population of about 300,000 but not more than five per cent of the homes have telephones. There is no television at all in the Cameroon."

The obvious presence of money and poverty in the country was another impression gained by the Madoc couple. "The president is building a palace and government complex estimated to cost five hundred million Canadian dollars, but the average citizen has a living standard far below that enjoyed even by Canada's poor."

Dozen eggs sell for $225

Vance Drain of Tweed, Ontario was thrilled to learn that one dozen of his eggs sold for two hundred and twenty five dollars. That's what happened after The Ontario Egg Producers Marketing Board's 3rd Annual Egg Quality Contest. There were eight classes in the contest and Vance Drain was the winner in the class of Grade A Medium eggs. The eggs placing first in all eight categories were auctioned off and Craig Hunter of Stroud, Ontario purchased Vance's eggs for $225. A total of $1,542.50 was raised from The Ontario Egg Producers' Egg Auction for the Crippled Children's Fund.

Besides the inspection of cadets on parade, there will also be displays of field craft, first aid and communications.

Letter to the editor

Keep club in operation

This letter is in response to the letter written to you by the executive of The Madoc and District Figure Skating Club.

It saddens me to learn that such a well organized club will not be operating next year only because of the lack of parent volunteers. Our daughter was a member of this club and we always felt that the executive as well as the skating carnival committee did excellent work. The fact that this club is able to operate with a "healthy bank account" proves this.

The executive is correct in that the Madoc Arena is an excellent facility. We have lived in Central Alberta for the past year and have had the opportunity of visiting several small towns. We have not yet seen an arena in any of these towns that can compare to the Madoc Arena.

It is very important that the children be considered in this matter as many will be disappointed if the club closes. I sincerely hope that more parents of these children will get in touch with the executive and offer their help in keeping the club in operation next season. The smallest of tasks done are truly appreciated.

Sincerely,
Judy McCracken

Trent Valley Minor Midget All Stars chosen

Nineteen of the best local area minor midget Allstars have been chosen to represent the area in the Canada Day Summer Hockey Series. This represents the first time that a team of this calibre has been chosen from this area but, according to Dave Hobson of Madoc, this area has been asked to enter teams from all age levels next year.

Generally, this particular area is excluded from the draft areas used by the other representative teams at the Canada Day Summer Hockey Series. Hobson said he gave him a draft area that included Godfrey to the east, Picton to the south, Haweslock to the west and Madoc to the north. Hobson contacted the coaches of the teams within his area and subsequently invited approximately 50 players to be in the area. About 30 attended regularly and last Thursday, the team was narrowed down to the 19 player roster limit.

Members of the team elected from the local area include Craig Dart of Trent

River, David Human of Haweslock, Doug Reid of Madoc and Byron Hobson of Madoc plus Allan Wilde of Haweslock. The team will wear the Minnesota North Stars green uniforms and they are looking for sponsors to help defray registration costs plus travelling and lodging costs for the various tournaments they will be attending during the summer. Harold Bailey of Madoc and Brian Savers of Stirling have been helping with the on ice drills for the team.

The team will play home games at Stirling with their first big tournament to be held in Arnprior on July 1. The team will attend the Lakeshore All Star Tournament in Cobourg on August 20 and could also possibly attend a tournament in Peterborough on July 30.

Hobson told Cembal Publications that other teams have all been in operation for about five years or better, but this is the first time that rural kids from this area have had an opportunity to compete against the best 15 year old hockey players in Ontario. The team has played an exhibition game against Oshawa recently, and Hobson was pleased with the result of that game even though they did lose 8-2.

"That team has played together for the last two years and we hadn't made our cuts at that time. We played them to a 1-1 tie in the second period. We'll be playing them again soon."

Because teams from all age levels will be asked to compete next year, any interested people should be thinking about their participation next year.

interest including a rehabilitation centre for crippled children in Yaounde started by Cardinal Leger and now operated under the direction of a French Canadian doctor with wide experience in health care, an ice making plant developed with funds from the Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) and also managed by a French Canadian, a hydro transmission line being constructed in the jungle largely by manual labor. This project has been undertaken by a Canadian firm, and has Canadian supervisory personnel. Canadians also staff a Roman Catholic Vocation at School near M. Banga, and a Training Centre in Yaounde for Cameroonians wishing to learn how to maintain and operate heavy construction equipment (also supplied by Canada).

Other impressions gained by Dr. and Mrs. Bailey were that Cameroon is one of the more stable countries in Africa with an elected President but a one party system. It is a bilingual country, with a French speaking majority. The English speaking are concerned about losing their language and influence in the country, a feeling shared, no doubt, by Anglophones in the Province of

Before his retirement in 1978, Dr. Bailey was secretary of the United Church's Division of Mission in Canada, Toronto. He and his wife have been attending the Annual Meeting of the Bay of Quinte Conference in Kingston.

On Monday, May 17, a meeting of interested people for the continuation of the figure skating club was held. Approximately 20 people attended the meeting and when a vote was taken to see if the club should continue or not everyone was in favor of having the club continue. Following a most welcome outcome of the first vote, nominations were then held for our new slate of officers. For the 1982-1983 season the officers are as follows: President - Mrs. Peggy

Johnston; 1st Vice-president - Mrs. Elaine Johnston; 2nd Vice-president - Mrs. Leslie Chapman; Secretary - Mrs. Karen Bailey; Treasurer - Mrs. Gwen Bateman; NST Chairman - Mrs. Joan Wiggins; Test Chairman - Mrs. Jo Ann

Smith; Carnival Chairman - Mrs. Jo Ann Smith; Ways and Means Committee: Chairman - Mrs. Mary Jane Henderson; Members of Committee: Joanne Wiggins, Grace Tough, Diane Bouter, Kathy Vallieres, Brenda Taylor, Bonnie Plumbie, Carol Ann Kramp; Telephone Committee: Chairman - Mrs. Brenda Taylor; Members of Committee: Helen Gurney and Barb Chappell; Publications and Communications Chairman

Mrs. Diana Bouter; Members of Committee: Mary Jane Henderson, Carol Ann Kramp and Karen Bailey; Ice Captain - Mrs. Judy Graham; Pro Liaison - Mrs. Leslie Chapman.

Registration will be held early in the fall on the dates of September 10, 11 and 18. President Peggy Johnston will possibly attend Skate In Ontario which is held at Camp Couchiching also in the fall.

CHSC spring dance

Centre Hastings Snowmobile Club held their spring dance on Saturday, May 15 at Madoc Kiwanis Centre.

A large crowd of dancers enjoyed the music provided by John Murphy and his Music Makers. Club members provided lunch, which consisted of a cold plate and coffee, or tea.

During the evening, several prizes were won. The door prize was won by Alex Hamilton of Eldorado. The raffle tickets went to: First prize - K.W. Hird of Scarborough won $100; second prize of a transistor radio was won by Terry Thompson of Eldorado and third prize, a floral arrangement donated by Audrey Pogue, was won by Ray Ferguson of Madoc.

There are no words of appreciation strong enough for the gratitude we feel to John Murphy and his band, the Madoc Kiwanis Centre and everyone who made this event such a success.

The next meeting of the Centre Hastings Snowmobile Club will be held in Angus, Andrew's Garage, Bannockburn, on Friday, May 28 at 8 p.m. As this meeting consists of the election of officers, please come and bring your friends. Come one, come all! Maybe you would like to be one of us.

Potato Club report

The second meeting of the Madoc Potato Club was held at the home of Calvin and Margaret Stein on May 11. We discussed the amount of potatoes we are supposed to plant and when to put on fertilizer. We went through our manuals and discussed some of the difficulties we might encounter.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Margaret Bailey on June 15, 1982 at 8 p.m. Lunch was then served.

Spray program nears deadline

The on again-off again spraying program of a Gypsy Moth infested area of forest near Kaladar has many of the prime ingredients of a soap opera, but the people involved are real and the situation continues to deteriorate as the Ministry of Natural Resources appears to make new announcements each day.

While it appears that the spray program would be cancelled on Tuesday, Wednesday brought a late announcement that spraying with the chemical Sevin would be carried out on Crown land along with test spraying of BT and Gypsy Moth virus.

It is to be noted that the present spray program being advocated by the ministry is not a control measure, but an experimental spray program to test the effectiveness of the three moth-controlling agents.

On Wednesday when the spray program had presumably been cancelled, ministry workers were in the infested areas near Kaladar checking on the numbers of larva that had hatched. The ministry was monitoring the hatch below and above the snowline as well as the growth of the insect, which is an important factor to be considered when spraying is taking place. According to ministry officials, the larva is in about the second or third-in-star stage, the ideal time for spraying. At this time, the larvae are eating only during the night while they take refuge during the day.

The hatch below the snowline is contributing most of the insects in the forest at this time. Very little above snowline hatch has been reported, which could mean that no hatch will take place above the snowline because weather conditions have killed the eggs or that the hatch will be sometime behind the lower, more protected eggs.

Even with only the below snowline hatch, the ministry predicts a substantial hatch. Preparations for the spray program were watched closely by the opponents from the Kaladar area throughout Thursday, Friday and Saturday. These people were not protesting the use of BT or the virus, but they did object to the use of Sevin, even though the governments of Canada and the U.S. claim the chemical is safe. They object to being used as a "test area" and it was reported that some families were moving their children out of the area as it appeared the spray Sevin would be used. These people still feel there may be some connection between Sevin and Ryes Syndrome, although the ministry claims the connection between chemical sprays and Ryes Syndrome is the emulsifiers used in the sprays and Sevin does not contain emulsifiers, according to the ministry.

The irony in the protesting is that the chemical spray Sevin was not on the site and, according to the ministry, the last word they had on the chemical was that it was still in customs at Buffalo, New York. They

PP report

During the week of May 22 officers at Madoc Detachment investigated 74 traffic accidents, resulting in $33,670 property damage and 9 persons injured.

Three persons were charged with violations on the Liquor Licence Act, persons were charged with impaired driving, four persons were charged with a two break and two persons were reported. One person on a police officer was also investigated.

Three Personal Injury Accidents Investigated.

On Wednesday, May 19 at approximately 8:55 p.m. Donna A. Courneyea, RR 1, Thomsburg, was driving a 1974 Chev. sedan north bound on Highway No. 62, 55 meters north of the CNR subway at Moira Lake. Her car slid on wet pavement and crossed into the south bound traffic lane. It collided with a southbound 1979 GMC pickup being driven by Alan B. Govier of RR 5, Madoc. The Courneyea car sustained $4,000 damage and the Govier truck $3,000 damage. The driver and lone occupant of the Govier truck received minimal injuries. The driver of the Courneyea car received minor injuries and a passenger Lonna Courneyea of 490 Minnie Avenue, Tweed, received minimal injuries.

Accident investigated by C. Traviss. Donna A. Courneyea was charged with failure to share roadway under the Highway Traffic Act.

On Friday, May 21, at approximately 1 p.m., Wolsely Albert Riley of 352 Bullock St., Peterborough, was driving a 1981 Mercury sedan westbound on Highway 7, 1 kilometer east of the junction of Highway 57. Riley's car crossed over the centerline striking an eastbound 1975 Chrysler sedan driven by Ruth I. Bullock of 110 Bagot St., Cobourg. Riley's car sustained $4,000 damage and Bullock's car $3,000 damage. The driver of the Bullock car received minor injuries. Accident investigated by Constable Mellon. Bruce Albert Riley

On Friday, May 21 at approximately 10 p.m. Harold Dittman of Norris Cr., Toronto, was southbound on Highway 62, 3.1 kilometers north of the Cleveland Road, Tudor Township. The left rear tire went flat on his car causing the car to go out of control. It went onto the west shoulder then came back onto the roadway rolling over. The car sustained $3,000 damage and Dittman, lone occupant in the car, received minimal injuries. Accident was investigated by Constable Traviss.

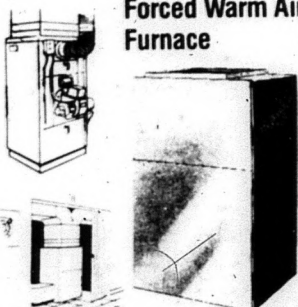

On Saturday, May 22, Constable R.V. Bonter of Madoc Detachment was assaulted while attempting to investigate a liquor violation in Hungerford Township. Subsequently arrested was Harold Murney Geen of Lot 15, Conc. 8, Hungerford Township. Geen is charged with assault causing bodily harm, assaulting police and obstructing an officer in the lawful execution of his duty. Constable Bonter, suffered injuries to his nose, front teeth and right arm. The officer was not hospitalized.

During the Victoria Day Weekend Madoc Detachment with assistance from Napawan, Kingston, Bancroft, Picton and Belleville OPP Detachments and the Tweed Police recorded the following Statistics while policing Hungerford Township in the Stoco Lake area: Charges: Impaired Drivers 22, Liquor charges 51, 12 Hour Suspension, 20, Alert Failures 14, Criminal Charges 3, Traffic Charges 1, Narcotics 1, Drunks 1, Queensboro.

Hastings 4-H Plowmen's Club

Monday, May 3, 1982 marked the first time ever that a 4-H plowing club was held in the county with twenty-four members attending. The meeting started at 8 p.m. outside of the OMAF office when leaders Richard Dracup and Terry Shannon pointed out the parts of a plow and their use.

The meeting was then moved inside where the election of officers took place. They are as follows: President - Debbie Stiles, Vice-president - Anthony Kooistra, Secretary - Edward Huffman, Press Reporter - Carol Brennan. Carol Murphy showed us a film on "Safety on the Tractor". Wayne Martin, Secretary of the Hastings County Plowmen's Committee talked to us about what the club would be doing. Some of the events are "learn how to plow in a plowing match" and "practice of rules of safety on the tractor". A member of our club present at the meeting was Edna Jongenotter, Hastings County Queen of the Furrow. The next meeting will be on Monday, June 21, 1982 at 8 p.m. at the OMAF office. The meeting was closed by President Debbie Stiles.

Farm safety night planned

"Accident is just a word until it happens." How true this is, everyone does risky and foolish acts and always hope the accident happens to the other guy.

Along with physical pain, there is the loss of time, damage to property, psychological effects and the possibility of loss of life.

To help make you aware of some of the dangerous situations on the farm, an information program has been planned by the Hastings Farm Service Club and Junior Farmers. A Farm See Farm on page 22

Banks under fire

Banks have to solve many problems if they want to improve their strained relations with farmers, Ralph Barrie, president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture said. He was speaking to members of a federal committee studying bank profits.

"The image of the chartered banks has taken a beating in the rural community in the past two years," he said. Bank managers are often inexperienced when it comes to a "complex and dynamic industry like agriculture," and aren't giving sound advice, or encouraging farmers to get advice from independent sources.

"We have been repeatedly told of producers who were advised by banks in 1978 and 1979 not to fix the interest rate on their loans because the banks felt that interest rates were going to fall. We all know the value of that advice," Barrie said.

Higher interest rates for borrowers and not for savers are unfair, Barrie told the committee. "Either the borrower should be paying less or the saver earning more," he said, and added that banks' higher administration costs "do not necessarily justify increased spreads."

Barrie criticized several of the conditions banks impose on their borrowers, like asking collateral security in excess of the money being borrowed. "Collateral security should only be required up to a maximum of 150 per cent of the value of the money borrowed," he said.

Security agreements which tie up goods that will be acquired in the future are unnecessary, Barrie said, since the banks already have enough collateral.

Banks often use illegal clauses to "scare" the borrower, Barrie said, using the example of a clause which allows the banks, "without demand or notice, to 'forcibly open, enter, lease or sell property.'"

"The laws of the land were made to protect people and their businesses," Barrie said. "Banks should not be able to force people to sign a waiver of all their rights," unless they get something in return, like a point less in interest.

Fog

The U.S. estimates that every year about 1,000 persons are killed and 60,000 injured in fog-related highway accidents. Slowing down and using extra caution are two musts when driving in fog, states the Ontario Safety League.

OFA blasts budget

"You have given us a truly miserable reflection of your much touted concern for agriculture," Ralph Barrie, president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture told a group of members of the federal parliament and senators last week.

They were attending a meeting organized by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture. The CFA delegation was made up of directors from the CFA board and senior officials from most of Canada's farm organizations and co-operatives.

Barrie said the only solution to current farm financial problems is "massive refinancing of the farm debt."

"That refinancing must take place at rates that are commensurate with returns in agriculture," he said. One way of refinancing which the OFA and CFA have suggested is giving the Farm Credit Corporation the right to sell agri bonds. The FCC could borrow money from private sources and give the lender agri bonds in return. Farm ers could borrow money at 10 per cent, and lenders could get a substantial tax break.

"It could have, and should have been done ages ago," Barrie said. He said it should have been done when the Farm Credit Act was being amended.

"Damn it, it's about time they (government leaders) started doing something sensible. We need help now. Even now is too late for many. Failure to get positive action is bound to cause farmers in ugly moods to rally into this city and let the government know we mean business."

Barrie concluded by saying "If you really stand by the platitudes we hear you utter all too often do something right for a change and do it now."

Loyalist will continue courses

Loyalist College has announced that a considerable volume of Continuing Education course offerings will be available to the citizens of the four county area during the coming year even though there has been an elimination in provincial funding for avocational courses.

A provincial re-evaluation of all the college offerings took place during the past year and many courses which were classed as avocational were reclassified as credit skill or of such a vocational nature that funding will be provided. Hence, the drastic reduction in offerings which was feared has been somewhat relieved.

Courses will be offered subject to public demand, and in areas as before, when a sufficient enrolment warrants. Courses which are not supported by government funding may be made available on a cost recovery basis to those who would request them.

Notes and Notes Sheep Performance Testing Increases

Sheep performance testing in Ontario continued to increase in 1981 with 269 breeders home testing a total of 14,846 lambs from 10,523 ewes. This represents an increase of 14.4 per cent from the number of lambs home tested the previous year. A sharp increase of 41 per cent in the number of rams station tested in 1981 resulted from the opening of a third ram test station at Arkell. A total of 484 ram lambs completed test in 1981 at the three Ontario test stations located at Kempenville, Arkell and New Hamburg, compared to 343 ram lambs which were station tested the previous year. A further increase in sheep performance testing is occurring in 1982 with more than 45 new breeders enrolled in the program to date. Both purebred and commercial sheep breeders are eligible to enrol in the Ontario ROP sheep program. The home test program allows breeders to evaluate the gaining ability of lambs in their flock and the productivity of each ewe based upon adjusted 50-day weights of lambs raised. As feeding and management and other environmental factors can influence lamb performance and ewe productivity, the home test part of the program should be considered within a flock test with comparisons made in the same flock. The genetic gaining ability of ram lambs from different flocks can be accurately compared at a central test station where all lambs are fed and handled in a uniform manner. A complete 1981 Ontario ROP Sheep Annual report is being prepared which will be sent to all breeders enrolled in the program. Other sheep producers can obtain a copy by writing to the Animal Industry

Branch, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food, Legislative Buildings, Toronto, Ontario M7A 1B4. Ref: R.H. Denniss Tel: (416) 965-5971.

Alfalfa Bloch Leaf Miner and Hay Quality By H.C. LANG

The alfalfa bloch leaf miner is a relatively new insect attacking alfalfa in Central Ontario. The small adult fly feeds and lays eggs on the leaves. Upon hatching the maggot feeds inside the leaflet, each maggot leaving an 'irregular white channel through the leaflet. It has three generations a year, the first of which is generally controlled by the first harvest. Unfortunately, the second and third generations do not usually correspond to the second and third cutting dates of alfalfa. Damage on second and third regrowth may be evident, but does this tunnelling really affect hay quality? Alfalfa samples from an infected field were collected from the Brighton area on June 25, 1980. The samples were separated according to the degree of infestation. The alfalfa plants classified as light infestation showed some minor damage on about 15 per cent of the leaflets, medium infestation showed minor damage on about 35 per cent of the leaflets and heavy infestation showed minor damage on 75 per cent of the leaflets with some browning of the leaves.

The digestibility of the whole plant was not affected by the degree of infestation however, the heavy infestation reduced the digestibility of the leaves. The crude protein of the whole plant, stems and leaves was reduced slightly but not as much as you would expect. It appears late cutting of alfalfa has more of an effect on hay quality than a light infestation of leaf miner. Control with an insecticide is only suggested in the case of heavy infestations when cutting cannot control the damage.

Propane is a wonderfully convenient fuel for cottagers, campers and backyard barbecuers. It's clean, quick and efficient for cooking, refrigeration and lighting. But, like all flammable materials, propane must be used with care. Did you know, for instance, that:

- Propane barbecues should never be used in an enclosed area.
- Propane cylinders must be stored outdoors and checked for safety every 10 years.
- A propane cylinder should always be moved or stored in an upright position.
- Propane cylinders must be located outside recreational vehicles or in a compartment that is gas-tight to the vehicle interior and ventilated directly to the outdoors.
- It is strongly recommended that propanefuelled refrigerators be cleaned and adjusted every year.

You'll find these safety facts and more in our free booklet. Mail the coupon today and get your copy. It's a great reference guide, and it will ensure that propane is always a helpmate rather than a hazard to you and your family.

Boating enjoyable but hazardous

The first signs of summer are all around us: youngsters in shorts, trees flourishing, and bulbs blooming. The boating enthusiast is thinking in terms of the first trip or the first day's fishing and the Ontario Provincial Police have several ideas to make boating safer.

Police officers look at many things with a different viewpoint. Boating is no different. The start of the season means another crop of fatal, and usually preventable accidents on the water.

Whether it's canoeing on raging white waters, sailing on the Great Lakes or water skiing, there is an ever present element of danger or risk. A person in a boat feels secure, but if that person falls in the water, he or she is fighting an uncertain, uncontrollable environment.

Boaters are notoriously confident of their ability to stay in their craft. But accident statistics do not support that view. Wearing a life jacket or personal flotation device is an elementary precaution, but how many adults automatically wear a life jacket unless they were in a life-threatening situation?

It's like wearing seat belts in a car. Life jackets are plain and simple insurance to improve your chances of survival.

Unless you are in the middle of a blizzard or hurricane, weather does not make a lot of difference when you are driving a car. With boating it's always important to know what weather to expect.

Most recreational boaters are fair weather sailors. Squalls can spring up unexpectedly and they are suddenly faced with conditions which are totally unfamiliar to them. By finding out what the weather and water conditions are going to be, you can change your chances and increase your chances of survival.

Often the police will learn of a missing boater, but have no idea where the person went. If you go fishing or take a weekend trip, let someone know your route and tell them when you get home safely. It's like an airline pilot filing a flight plan. If something does go wrong, search parties know where to go.

Boating is one of the most rewarding pastimes, but there is an element of danger which can be modified with good sense and awareness of what can go wrong. If you know your own abilities with a boat, you will be a survivor.

Old foes welcome now

By CYNTHIA ROSS

Ontario's Rideau Canal, so popular with pleasure craft in summer and skaters in winter, celebrates its 150th anniversary this year with special activities along its entire length. It is 47 locks and 201 km (125 miles) between Ottawa and Kingston.

It may come as a surprise to many but this peaceful recreational waterway is a consequence of war between Canada and the United States.

That was way back in 1812. The narrow stretch for the St. Lawrence River between Kingston and Montreal was judged to be too vulnerable in time of war since it formed the border between the two countries.

The Ottawa-Rideau route was considered as a safe alternative but it was not until 1826 that work began on the Rideau Canal.

Lt. Col. John By of the Royal Engineers is placed in charge and is left pretty much on his own. Soon after his arrival, he requests and wins permission to build bigger locks to accommodate the new steamboats.

On the north shore of the Ottawa is Wright's Town, founded in 1800. On the south shore is thick brush and cliffs and little else. There By puts his camp, the start of Bytown, beside the starting point for the canal, in a quiet bay half a mile below Chaudiere Falls.

A big, energetic man, he gets right to work sending a surveying party along the proposed canal route.

The party takes five days to chop through the bush on the banks of the Rideau River to get to Dow's Great Swamp (well within the present city limits).

Since there are two rivers and several lakes on the route, only 29 km (18 miles) of the waterway will be artificial.

For the next five years By follows up on the project—tramping up and down the route several times a year, taking a canoe, it is said, where Indians don't dare to go, coming down with the malarial fever that kills so many of his workers.

All the excavation and construction is done by man power, except for gunpowder, or used for blasting. Stone is quarried locally. However the several thousand laborers must be brought in, mostly from Ireland and some from Quebec.

With such primitive means By achieves some engineering wonders. His daring concept of dam and canal at Hog's Back Falls (upstream of Dow's Lake, in Ottawa) requires a method of construction that the awed Welland Canal contractors are afraid to try and the Jones Falls dam is the highest in North America when it is finished in 1851.

When completed, the canal has 47 locks, 33 from the Ottawa up to the summit, Upper Rideau Lake, covering a 69-m (227 ft.) lift, and the remainder easing the 49-m (162 ft.) drop from there to Kingston.

By is also careful to set up blockhouses along the route to defend the system, carrying out the intent of his mandate.

On May 24, 1832, Col. By and friends and family inaugurate the Rideau Canal, starting from Kingston on a vessel called the Rideau for the occasion.

The Rideau Waterway starts out as a busy national route and finishes the century as a busy regional route. In mid-century, it is handed over to Canada, just before Bytown changes its name to Ottawa and then becomes the capital.

After a hundred years, railroads and roads have taken over and the only reason the canal isn't abandoned, as a money-saving measure, is that it would cost too much to take apart. It is maintained for flood control.

So what is the canal today? One gigantic watered effort?

Far from it. Even in the late 1800s people are drawn to the peaceful waterway and pleasant countryside for recreation and repose.

After World War II, more hectic times only increase the search for escape. Pleasure boaters come by the thousands and the waterway is appreciated for its historic interest as well.

Kingston is full of lovely old stone buildings and Fort Henry, rebuilt in 1856, is worth a visit. Old blockhouses remain at Kingston Mills and Merrickville, the latter now housing a museum. Among other attractive old towns are Westport and Perth. Ottawa retains a quiet loveliness along the canal, much appreciated by its residents, who walk, jog and bike along its paths and skate on the 7.8 km (4.8 miles) of it cleared in winter.

Boaters mention the lovely winding channel approaching Newboro Lock, the beautiful, sheltered Washburns Lock (Lower Brewers Mills), the impressive construction of Jones Falls Dam and the pleasant cruising on the Rideau Lakes. They also say the lockmen are both able and helpful and provide much of the personality of the canal.

The boaters' guidebook, Sailing Directions: Great Lakes, Vol. 1, is available from Hydrographic Chart Distribution Office, Department of Fisheries and Oceans, P.O. Box 8080, 1675 Russell Rd., Ottawa, Ontario K1G 3H6.

There are many parks and picnic grounds in the gently rolling countryside along the canal, and many locks have adjacent campgrounds.

Hikers enjoy the Rideau Trail, a 321.8 km (200 mile) trail between Ottawa and Kingston. For information and maps, write the Rideau Trail Association, P.O. Box 15, Kingston, Ontario K7L 4V6.

Important dates in this sesquicentennial of the Rideau Canal include the following:

June 12-26 "Col. and Mrs. By" remake the trip from Kingston to Ottawa, this time on the steam launch Phoebe. On June 13, runners leave Ottawa about 6 a.m. in a marathon relay race to Kingston, finishing about 5 p.m. On the first weekend in July about 25 steamboats make the run from Kingston to Ottawa.

August 13-15 The Seventh Annual Ottawa International Antique and Classic Boat Show and Antique Gold Cup Regatta take place at Rideau Ferry.

For more information on the 1982 celebrations, write Parks Canada, 12 Maple Ave., Smiths Falls, Ontario K7A 1Z5 or call (613) 283-5170.

For information on accommodation, call the Province of Ontario toll-free number 1-800-268-3735 from the provinces, 1-800-462-8404 from New York State and 1-800-828-8585 from the U.S. (excluding Alaska and Hawaii).

The spectacular waterway has again become a seaway to the interior, but from unanticipated quarters. Boats from Florida and beyond come up the Inland Waterway and through New York systems to the St. Lawrence; ones from New Orleans up the Mississippi, then to Chicago and the Great Lakes; ones from the west via the Missouri—even from the West Coast via the Panama Canal.

The Rideau Canal, designed to be inaccessible to the Americans not only is wide open to them and well known to them but has welcomed them for many years.

Legally Speaking...

a CLEO publication

By JOHN D. CARROLL

The following scene illustrates a common complaint. You performed some carpentry work for Mr. Jones. He won't pay you the full amount so you sued him in small claims court. The judge decided you were entitled to receive $200. Mr. Jones still doesn't want to pay. Now what?

Winning a judgment in small claims court is a hollow victory when you cannot collect. You have a better chance of getting your money, though, if you know and understand the procedures set up for this purpose.

The most direct way of collecting a debt is to take an asset of the debtor, sell it, and keep the money. You can do this by bringing an execution against the personal property of the debtor; that is, you put into effect the final judgment of the court by getting a bailiff to enforce the judgment. You can do this by filling out the necessary forms at the small claims court office. A bailiff has the power to seize an asset of the debtor and turn it over to you. Despite clear advantages, there are several problems to this approach.

small claims court has a distinct area of jurisdiction and its own bailiff, and the bailiff cannot act outside of the jurisdiction of the court he or she works for. This means that if Mr. Jones' assets, or in the case of other collection procedures to be discussed, his place of residence or employment are outside the area of jurisdiction of the court in which you obtained judgment, then you will have to work with the court that does have territorial jurisdiction. The second problem is that basic assets, such as household articles and tools of a trade up to a certain value, are exempt from seizure by the bailiff. The third problem is that bailiffs are paid only by the job done. They will receive a maximum of five dollars for these executions. In fact, because bailiffs don't generally have enough work to do except in major population centres, they usually have other jobs as well. Because of this, the bailiff is unlikely to pursue your execution with the same zeal that you would. Even if he or she did, it is unlikely he or she would seize anything unless it was an asset which was obviously not exempt from seizure. For example, a stereo system.

An execution can be issued against real estate as well as personal property if the judgment is for more than $40. If Mr. Jones owns land, or if you are going to have problems collecting through other means, you should file an execution with the Sheriff's office and the Land Titles office of the county the land is in or likely to be in. If Mr. Jones sells the land, the buyer will require Mr. Jones to pay off your execution.

LETTER

Dear Sir:

Mr. Allmand's latest proposal on "Gun Control" Bill C-451 has finally been made available to Canadians who own firearms.

The first reaction, needless to say, indicates a deep level of concern and resentment or further needlessly intrude into the activities of legitimate firearms enthusiasts.

To add to the above proposal, the Liberal Government of Canada has made plans for a new gun control bill to be introduced this coming year.

This new gun control bill known as 0451 is being proposed because the Liberals claim that Bill C-51 has not prevented gun crimes.

The following provisions are contained in this new gun control bill:

"All retail sales of firearms to be handled through a new government agency only.

Applications must be made to purchase any firearms, and must be posted and published before approval, to allow people who oppose the application to register a complaint.

Possession of any firearm by police permit only. Compulsory registration of all firearms by serial number. Permit holders must file annual reports as to the use and condition of all firearms in their possession, if the owner doesn't use any firearm or has no lawful need of it, the firearm becomes subject to confiscation.

No firearm may be disposed of by sale, barter, gift or bequest. At decrease of owner, all firearms in his possession must be turned in for immediate disposal and destruction by the

The first graders were on a field trip to observe the birds beginning their migration. Explaining that they were noisy and excited because they were going on a long journey, the teacher asked the class, "What do you suppose they are saying?" "I imagine" said one little girl shyly, "that the mother birds are telling their children they'd better go to the bathroom before they start."

Report from Parliament

By BILL VANKOUGHNET
MP, Hastings-Frontenac
Lennox-Addington

Canadians have recently witnessed two provincial elections. On April 6 the people of Newfoundland overwhelmingly endorsed Premier Brian Peckford with more than 60 per cent of the vote. In Saskatchewan, Grant Devine with 55 per cent of the votes cast defeated the incumbent NDP government in an astonishingly thorough and decisive manner.

There is a gathering political groundswell against those political parties who are forgetting their voters. Canadians want their leaders to be accessible. More time must be spent with the people and issues which concern them. The working man, and more particularly the man out of work, is angry with the way the economy is being handled.

People are justified in being angry at the way the economy is functioning and the lack of leadership in dealing with it. In Ottawa we suffer from an abuse of power. It is evident that the Prime Minister, and cabinet possess too much power. Also evident is the senior public service, the appointed government. Their abuse is just too arrogant. These civil servants live in a different world from politicians. They don't have to go home to unemployed constituents. There is a tendency for the public servant to see the country as being Ottawa.

Elections are the opportunity to make changes to these problems. It is no secret that the current federal government is out of touch with ordinary people: the men and women who are Canada.

The National Energy Policy is a disaster. Instead of building on Canada's strength, on using Canada's oil resources as the means to drive industry, the energy policy has driven half of the country's petroleum drilling industry out of Canada; forced the lay-off of thousands of Canadian workers; shut down the Alsands project; forced dozens of companies into bankruptcy and receivership; shut in 300,000 barrels of Canadian production per day and caused 17 billion dollars of capital to flee the country. The cruel fact of the oil import subsidies is that it costs Canadians 12 cents per gallon at the pump; that is 12 cents per gallon Canadians should not be paying for gasoline.

The budget fiasco, the federal government's so-called tax reform is a direct attack on savings, investment, enterprise, incentive and on the other values which are essential to growth in a great country like Canada. If those secretive civil servants and their political masters had been in touch with the people, they would know that their policies are wrong. The fact is, they are out of touch.

In Saskatchewan, Grant Devine spoke to the people, responded to the voters' wishes and struck a responsive chord, particularly with young people who are worried about their future financial prospects.

The role of the government in the economy is to provide a framework for private sector growth. Creation of wealth is what the private sector does best. Governments that become directly involved in commercial activities are not operating in our best interests.

Government intervention in the economy was a solution that worked during the Depression. That solution was meant to be short-term only as people thought of the Depression as a short-term problem.

We are now suffering from too much government from a 50-year-old policy.

This federal government as well as the defeated Saskatchewan government have both relied on policies of socialism, with its high degree of intervention and we are suffering as a result. In a recent study done by the Centre for International Business Cycle Research, studies suggest that any improvement in business conditions in Canada will lag behind other major economies. Our economy continues to fall as other countries' economies improve or are showing some signs of recovery. In Canada, the government is waiting for other countries to recover, hoping our exports will increase with their recovery. This policy will do nothing for our productivity or our competitiveness.

It is time to put the state in its place, to get Canada working again. We must restore confidence for business to seek out Canada as a desirable place to invest.

The first step in that process for real change is to identify the party who will deliver the necessary policies so essential for good government. The second step is an election. It will be the responsibility of the voter to judge a party on its record and its stand before the public. The voters in Newfoundland and Saskatchewan have had this opportunity and have made a clear choice.

What we need right now in Canada is a federal election and a new government.

Kathryn Margaret McCoy will graduate with a Bachelor of Education degree during Convocation at the University of Ottawa on June 12. Kathryn obtained a B.A. in Native Studies and Sociology at Trent University in Peterborough. She is the daughter of Clarence and Ruby McCoy.

Phase one complete for International Plowing Match

Good leadership, enthusiasm and plain hard work were the ingredients that the first president brought to the office of this corporation. So said Bob Phillips of Belleville when he assumed the chair as the second president of the Hastings International Plowing Match Association. In complimenting W. Don Sills of Thurlow Township on the role he has played, Bob Phillips pointed out that phase one was complete. Under W. Don Sills, the non-profit corporation had been formed; a financial structure had been established; a selection of potential sites had been established; Hastings County has been awarded the "International" for 1986. It is also noted that the organization has established its structure by endorsing a constitution and bylaws plus a planned program of committee development.

"No one really knows how much work that W. Don Sills put into this program over a two year period starting from scratch," said Bob Phillips. He went on to say that the presidency would now revolve amongst the executive board members on an annual basis.

From here Phase Two gets under way. Final site selection is in the hands of the Ontario Plowmen's Committee. Locally, the establishment of the General Administration Committee is its next major project of the Executive Board in 1982. It is this committee that will actually run the plowing match. From past experience there could be 24 subcommittees representing groups and activities that make a part of this annual event.

Queensborough WI

Mrs. Allan Ramsay was hostess for the May meeting of the Queensboro Branch of the WI which was held in the WI Hall on Wednesday evening, May 12. In the absence of the president, the 1st vice-president, Mrs. Ken Cassidy, was in charge.

The Roll Call, A Custom From Another Country, was answered by 13 members and two guests.

There was a short business discussion. It was decided to send Mrs. Harold Tokley as the third delegate to the District Annual at Eldorado on May 18.

Mrs. A. Sutton was in charge of the program on the International Theme.

She gave a talk on the history of Scotland, starting with the story of the Sinclair and McNeil clans. She also spoke of events from 1215 on, mentioning different wars that had taken place. She spoke of Robert Bruce and Wallace and the poet, Robert Burns. Everyone then took part in several Scottish dances. This was followed by current events by everyone.

Mrs. Lynn was presented with a WI Membership Certificate and an arrangement of flowers that had been made by Mrs. O.

4-H Calf Club report

On May 3, 1982 at 8:30 p.m., the first meeting of the Madoc 4-H Calf Club was held at the Madoc Township Public School.

First, the meeting began with a basketball game consisting of boys versus boys, girls versus girls. After the game, Mr. Charles Wannamaker and Mr. Dana Greaser, our Club Leaders (later joined by Mr. Bob Sager also a club leader) called the attention of everyone to start the meeting.

There were approximately 25 members in attendance which was a good turnout. The first item on the agenda was electing the president, vice president, secretary and press reporter. The seats were taken as follows: Karen Shaw, President; Debbie Shaw, Vice-president; Cheryl Adams, Secretary; Robin Rourke.

The program ended with the singing of several Scottish songs including Annie Laurie, Comin Thro The Rye and others finishing with Auld Lang Syne. The meeting closed with the

Wilson Press Reporter. After the elections were pamphlets on the history of cattle and gave us a short quiz about cattle. The questions and answers were quite interesting and we found out a lot of things we didn't know about cattle. The next thing we did was plan the next meeting. It was decided that we would play a game of baseball and our leaders are sending an invitation to the Marmora 4-H Calf Club. The next meeting will be June 7, 1982 at 7:15 p.m. at the Madoc Township School so bring your gloves.

This is designed to help the younger fans begin their softball career. Capable coach for this league is Mrs. Darla Graham. We are still taking registrations for this league, which will be operating shortly. We also could use volunteers to help Darla.

I see also that the field crew is back on the job preparing our second playing area. This area is

Madoc 4-H Heritage Club report

On May 6, 1982 the last meeting of the Madoc 4-H Heritage Club was held at Madoc Township Public School and was called a summary meeting.

There were seven members exhibiting their Family Heritages, three exhibiting their History of the Farm and three exhibiting Antique Tools.

There were several parents in attendance. Carol Murphy showed some slides on the history of farm equipment and she also had a short quiz.

The members are looking forward to the starting of this club next year. Several have shown interest and a few additional people have gained interest in joining.

Lunch was served and the meeting was adjourned.

Eldorado UCW

The Eldorado United Church Women held their May meeting in the home of Winnie Ketcheson.

President Winnie Ketcheson opened the meeting with a poem, Smile is the Melody of the Soul, and a reading, Worthwhile Pond-ering.

Minnie Moorcroft had charge of the program. Roll call was a question period from the book of James while the theme for the program was Bible study, with members reading from the Book of James. During the worship service, Hymn 501 was sung and Audrey Chambers read verses 3-6:13 and 20 from chapter 5 of the Book of James. Every one repeated the Lord's Prayer after which Alma Moorcroft gave a reading, On Speaking Terms With God.

The worship service was closed with the benediction followed by an interesting question period on the Plans were discussed for the annual Lilac Tea and Bake Sale to be held at the church on Thursday, May 27, from 2-4 p.m., and for a lunch to be held after communion on May 30.

Mrs. Getha Burns, a member of the club and an artist, delighted all present with her program The Growth of Canadian Painting. She described the works of various Canadian painters throughout the years. She displayed several of her paintings.

Mrs. Audrey Steensma thanked the hostess, Burns, and the lunch committee, Mrs. Helen Fleming and Mrs. Mary Trotter.

Organized T-Ball a giant success

T-Ball, another first for the new township ball field, was a huge success on Saturday morning last as twenty six boys and girls in the four to seven years range arrived on the diamond with their parents in tow.

Mrs. Darla Graham is in charge of these youngsters and she had volunteers in the form of Mary Goulah and Evelyn Bailey giving her a hand. She could, however, use more hands as these youngsters are very energetic and eager to learn the game of softball. T-Ball will be every Saturday morning from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. If your child is not yet involved and would like to be, come to the diamond on Saturday, and become involved. It is a great way to start your youngster in softball. Everyone that was there this week was very impressed with the results. Registration fee is five dollars for the season.

needed very badly because, with the formation of the Township Men's League this week, we now have six men's, four ladies', four minor boys', three minor girls, two teams in Tweed-Hungerford Men's, plus our house league teams using the one playing surface. Believe it when one says field time is at a premium.

Don't forget Donkey baseball on June 6. Local representatives in the Tweed-Hungerford league begin their year in Madoc on Wednesday, May 19. We are in for a fun-filled summer of softball. Support our players. See you next week.

United Church Bay of Quinte Conference

KINGSTON - Worship, inspiration, a packed agenda reflecting many social and economic concerns, the election of new officers, the retirement of others, the ordination/commissioning of new ministers and the stimulating influence of youth as well as clergy from other denominations made the 58th annual meeting of the United Church's Bay of Quinte Conference, May 14-16, a memorable one in the opinion of many delegates and staff.

The one sad note was the tragic death of the Rev. Allan A. and Mrs. Shirley Lavis of Oshawa, who were killed in a motor accident Friday while travelling through Turkey. Mr. Lavis was minister of Simcoe Street United Church.

Oshawa. Two friends who accompanied the couple were also killed. Delegates to the annual meeting were shocked when the news was told to them Saturday morning and immediately joined in a prayer led by President Rev. N.E. Schanmohr for the surviving members of the family. Rev. and Mrs. Lavis had three daughters.

The close to 500 lay and clergy delegates to the meeting came from seven presbyteries in the 25,000 square mile area in Central and Eastern Ontario. The Conference boundaries include 435 miles of waterfront along Lake Simcoe, Lake Ontario, the St. Lawrence and Ottawa Rivers and encompass the vacation regions of the Kawartha; the Highlands of Hastings, the Haliburton Highlands, the Great Pine Ridge, the Land of Lakes, the Madawaska Valley, the Ottawa Valley, the Rideau Lakes, the Sand Banks, Algonquin Park and the Thousand Islands.

Of the 550,000 persons in the area, it is estimated by church statisticians that United Church members and adherents total 205,592. During the three-day session the Conference debated social, economic and international issues, enacted legislation, elected a new president, the Rev. John A. May, minister of Zion Evangelical United Church, Pembroke, who will serve until the next annual meeting and voted as president designate for the 1983-84 term, its first woman, Mrs. Marion Brown of Brockville.

In legislation, Conference decided: to petition General Council, the highest legislative body of the church, to "lengthen the normal interval between meetings of the General Council to three years." The present moderator of the United Church, the Rt. Rev. Lois M. Wilson is known to favor the change. (Since its formation in 1925, the church has normally met at two year intervals).

Refused to transmit a request to General Council for a review of projected plans for a general salary increase of twelve percent in 1983-84. Kingston Presbytery disagreed, stating "increases (or decreases) in church salaries should be determined by reference to the average income of all Canadians of all occupations.

Adopted a resolution from Lindsay Presbytery to petition General Council... to affirm in the draft statement on human sexuality that fidelity does require sexual exclusivity and to affirm that marriage should not include "secondary relationships of emotional intimacy and potential genital expression." (This phrase was used in the study document on human sexuality. In God's Image - Male and Female issued a year ago).

Concurred in a resolution from Oshawa Presbytery on the escalating arms race, including "the newer and more diabolical nuclear, chemical and biological weapons of mass destruction (which) are announced daily by the superpowers." The resolution asks the Bay of Quinte Conference to "memorialize the 29th General Council (scheduled to meet in Montreal this coming August) to urge the Government of Canada to join with any other middle power of either western or eastern block in developing a middle power disarmament and development initiative, i.e., refusal to cave in to war pressure from either the Kremlin or the Pentagon."

Endorsed another resolution from Oshawa Presbytery appealing to General Council for language clarity in study documents, "enabling the average church. See United on page 22"

Metrification gets setback

Bill Vankoughnet, MP for Hastings Frontenac Lennox and Addington was pleased that, as a result of the efforts of the Progressive Conservative Party to lobby on behalf of those individuals opposed to compulsory metrification, a major concession was obtained from the government for small business.

In the Opposition Day debate on the issue for forced metric, the Minister of Consumer and Corporate Affairs, Andre Ouellet, stated in the House of Commons, that he is prepared to "excuse some small retailers from compulsory metrification."

Stated Mr. Vankoughnet, "The government clearly retreated in the face of persistent opposition to compulsory metrification. It is significant to note that the Quebec Minister did not once speak in French during the whole debate."

Mr. Vankoughnet was a scheduled speaker. Unfortunately time did not permit him to participate in the debate.

Oil policy questioned

By JOHN GORMAN

Back in the days when conditions in the market place were the primary influence on business decisions, Canada had achieved self-sufficiency in crude oil, the dollar was sound and the country appeared to be taking its rightful place in the world's community of nations.

All of that was suddenly interrupted in September 1975 when the Arab nations oil embargo was imposed, and oil became more important as a political tool than as a fuel.

Canadians are still reeling from the effects of the Arab decision to take advantage of world oil shortages, raise the price and control the supply.

It is worth reviewing Canada's peculiar handling of that situation in view of the middle the country currently faces with respect to crude oil import requirements versus domestic supply.

The first response to the rapid price increases of imported oil was to subsidize the cost through the imposition of an export tax on oil shipped to U.S. markets.

At that time Canadians were using about 1.5 million barrels of oil per day and the western Canadian oil industry was producing that amount. Due to an earlier decision, about one third of the country's oil requirements were imported to markets east of the Ottawa River, but a similar amount was being exported to the United States. It was a question of reducing transportation costs into both markets, and the country's crude oil supply and demand were in balance.

Eventually it was deemed politically advisable to curtail crude oil exports to the United States in the interests of national security. This was a reasonable decision as far as it went, but the oil that was diverted from U.S. markets to Eastern Canadian markets was not allowed the going market price.

You can see what happened. Canadians were being protected against the real world market price of oil by subsidizing imports out of general revenues and by holding down the price of domestic production. The conventional wisdom was that Canadians didn't need to be subjected to world prices, but that we could live with a "made in Canada price."

The Canadian Petroleum Association said then that it wouldn't work, and it has expended considerable effort during the intervening years pointing out that this strategy is not working. And the association is still trying to make the point with government that unless the domestic oil industry is allowed a reasonable share of the revenue from the sales of oil, the investments required to make the country independent of foreign suppliers can not be made.

These submissions have fallen on deaf ears and we now have a situation in Canada which would be humorous if it weren't tragic.

Refiners in Eastern Canada are being subsidized by the federal government, out of taxpayers' money, to purchase crude oil from OPEC and other oil producing countries.

While this is going on there are 300,000 barrels per day of Alberta crude shut in the ground for lack of markets in Eastern Canada or anywhere else, for that matter. As this is happening, oil companies all around us are trying to work out mergers in a

The country is rife with unemployment, the dollar is struggling to stay above 80 cents and interest rates are crippling businesses across the nation.

Perhaps it is fair to say that international influences are at least partly responsible for the nation's current plight, but it is also fair to say that Canada did more than its fair share to handicap the petroleum industry, the one industry in this country that was flourishing. It now appears that crude oil self-sufficiency is no longer attainable in this decade. Unless steps are taken to help to petroleum industry resume its former levels of activity, the chances of ever attaining self-sufficiency grow slimmer by the day. If our reliance upon imported oil continues, and grow, we will continue to experience unfavorable balance of payments for oil, continuing loss of Canadian dollars, jobs and opportunities.

No-one's exempt

Paul Adkins, M.D., was a leading chest and lung specialist. Professor and chairman of surgery at George Washington University Medical School in Washington, D.C., he had treated many patients with cancer. But Dr. Adkins had an ironic Achilles' heel -- he was a chain smoker.

In 1980, when he was 54, the effects of 40 years of cigarette smoking caught up with him. He developed a persistent cough, one that wouldn't go away. When Dr. Adkins finally acknowledged that something was wrong and had X-rays taken, he thought, "I am looking at my own obituary."

And he was. On August 13, 1980, four months after the first diagnosis, Dr. Paul Adkins died of inoperable lung cancer.

Before he died, Dr. Adkins told John Pekkanen, of The Washingtonian Magazine that he had continued to smoke heavily in spite of being acutely aware of the dangers. He had gambled on genetics: his father had smoked heavily but had lived well into his 80s; his mother, at over 90 was still "smoking like a chimney."

But Dr. Adkins lost his gamble. Writing in the January issue of the American Lung Association Bulletin, Dr. Samuel V. Spagnolo, a colleague and close friend of Dr. Adkins, said that the best tribute a fellow physician could pay to Dr. Adkins is to remember he "must do all he can to convey the antismoking message: by being a nonsmoking exemplar and by personally urging patients to stop smoking."

For information about a new self-help program to help you or a loved one stop smoking, ask your local lung association about its Freedom from Smoking program.

Agricultural Representative

The eligible costs include wages paid to non-family members or contractor's labor costs, and costs for materials purchased during the term of the program up to an amount equal to the wages paid, or a contractor's labor costs. In most cases the amount of assistance available will be determined by the wages paid. Eligible farmers will be those who have farm production valued at $12,000 or greater during the last year, or who own and farm a minimum of 100 acres. The program will be effective from May 17 through until December 31, 1982, or until the budget allotment of $5 million dollars in utilized. Application forms are available through the local OMAF offices and will include an "intent" section as well as the application proper. Further details are available through the local offices of the Ministry of Agriculture and Food.

MEMORIAMS

PIDGEN - In loving memory of our dear parents, Arthur Arnott & Mary Ann. Mom who passed away Dec. 29, 1983. Dad who passed away May 29, 1969.

Within our heart we will always keep. A special place for you. And try to do our best to live, As you would want us to. As we loved you, so we miss you.

In memory you are near. Loved, remembered, longed for always. With the passing of the years.

Too dearly loved to ever be forgotten, your family. -11

LEE - In loving memory of a dear husband & father George T. Lee who passed away May 25, 1977. Though your smile has gone for ever, And your hand we cannot touch.

Still we have so many memories. Of the one we loved so much. Ever remembered by wife Frances & family. -11

FORESTELL - In loving memory of our dear Mother & Grandmother, Bessie, who passed away May 22, 1966.

Your memory is our keep-sake. With which we'll never part. Though God has you in his keeping. We have you in our hearts.

We love you Mom. Lovingly remembered by son Gerald, daughter-in-law, Shirley, grandchildren Paul, Mary, Rosanne, Betty Jean, Kevin & Henry Lees. -11

MORRISON - In loving memory of a dear brother Doug, who passed away May 29, 1980.

We think of him in silence. No eyes can see us weep. But still within our aching hearts, His memory we'll always keep.

Sadly missed by Myrtle & Vern. -11

CURTIS - In loving memory of a dear grandmother, Cora, who passed away May 13, 1981.

Nothing can ever take away. The love a heart holds dear. Fond memories linger every day.

Remembrance keeps her near. Granddaughter Evelyn & family. -11

IN loving memory of a dear husband, Ernie, who passed away June 1, 1981.

When the day is sad & lonely, I seem to hear you whisper, Cheer up & carry on. Each time I see your picture,

You seem to smile & say "Don't cry, I'm only sleeping. We'll meet again someday. Always remembered by wife Myrtle. -11

IN loving memory of a dear dad, Ernie Barr, who passed away June 1, 1981.

They say that memories are golden. And maybe that is true. But we never wanted memories, Dad. We wanted you.

It broke our hearts to lose you. But you did not go alone. For a part of us went with you. The day God called you home.

Always missed, loved & remembered by daughter & son-in-law Lillian & Wayne Pronger. -11

BARR - Ernest, with loving & beautiful memories of a dear father & grandfather who passed away June 1, 1981.

Those whom we loved go out of sight. But never out of mind. They are cherished in the hearts. Of those they leave behind. Loved & sadly missed by son & daughter-in-law Wayne & Marlene Barr & their children. -11

Machinery costs analyzed

By LARRY MATHESON

Ag. Rep.

Prince Edward County

Any time you purchase a capital asset there are costs associated with it that have to be included when you budget out its profitability. With the purchase of machinery or buildings, you have an acquisition cost but you do not charge this full amount on capital cost allowance for tax purposes in the years of acquisition, or as depreciation for management purposes. Only a portion can be charged each year. In order to calculate your yearly costs, the following work sheet could be of assistance to you in deciding whether to own your own machine, or to leave it custom done. The costs associated with ownership can be broken into two parts, i.e. fixed and variable. Fixed costs are those that you incur whether or not the asset is used. For instance, these include depreciation (granted there is more depreciation if a machine is used a lot), interest, insurance, taxes (on buildings, etc.), and repairs (which could be classified as variable). Variable costs are those that go up as you use the asset more. These include fuel, lubrication, labour, etc.

In order to calculate your fixed costs, use the following information:

Depreciation = Initial Cost - Trade In / Years of Life.

Interest = Initial Cost - Trade In X Interest Rate / 2.

Insurance - Actual cost or 1/4 of 1 per cent initial cost).

Taxes - Actual.

Repairs - Cost on buildings, include as variable cost for machinery 3-5 per cent of actual cost/year.

These costs are often referred to as the DIRT five.

If you are purchasing a machine, budget these costs out. Then add your variable costs. With interests rates, being what they are, your annual costs associated with your purchase could easily be in the 25-30 of new cost per year.

Letter to the editor

Dear Sir:

On February 2nd, 1982 I attended a meeting of Rawdon Township Council to inquire as to why the council had not applied to the Provincial Government for their portion of funds available under the Ontario Home Renewal Program. I first heard about the program in an article in the Stirling Paper which spurred me to call the Ministry of Housing for more information and found that Rawdon Township qualified for approximately $60,000 per year. The program has been functioning since 1974 with over 700 communities receiving over $100 million and as the Ministry representative stated it is "one of their more successful and positive programs."

So why doesn't our council get into the program? The only reasons they have given me are: (1) They do not wish to do the work involved to administer the program. (2) They do not want to make enemies of those people who want money under the program but for one reason or another would not qualify or those who would have to wait until the next fiscal year if the funds were exhausted before all qualifying applicants got their share.

The rules are plainly set out by the Province and 10 percent of the funds are available to administer the program. That means that council has approximately $6,000 available with which to distribute $60,000 each year. I told them I would be willing to help them.

Most communities work on a "first come, first served" basis and if funds run out before everyone is taken care of they would simply have to wait until next April 1st when the fund would be replenished. No problems, just typical politician's fears about face saving with the motto, "If we don't do anything, we can't do anything wrong."

The March Council meeting was a closed session, so I waited. Incidentally, under the program, individuals who have a home in their name and earn an adjusted income of not over $15,500 yearly (approximately equal to taxable income) would qualify for a maximum of $7,500 at 8 per cent annum to make repairs to their homes. Up to $4,000 would be a grant to persons who have an adjusted income below $3,000 yearly, and the remaining $3,500 would be loaned interest free to a person in that income bracket with a graduated loan - grant ratio and interest rate as the income increases. At present interest rates it is obvious that this is a good deal and could give local retailers and contractors a much needed shot in the arm.

Council agreed to ask a Ministry of Housing representative to come to a meeting to discuss it further. But I was told that this meeting on April 19, was to be a closed session also. An interested neighbor and I saw no reason that we should be excluded from our own council meeting so we attended although uninvited.

The meeting was very positive and the last stumbling block appeared to be surmounted when Mr. Raymond Cooney realised that council could receive $60,000 per year, every year until everyone in Rawdon who qualified had been satisfied. No Township money was involved and therefore there was no risk to them. They act simply as intermediaries to loan the money since they have a greater knowledge of local conditions than does the Provincial Government.

I called the clerk in Springbrook this morning, May 4, 1982 and she informed me that council had decided not to apply for the program. This seems totally illogical to me. Elementary economics tell you that when times are tough you need to inject money into an economy to get it moving again.

The Province is offering it to us and our elected representatives will not even accept it. Usually all we get are tax hikes and I feel it is the duty of council to make this money available even if there were only one person in the entire Township who could qualify.

They were elected to serve the public equally, regardless of their economic situation. Since Bill Davis has $10 million of our money to buy the party's own jet, I feel that it is only just that our council take back our money that is being offered so that the residents of Rawdon can repair their homes.

Obituary

FAYE PATRICIA HANNA

Mass of the Resurrection was offered at Sacred Heart Church, Marmora, by Rev. J.P. Carty, Rev. T.G. Scanlan and Rev. W.P. Healey for Mrs. Faye Patricia Hanna, who died at her Marmora home May 8, 1982. Inhumation was in Saint James Cemetery. Stirling Funeral arrangements were by the T.A. Cassidy Funeral Home, Marmora.

Beatrice were nephews Donald and Allan Carr and nephews Hadley Richard son, Len Bicknell, Doug Lynch and Joe McCauley.

Mrs. Hanna is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Mike (Betty) Horvath of Marmora, granddaughters Patricia, Michelle, Nichole and Julie-Anne Horvath; a brother, Delbert Holland of Myrtle Beach, South Carolina; sister in law Mrs. Ernest (Alta) Carr of Stirling and a foster son, Robert Spencer.

She was the daughter of the late John Holland and Catherine Webb of Trenton and was predeceased by five brothers and three sisters.

Born and raised in the Wooler area, she moved to Trenton in 1911 and lived there until her marriage to Thomas Hanna of River Valley. She held offices in the River Valley Women's Institute and the Catholic Women's League of Saint James the Minor Church, Stirling. Mrs. Hanna moved to Kingston in 1967. Thomas Hanna died in 1969. In 1971, Mrs. Hanna took up residence with her daughter in Deloro and moved with her daughter's family to Marmora in 1981.

From her childhood membership in the Society of the Children of Mary, Mrs. Hanna continued her devotion to church principles and community works. She was also a frequent author of prose and poetry for local publications.

are not sure when they will get the spray. To the ministry, Sevin is the known component in the spraying program while BT and the virus spray were termed "germ warfare" by one ministry official who added that they did not really know what might happen after these sprays were used. It was speculated that mutations could be a possibility from the use of the two non-chemical sprays.

The protestors, sent a telegram to both Premier William Davis and Natural Resources Minister Allan Pope on Friday morning protesting the use of Sevin. They stated in the telegram that they would do all they could to disrupt the spray program short of violence. This apparently was the reason the ministry moved a bi-plane and helicopter away from the Northbrook airport, where the aircraft were to based for the program.

Ministry officials had stated on Friday that alternate plans had been made for just such a contingency. They claim that if BT and the virus are to be effective, the spraying must take place while the insects are at a relatively small size. The larger the insect, the more spray they must ingest before death occurs. The difference between Sevin and the non-chemical sprays is that Sevin will kill the insects on contact while the non-chemical sprays must be eaten by the insects before they eventually die.

The ministry also insists that all three sprays must be used to get an accurate assessment of each spray. They feel that the use of BT and the virus must be compared to the effectiveness of Sevin to be certain which spray is the most effective and whether certain weather conditions or the adaptability of the moth will be enough for the moth to survive and continue their foliage destruction.

A ministry official takes off from the Northbrook airport to check the test sites from the air. Poor weather meant that no spraying had taken place by Tuesday morning.

The ministry also insists that the present size of the insect is ideal for testing of all of the sprays and, because each area will be sprayed twice, the initial spraying must take place soon. The second spraying will hopefully destroy any insects missed the first time and also will catch any of the late hatching insects above the snowline.

Delegated a resolution from Peterborough Presbytery asking that Conference discontinue "holding annual meetings of Conference on the weekend."

"The weekend is the only opportunity for many families to be together as a unit," said the resolution which originated in the Cavan Millbrook pastoral charge. Delegates voted against mid week meeting because most lay people would then be unable to attend.

Ordained seven theological students, commissioned one and received three ministers from other denominations. Of special interest was the commissioning of Denise Laurene Davis Taylor of Peterborough Presbytery, whose mother, Marion Davis, has been lay supply minister at Fairview United Church, Peterborough, since 1977. Mrs. Taylor has been appointed Director of Christian Education at Oriole York Mills United Church, Toronto, effective next September.

The annual meeting ended with the ordination and commissioning service and installation of the new president - at Sydenham Street United Church, King's St.

Village of Madoc Consolidated Financial Highlights At December 31, 1981

AUDITORS' REPORT

To the Members of Council, Inhabitants and Ratepayers of the Corporation of the Village of Madoc

We have examined the consolidated balance sheet of the Corporation of the Village of Madoc and its local boards and municipal enterprise as listed on the Financial Statement Index as at December 31, 1981, and the consolidated statements of revenue and expenditure, capital operations, continuity of trust funds, and reserve and reserve funds continuity and analysis of year end position for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests and other procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, these consolidated financial statements present fairly the financial position of the Corporation of the Village of Madoc and its local boards and municipal enterprise, as at December 31, 1981, and the results of its operations for the year then ended in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles for Ontario municipalities applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

NOTES TO CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL HIGHLIGHTS FOR THE YEAR ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1981

1. Accounting Policies

(a) Statement of Revenue and Expenditure
This statement reflects the revenues and expenditures of the revenue fund and the following local boards and municipal enterprises:

Library Board
Cemetery Board
Water Supply System
Madoc and District Recreation Committee
Madoc and District Recreation Centre Board

(b) Statement of Capital Operations

This statement reflects the capital expenditure of the municipality to be recovered from the general municipal revenue of the municipality and its local boards and municipal enterprises as described in note 1 (a).

(c) Balance Sheet

This statement reflects the assets and liabilities of the revenue fund, the capital fund, reserve funds and local boards and municipal enterprises as described in note 1 (a). The assets and liabilities of local boards and enterprises that have not been consolidated are reflected only to the extent of their related net long term liabilities and the capital outlay to be recovered in future years.

(d) Fixed Assets

The historical cost and accumulated depreciation of fixed assets is not reported for municipal purposes. Instead, the "Capital outlay to be recovered in future years" which is the aggregate of the principal portion of unmatured long term liabilities, capital funds transferred to other organizations, and the cost of capital projects not yet permanently financed is reported on the Balance Sheet.

(e) Municipal Enterprises

Municipal enterprises are those activities whose costs are substantially recovered from service charges on the users. The enterprises of this municipality whose revenues and expenditures have not been consolidated in these financial statements are:

Madoc Hydro Electric

(f) Charges for Net Long Term Liabilities

Debt retirement costs including principal and interest are charged against current revenues in the periods in which they are paid. Interest charges are not accrued for the periods from the date(s) of the latest interest payment(s) to the end of the financial year.

(g) Trust Funds

Trust funds administered by the municipality amounting to $18,656 are only reflected in the Trust Funds, Statement of Continuity and Balance Sheet.

2. Capital Outlay To Be Recovered In Future Years

(a) Some capital outlay to be recovered in future years does not represent a burden on general municipal revenues, as it is to be recovered in future years from other sources:

| Municipal enterprises | $318,917 | $344,754 |

(b) Capital outlays including fixed assets and the transfers of capital funds in the amount of $49,372 which have been financed from general municipal revenues of the current year, are reported on the Statement of Revenue and Expenditure.

3. Reserve Funds

During the year $7,271 in interest were credited directly to reserve funds without being recorded as revenues and expenditures of the Revenue Fund.

4. Net Long Term Liabilities

(a) The balance for net long term liabilities reported on the Balance Sheet is made up of the following:

|  | 1981 | 1980 |
|--|------|------|

Total long term liabilities incurred by the municipality including those incurred on behalf of former school boards, other municipalities and municipal enterprises and outstanding at the end of the year amount to

5. Accumulated Net Revenue (Deficit) At The End Of The Year

The balance in the revenue fund at the year end is available to reduce (to be added to) the levies of the following classes of ratepayers.

|-------------------------|------------|------------|
| General ratepayers      | $(17,287) | $(26,100) |
| School board ratepayers | 126        | 6,582      |
| County ratepayers       | 126        | 958        |

6. Charges For Net Long Term Liabilities

Total charges for the year for long term liabilities were as follows:

|                    | 1981     | 1980     |
|--------------------|----------|----------|
| Principal payments | $16,969 | $16,004 |
| Interest           | 23,170   | 8,611    |
|                    | $40,139 | $24,615 |

Of the total charges shown above $36,875 were paid from general municipal revenues of the municipality and are included in expenditure on the Statement of Revenue and Expenditure classified under the appropriate functional headings. The remaining $3,264 were recovered from municipal enterprises for which the related net long term liabilities were incurred and are not reflected in the statement.

The preceding data has been extracted from the audited 1981 Financial Report of the Village and its local boards and municipal enterprises as described in Note 1. Copies of the 1981 Financial Report are available at the Village Offices to any resident who wishes to review or analyze the financial operations of the Village in greater detail.
